NOTICE TO MARINERS.—VICTORIA.
The following Notice to Mariners is published for general information.
GEORGE TURNER, Commissioner of Trade and Customs.
Department of Trade and Customs, Melbourne, 26th June, 1891.
VICTORIA, AUSTRALIA.—WESTERN ENTRANCE TO BASS STRAITS, EAGLE NEST, OR SPLIT POINT.
Referring to Notice to Mariners published on the 6th August, 1890, notice is hereby given that on and after the 1st September, 1891, a RED and WHITE LIGHT will be EXHIBITED from a lighthouse tower built on the southern extremity of Eagle Nest or Split Point.
The lighthouse tower is of concrete, coloured white, 85ft. high, and the lantern is 280ft. above the mean level of the sea, from which will be exhibited a first order dioptric fixed red light, which should be seen in clear weather at a distance of 18 nautical miles.
The red or principal light will illuminate an arc of about 153 degrees seaward, with an arc of white light illuminating about one mile off Point Addis to the eastward and one mile off Cape Paton to the westward of the lighthouse.
An auxiliary white light, to cover a distance of three miles from the lighthouse tower, will illuminate an arc of 180deg. to seaward. This auxiliary light will be invisible to an observer 14ft. above the level of the sea until within about three miles' distance from the lighthouse.
Approximate Position—Lat. 38deg. 28min. 10sec. south, lon. 144deg. 6min. 45sec. east.
CAUTION.
The white lights are to warn mariners of their too close proximity to the shore or to the lighthouse.
A. W. MUSGROVE, Secretary Trade and Customs.
Ports and Harbours, Melbourne, 26th June, 1891.

CRITERION THEATRE NOTICE.—"The Lone Fisherman" may have nothing whatever to do with the plot of "Evangeline," but he gets there just the same.

CRITERION THEATRE. Sole Lessees and Managers, Mr. BROUGH and Mr. BOUCICAULT. Acting Manager ... H. J. Magee.

The Messrs. MACMAHON announce the Complete, Magnificent, and very Emphatic Success of the Second of the important series of engagements made by Mr. James MacMahon in America,

THE THIRD WEEK OF EVANGELINE
THE THIRD WEEK OF EVANGELINE
THE THIRD WEEK OF EVANGELINE

Commences under the most propitious auspices, for never in the history of the popular Criterion Theatre have greater numbers been nightly refused admission.

The interest in the remarkable production of EVANGELINE if possible, increases with each performance, and it may fairly be chronicled as one of the startling successes of the Australian stage.

The peculiar humour of this novel and delightful work has thoroughly caught the public's taste, and the overflowing houses of the past two weeks testify to its universal popularity.

Nothing so fine as a spectacle, so novel as a performance, so refreshing and delightful in humour, has ever been witnessed in Australia.

The superb and absolutely unique production of EVANGELINE has caught the town.

TO-NIGHT and Every Evening, Rice's beautiful EVANGELINE

FULL OPERA BAND, Directed by the Composer, Mr. EDWARD E. RICE, who has come to Australia to personally direct the production, Mr. GEO. K. FORTESCUE, the most eminent Burlesque Actor in America, and the original Katherine in "Evangeline," repeats in Australia his world-famed characterisation. Mr. JOSEPH HARRIS, the original "Lone Fisherman" of Evangeline, that quaint and curious identity, who is as familiar throughout America as Santa Claus. Miss VIRGINIA EARL, the Graceful "Gabriel." FULL OPERA BAND, CHORUS and BALLET of 60. Miss FANNIE LIDDIARD, the charming Prima Donna Contralto and the Eminent Comedian and ever-welcome favourite Mr. JOHN GOURLAY. The Box Plan at Nicholson and Co.'s.

THE LONE FISHERMAN.

THE 4th OF JULY.—At the CRITERION THEATRE TO-NIGHT, during the performance of the Representative American Opera Bouffe EVANGELINE, a Selection of American National Airs will be played by the Opera Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. RICE.

Ad Captandum Vulgus. Ecce Homo.

I thank Miss JANET ACHURCH for artistic Cabinet Photograph. I thank the one hundred and ninety ladies and gentlemen, who, by application (personal) and caligraphy, have honoured me during the past week. The result of last Saturday's advertisements. The press is a mighty lever. The pen is mightier than the sword. Quoting the words of the beautiful Evangeline—I am here to stay. Well that's a good Criterion.

Ambitious, educated Amateurs, you can be thoroughly coached and prepared for the Stage, and Engagements procured when proficient, but you must actually possess ability and be prepared to pay me well for my labour. I do not risk losing the good opinion of managers, but if you are really smart engagements are procurable.

I want a Gentleman with £300 to Manage my Melbourne Offices, unless possessed of tact, indomitable energy (like myself), and courteous manners, useless to apply. I also want a Speculator with £250 for a safe financial enterprise. My principal will invest the same amount.

Fetes, Garden Parties, At Homes, Children's Festivities supplied with every description of Amusement, distance no object. Seats booked at any place of amusement for country patrons. Clergymen, Barristers, Ms.L.A. thoroughly prepared for their arduous duties.

I file the following papers:—Bulletin, Herald, Telegraph, News, Star, Echo, Referee, Truth, Sunday Times, Melbourne Age, Evening Standard, Bohemia, Adelaide Quiz, London Era, Stage, Entre Acte, Sporting Times, Referee, Manchester Sunday Chronicle and Umpire, New York Clipper, New York Dramatic Review, South Africa, Burlesque, and Bills and Programmes from all over the world. An express message boy is in constant attendance for the convenience of my patrons.

Miss AUGUSTA DARGON, the eminent Tragic Actress. Starring engagements or Dramatic Recitals. Madame ANNETTE IVANOVA, the gifted Lyric Artiste. ALFRED J. SEARLE, Tenor Soloist, St. Andrew's Cathedral. Miss FANNY WISEMAN, Miss EDITH WYNNE, and the BLAIR SISTERS, can all be engaged through my agency. Others too numerous to mention are also on my Books.

I post each Monday SIXTY HERALDS, through the colonies, America, New York, and London, also one hundred other papers, comprising The Bulletin, News, Star, Telegraph, Sunday Times, Referee, and Truth also despatched, thus giving the benefit of Publicity to those who honour me with their business arrangements.

WHY have the Clearance Sales of NORTH ANNANDALE proved so successful in the face of the wet weather? Because the auctioneers have been fortunate enough to have instructions to sell to the highest bidder the best Building Estate within miles of Sydney. Everybody who has already purchased is pleased, and so will you be if you attend and buy at THIS DAY'S CONTINUATION SALE. The best still to be sold. Remember, every lot submitted knocked down to the highest bidder. W. PRITCHARD and SON, 100 King-street.

Sydney, June 10, 1891.

NOTICE is hereby given that Application is intended to be made to the Parliament of New South Wales during the next ensuing session thereof for leave to bring in a Bill to enable and give powers to MORT'S DOCK and ENGINEERING COMPANY, Limited, duly incorporated, to close certain streets through their property in the Borough of Balmain at Mort's Bay, being the north-east end of College-street and the north-east end of Trouton-street (now called New John-street), and to form, make, and establish a new street through property of the said Company in lieu thereof by cutting off the corner of the land of the said Company instead of the said streets meeting at right angles as at present, such new street to lead from College-street into Trouton-street (now called New John-street) through property of the said Company, and to afford increased accommodation around the Dock. The proposed alteration shortens the distance considerably for the public to travel to the ferry as well as giving a direct and shorter route for the construction of the sewer to carry off the greater portion of the storm waters of the said borough, and which alteration will benefit the said borough to the extent of some hundreds of pounds. The proposed alteration has been approved of by the Mayor and Aldermen of the said borough. And for other purposes mentioned in the said Bill.

SALE OF SHARES BY TENDER.
THE LAST CALL GOLD-MINING COMPANY, CLONCURRY, Limited.
REGISTERED UNDER THE COMPANIES ACTS 1874 AND 1888.
CAPITAL, £200,000 IN 200,000 SHARES OF £1 EACH.
Under the terms of the Contract for Sale by the Vendors to the above Company the Vendors agree to place in the hands of Trustees 21,600 fully paid up shares to be disposed of as and when the Directors of the Company shall direct, for the purpose of providing working capital for the Company until the company shall be in a position to pay a dividend. Any shares undisposed of if and when the Company shall have reached such a position to revert to the vendors or their nominees.
5000 of such fully paid up £1 shares are now offered for subscription by public tender.
Tenders will be received up to 19th July instant.
No tender for less than 50 shares will be considered.
The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.
In case of acceptance tenders at the same price will be accepted pro rata.
A deposit equal to 20 per cent. of the amount tendered must accompany each tender.
All Cheques to be made payable to the LAST CALL GOLD-MINING COMPANY CLONCURRY, Limited, only.
In the case of tenders not accepted the deposit will be returned in full.
All tenders will be opened simultaneously in the presence of the Directors and a representative of the brokers, Messrs. Jones and Black.
Payment of the balance of the amount due on accepted tenders over and above the 20 per cent. deposit must be paid by cash or marked cheque within fourteen days of notice of acceptance, and in any case in which the balance is not so paid the allotment will be cancelled and the deposit forfeited.
All tenders must be sent to Messrs. Jones and Black, Bond-street, Sydney; Messrs. J. B. Were and Sons, 78 Collins-street West, Melbourne; Messrs. Wilkinson and Harrison, King Williams-street, Adelaide; or Messrs. T. F. Groom and Co., Queen-street, Brisbane, addressed to the Directors of the Company.
Copies of the above-mentioned contract and of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company can be seen at the offices of the above-mentioned firms, or at the office of the Company's Solicitor, Mr. E. Herbert Crossman, 96 Hunter-street, Sydney.
A copy of the report on the company's property, furnished by the Mining Warden for the district to the Queensland Government, as published in the Brisbane Courier, dated 3rd June, 1891, is appended.
THE LAST CALL.—On two occasions I visited the mine and found by careful tests the whole body of conglomerate extremely rich, the prospects I took giving on my first inspection from 20z. to 12oz. from the heap at grass and in the lower workings in bottom of shaft, and in the faces of the drives and crosscuts overhead and at foot the prospects were really splendid. Assays made from stone taken from a leader running through the great bulk of the deposit gave startling results far too good to anticipate anything equal in the average of any mine yet found. The main body of this singular deposit is a granular carbonate of lime with a considerable proportion of micacious sandstone and some oxide of iron (miners' black sand). The largest of the gold consists of fine hairlike threads, not exceeding half an inch in length, diminishing in size to the smallest speck of dust. A quantity of specular and red hematite iron ore is also obtained, carrying a large percentage of gold similar in quality to that in the limestone, but the thread filaments are absent. The area of the lease is six acres, and although considerable preliminary work has been necessary, such as sinking wells, timbering, road making, &c., good progress has been made in the mine. The shaft has been sunk 200ft. and drives put in north and west, and about 100 tons of crushing stuff purchased. With a view to test the capabilities of their property the owners purpose sending a few tons to the machine at Soldier's Cap, and probably two tons will shortly be in transit to Charters Towers for treatment. Two independent tests from bulk made in Sydney gave over 36ozs. of gold and nearly 8ozs. of silver, and one in Charters Towers, in which no gold was visible, gave 40oz. gold and nearly 12oz. silver. From the leader before mentioned 2lb. weight of stone when reduced yielded 1oz. of encased in the gold. The various leads adjoining No. 1½ have struck nothing as yet; but at greater depth I consider Nos. 17 and 21, on the south, and No. 18, on the west, the properties, although it is difficult to predict where they may extend, as the whole of Martin's Creek formation presents something unique in mining, and is certainly puzzling the old-time miners of tidal mining days. The Last Call is under offer for a large sum, and should property changehands and efficient appliances be erected, the gold returns from this field will show a marked increase. About 25 men are employed on quartz, a few others prospecting around, and awaiting sun. There is one store on the field, and the first family there (women) arrived. Two allotments have been applied for and granted. There is a very good road for about 30 miles to Florence Vale, with the balance rather rugged, but doubtless in time a good road will be made by selling defects. Timber for all mining purposes is plentiful, but, unless by sinking, water will have to be conserved by dams, &c. I granted a dam site to Leahy and party, and there is a plentiful supply of good water in a well lately sunk. Rations and beef can be procured at reasonable rates.

SEIGEL'S SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S SYRUP.

SEIGEL'S SYRUP.

WE CAN ONLY SAY THAT HIS INITIALS ARE "J. D."

When a woman travels 10 miles merely to ask a few questions, we may assume that her curiosity is excited.

In the year 1883 a story went forth from Leverstock Green, Hemel Hempstead, Herts, which aroused great interest in all the region thereabout. People came from various directions to inquire into the matter; what was alleged to have occurred had to do mostly with one man. If the story turned out to be true some good was likely to come of it; if false, it would only put the community more on their guard against all sorts of wild rumours. Among the women who were bound to get at the foundation of it was one from St. Albans and a cook from Langley.

How strangely things work out in this queer world! Seven years have passed, and the facts are now to become general public for the first time. It appears that about the 1st of January, 1882, an old resident of the place above-named was said, and commonly believed, to be in a dying condition.

For five months an able and clever physician had been attending him constantly; no medical men could have done more. His ailment was decided to be gout and rheumatism, which are now held to be practically the same malady differently located.

Well, this began back in July, 1882. As time ran along the patient grew worse. The doctor's ability and experience didn't seem to count. The sufferer's ankles, feet, and hands became badly swollen. We all know this must have been a scary symptom, because that the fluids of his body (and the body is nearly all fluid any way), instead of being carried off as they naturally should be, were flowing over their channels and inundating the parts around them, just as a stream does after heavy rains.

The doctor said the danger of this state of things lay in the fact that when the water reached the heart or lungs it might end in sudden death. The cause of dropsy is the refusal of the kidneys to carry off the water. So much is plain. But what makes the kidneys strike work? We now know the reason of that. It is because they are partially paralysed by a poison in the blood arising from undigested food in the stomach. In plain English, a chronic state of indigestion and dyspepsia was responsible for results which now threatened our unknown friend's life. It was reported (and of its truth there isn't a doubt) that the abdomen was blown like a bladder on account of the water which soaked all through his flesh. In conversation a few weeks ago he said, "All my friends now looked on me as a dying man."

And reasonably enough too; for what chance is there for a man who is gradually drowning in this way? For that is what it was—drowning, and nothing else in the world. Medicine appeared to be of no use, and the physician suggested that possibly the poor man might be benefited if he could go away from home and try the baths, mineral waters, and change of scene and air. But nobody believed in that plan, and in honest truth, it is hardly likely that the wise physician believed in it himself. At all events, the idea wasn't put into practice.

About this time the patient's wife happened to be in the shop of a chemist at Hemel Hempstead, and he gave her a little book, a sort of small pamphlet, and said she might like to read it. She did read it, and found in it a full description of the very complaint that was fast sending her husband to his grave, and also the name of what was asserted to be a remedy for it. After some trouble she got him to consent to try it, and sent for a bottle. He began, and kept it up for four months, taking twenty-six bottles altogether. At the end of that time he was a well, sound man, and is so to-day. The whole neighbourhood was amazed. His recovery, when he had been looked upon as no better than a dead man, set tongues wagging all around the country. He now says, "I should not have been here now if it had not been for Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup."

Our friend requests us not to publish his full name, but says we may print his initials, which are "J. D." Address, Leverstock Green, Hemel Hempstead, Herts. He will answer letters.

THE LABOUR COMMISSION AND TRADE UNIONS.

The secretary to the late Royal Commission on strikes (Mr. Percy Meggy) has received some further information from the secretaries of trade unions in New South Wales, in answer to the circular issued before the commission closed.

Mr. George Herbert, who was one of the witnesses examined by the commission, and is secretary of the Coal Lumpers' Union, writes to say that his union was formed in 1881, and consists of 555 members, who contribute 6d a week. The benefits comprise a funeral allowance of £10, an allowance of £3 in special cases of distress, or sickness at the option of the meeting, and a strike allowance of £1 a week while the funds last. Rule 14 provides that "in the event of any dispute arising between an employer and the members of the union, the secretary or president shall be informed with as little delay as possible. Work shall not cease; but the aforesaid officers shall await upon the employer and use every endeavour to settle the dispute amicably, failing which they shall call together the executive of unions to study the situation and arrive at some means of settlement. Work shall never be stopped until every means of settling a dispute amicably are exhausted." The very first rule provides that "in no case shall a union member work with a non-union man or for less than the stipulated rate of wages; but every union man shall assist (as far as lies in his power) any employer to procure union labour to do his work at all times and places." There is no rule relating to conciliation or arbitration.

Mr. Thomas Dix, the secretary of the Newcastle branch, No. 2 district, N.S.W., of the Amalgamated Miners' Association of Australia, states that his union was established prior to 1860, and consists of 5000 members, who contribute 4½d a week. The benefits comprise £1 a week accident allowance, from £10 upwards funeral allowance, charitable collections to widows and others, and a strike allowance of £1 a week. Rule 30 provides that "no lodge in this association shall give notice to come out on strike until their grievance has been laid before the committee of management to consult on the subject further. In every case before a strike is determined upon the committee of management shall offer to the employer or employers the option of settling the dispute by arbitration or conciliation. Failing any settling they shall have full power to take whatever steps they consider necessary in compliance with the rules of the association." Rule 31 provides that "no lodge in this association shall enter upon a strike before a ballot of the members of the association has been taken, and a clear majority of the voters recorded be in favour of a strike; and no general strike shall take place unless a ballot has been taken, and there be two-thirds of the voters recorded in favour of the same. The conducting of negotiations in any dispute shall be under the direction of the committee of management." In answer to question 7, "Are your members allowed under your rule to work with non-unionists?" Mr. Dix states that there is no rule, but "all hewers must be members of the association."

Mr. J. B. Nicholson, general secretary of the Illawarra branch of the Amalgamated Miners' Association of Australia, has forwarded a copy of the amended rules of his association, as promised, from which it appears that no lodge can give notice of strike until the grievance of which complaint is made has been laid before the delegate board, which shall in every case offer to the employer or employers the option of settling the dispute by conciliation or arbitration. Failing any settlement, they shall have full power to take whatsoever steps they consider necessary in compliance with the rules. Rule 30 provides that no lodge shall enter upon a strike before a ballot has been taken, and there is a clear majority in favour of a strike; and no general strike shall take place unless two-thirds of the votes are in favour of the same. The conducting of negotiations in any dispute shall be under the direction of the delegate board. Rule 31 provides that in case of a strike or turnout having received the sanction of the association, each lodge shall contribute a fair proportionate share to their support, according to the number in each lodge, such support to be raised by percentage levies on the gross earnings of members of the association and authorised by the delegate board, members on strike to be exempt from special levies made on other members of the association. Last year a permanent relief and accident friendly society was established by the Illawarra miners, the entrance fee being fixed at 2s 6d for full members and 1s 6d for half members, i.e., under 18 years of age) with a monthly contribution of 1s for full member, and 6d for half members. Relief for accident is only given for such as happen in connection with employment, in which case £1 a week is given for the first six months, 15s for the second six months, and 10s a week (up to 26) for so long as a member shall be unable to follow his employment. Half members only receive half the sums named. Permanently disabled members, so long as they are unable to obtain an ordinary livelihood at any employment, receive 15s a week, and half members 7s 6d. In case of a fatal accident the widow receives an allowance of £10 and 10s a week, and each child 2s 6d a week till the age of 14 for boys, and 16 for girls. The relatives of each unmarried full member having no dependent relatives chargeable to the fund, receive £25, or of each unmarried half member £12.

Mr. James E. Phelan, secretary of the New South Wales Journeymen Confectioners' Society, forwards a copy of his revised rules, and states that the society was established in 1889, the subscription fee being fixed at 1s per month. "The benefits derived from membership," writes Mr. Phelan, "are purely trade ones, such as the upholding of a standard minimum wage—which we have succeeded in obtaining since our formation—the regulation of apprentices and improvers in relation to the number of tradesmen, and the adoption of eight hours." Rule 17 provides that this society shall exhaust all civil means, such as arbitration, conference, &c., in case of dispute between employer and employees, before it pledges itself to support a strike; and no strike shall take place without one week's notice being given through the secretary of this society to the employers interested. When a strike is once determined on, the funds of the society are drawn on for the purpose of assisting members in proportion as may be determined at a general or special meeting of the society. With regard to members working with non-unionists, "nothing definite," observes Mr. Phelan, "is clearly laid down, but it is generally understood our members would refuse to work with non-members."

Mr. S. Sloan, of the Gardeners and Gardeners Assistants Union, writes as follows:—"Eureka-street, North Sydney, June 24, 1891. To the secretary of the Royal Commission on Strikes. Sir,—In answer to yours of May 25, requesting information regarding the above union, I am instructed to inform you that I cannot give any information to the Commission on Strikes."

REVIEWS.

Speeches and Lectures delivered in Australia by the late Charles Badham, D.D., Professor of Classics in the Sydney University. Edited, with an Introduction, by Professor BUTLER. Dymock: Sydney. 1890.

This interesting volume, a copy of which we have just received for the purposes of a notice, has been judiciously—and we are probably not far out in adding, affectionately — compiled by a favourite disciple and friend of the late teacher, from the best of the obiter dicta of Professor Badham during the period of his connection with the Sydney University. The book is published by the subscriptions of a number of old students and admirers. The friendship of students and scholars is a graceful thing, and fruitful in graceful touches such as this. We are probably right in regarding this memorial volume, not only as a repository of words spoken by the most popular of its professors for the instruction and encouragement of the students of the University, as the preface puts it, but also as a tribute to the memory of one who possessed in a singular degree the power of inspiring those affectionate relationships, touched brightly with enthusiasm, which the stories of the lives of famous masters and teachers and their pupils have made elsewhere pleasantly familiar. Such a favoured lot was that of the late Professor Badham, "whose memory," we read in the closing lines of this genial and appreciative memoir, "is, and long will be, cherished by many who learned from him to admire and love all that is noble and honourable in literature and in life."

The task of preparing this memorial has fallen to competent hands. Professor Butler had the advantage of long association and familiar friendship with the late Dr. Badham, and the memoir with which the lectures are introduced is enriched by many happy personal traits and touches as the result of that association. It takes the form of a biographical sketch, in which the familiar facts of the career under notice are duly set forth for record. Dr. Badham came to Sydney with his family, it will be remembered, in April, 1867, bringing with him a European reputation for scholarship; and speaking of the impression he created on arrival Professor Butler says:—

> He had the advantage of a magnificent voice, over which he had a thorough command, and a rare mastery of gesture and expression, and the higher charm of great strength and felicity of diction. He spoke rather slowly, with due emphasis, and his finely-turned periods flowed from his lips (so, at least, his younger hearers thought) like choicest music. He was always received with the greatest enthusiasm, and the majority of the public, who had to take his great scholarship on trust, very soon made up their minds that he was the greatest master of English it had ever been their privilege to hear, at least in our quarter of the world.

It would be presumptuous to retouch the portrait of the late Professor given in these pages, and the reviewer who is competent to appreciate the writer's labour of love will hesitate before he attempts to reproduce it by a mosaic of quotations. It is enough to say that the story of Dr. Badham's work both within the University and beyond its walls is sympathetically told, from the date of the brilliant reception-dinner at which the then Premier, Sir James Martin, presided, down to that memorable banquet—valedictory as it proved—offered the venerable Professor by his old graduates in May, 1883, on the occasion of his 71st birthday. Dr. Badham's speech on that occasion, in reply to the toast of his health proposed by his friend Mr. Dalley, is among the most interesting features of the contents of this delightful volume. "When Dr. Badham began his work at our University," we go on to read here, "the number of students had not reached 40, and after about 18 months' experience of the colony, growing impatient of the narrow circumscription of his sphere of usefulness, he made an endeavour to reach those students throughout the country who were trying to cultivate their minds amidst grievous obstacles, and those who would try to do so if any encouragement were afforded them." The sentence seems to strike the keynote of its subject's influence in this country, and of his future labours. That letter is printed here in which he invited students all over the colony—school teachers, mechanics, clerks, and others—to agree with him on Latin and French exercise books and to translate as much as they could, and at the end of each quarter to send the results to him for correction, with any questions they might like to ask. In this way he proposed to extend the benefits of the University's teaching to the remotest limits of the colony; and Mr. Dalley was able to write of Dr. Badham after his death that "he spent, years ago, night after night in correcting the exercises of humble correspondents in different and distant parts of the interior, who forwarded to him at regular intervals their crude essays in Greek and Latin, in German and French." His efforts to found bursaries for poor scholars, and the journeys undertaken to that end in 1875, are remembered here; and this record is happily rounded off with the letter of Dr. Badham to the S. M. Herald of September 1, 1883, in which he advocated the present system of evening lectures for those preparing for degrees who might be unable to attend the morning classes, and for which Mr. G. H. Reid, the then Minister for Public Instruction, procured the sanction of Parliament. All through Dr. Badham's career he was unremitting in his efforts to bring the University system into touch with the social conditions of the colony, and the speeches given are full of expressions of his "strong desire for the spread of culture among all trades and ranks of labour."

The addresses printed here include those delivered at the University Commemorations of 1867-8-9, 1870-1-2-3-4-5-6 and 9; and there are also, the non-critical portion of his "Adhortatio ad Iuventutem Academicam Sydneiensem," written in 1869; the address to the Art Society of New South Wales in 1871; a Tasmanian speech, 1872; a lecture to the University Debating Society in 1875; the letter to Mr. Dalley on Primary education, 1876, in which he recommended the doing away with the old Council of Education and the appointment of a responsible Minister; an article on University studies, from the University Review; the first and second lectures on Dante, delivered in aid of the Kendall Fund, in 1882; a lecture on Shakespeare and Milton, 1883; the speech at the banquet on his seventy-first birthday, 1883, and an address delivered at the Sydney Public High School in 1883. These addresses, so collected, form what may almost literally be described as a speaking portrait of the mind of the man. There was so much individuality and character about him that it could not fail to find vigorous expression in his speech, and these pages are consequently racy and crisp with suggestions of his strongly-marked personality. There is a sinewy ease about these addresses which is singularly characteristic of the speaker,—resulting, it is needless to add, in refreshingly vigorous reading, which certainly cannot too often be said about reprints of old lectures. But there is so much in these pages to illustrate the growth of culture and the social conditions and development of the period they cover, and the speaker at all points displays such a liberal and broad-minded sympathy with the straining impulses of the young democracy, that the volume is as valuable as a contribution to history as the record of the labours of a remarkable man whom posterity must regard as in the highest sense of the word a nation-builder. And here, again, one shrinks from the attempt to mangle the matter of this volume with quotations. The speeches themselves are so broad in their treatment of the subjects chosen, so lucid in comment, and so truly liberal in sentiment and tone, that they carry their own message. On the very first page of his first address at Commemoration in 1867, for example, we find him speaking thus of the University and its academical work:—

> If to found a city be a great and noble work, much more is it a great and noble work to found that which gives society its dignity and permanence. If this be true in all cases, much more is it true in the case of a colony gradually growing to the proportions and expanding into the conditions of a great nation. I have said that to give civil society its dignity and its permanence is the peculiar function of a University. Although industry and the spirit of adventure may bring civilisation to unknown shores—as in this particular instance it was brought here—the spirit of industry and the spirit of adventure cannot create civilisation; neither can they arrest its inevitable decay if the conditions of its existence are not carefully maintained. By the same arts, by the same studies, by the same devotion of the higher principles and faculties in man which created it, must it always and for ever be maintained.

For 17 years Dr. Badham laboured to keep that view of the University and its function before the public, as a counteractive of the merely money-making and material spirit which must always be the characteristic of young countries where the material conditions have yet to form. It was his object to temper pioneer work with that learning and love of letters which soften manners and civilise the public sentiment. To the citizens of Hobart he spoke thus in 1872:—

> If you wish that the professions should not degenerate into trades, if you wish to have sermons that you can listen to without disgust, physic that you can swallow with some hope of amendment, law to which you can have recourse with some chance of being righted; or if you (like us in New South Wales) have that daily yearning for a Legislative body that shall deserve the august name of Parliament, and for legislators alive to the dignity of their office, and not the mere expounders of the politics of a mob; make your sons scholars, and let your daughters help them in the endeavour.

Probably Dr. Badham would have been the last to restrict a credit for the love of learning to those young men who have passed their examinations at a University. He is generalising here, and at a stage when it was almost necessary to make out a case for letters it was necessary to generalise. In another place we find him protesting against the tendency to set a cash price on scholarship in this fashion, and make an industrial workshop of the University, out of which professional men might be turned, so to say, machine-made to order. At our own Commemoration in 1877, he said—

> I cannot conceal from myself the tendency which is manifesting itself in more than one quarter—I mean the tendency to turn this University straightway to account; to adopt it as a means . . . . . to turn that which was intended by William Charles Wentworth and all his compeers to be an establishment for education, into a mere machinery for bringing out of the bowels of the earth the riches they contain, and turning them into marketable cash. This, I may say, is not the mission of the University. . . . I say that knowledge is one thing, and the mere conveyance of so many facts is another. There is the gage that I fling down, and let them take it up who list.

It is scarcely necessary to say that we have materialised this ideal since that time; and, indeed, this was one of the points in which Dr. Badham was always somewhat misunderstood. Perhaps it is hardly worth arguing now. In another place we find the Professor (Commemoration, 1872) breaking a lance for his beloved Greek, and in favour of its retaining a prominent though optional place in the programme of studies. The lecture concludes with a passage that won admiration at the time,—

> As I have full trust in the students, so I have full trust in the attractiveness of the language itself; and I do not believe that anyone who has once set his foot within the magic circle wherein he can call up the glories of the Attic stage, or the burning harangues of those who "wielded at will that fierce democraty," when he can bid Homer be his minstrel and Aristophanes his jester; when he can confer with Plato on all the questions presented by man, by nature, and by Deity; will skulk away into some by-path because it offers an easier access to his degree.

But alas! for the enthusiasm of the Professor, and the practical merits of the question as between letters and the commercial instinct in a community like this, how many of the hundreds of students who have passed through the lecture halls of the University since it was inaugurated, are able to handle the Greek, or even the more difficult Latin authors like this; or can make Homer their minstrel, and Aristophanes their jester, without so severe a mental strain that both the jokes and the minstrelsy will evaporate in the mental heat engendered by the friction of the effort?

All these Commemoration addresses testify to the same interest in the higher educational work of the University, and Dr. Badham is especially severe in one of them on what be regarded as the lapse of the Melbourne University. His address at the opening of the Art Society is worth reading for its own sake. The address to the University Debating Society is an amusing but vigorous impeachment of slipshod English, though some might think the Professor now and then rather hypercritical, and perhaps a little unmindful of the tyrannical part conventional usage plays in determining the form and use of words. On this line of argument, however, an apology might be entered for any eccentricity or solecism. The two lectures on Dante are two thoughtfully critical papers, and his address on Shakespeare and Milton belongs to the same category. Dr. Badham's speech at the banquet in 1883 has a melancholy interest as a kind of farewell to those who had grown up under his training as students of the University. The occasion touched him, and the old teacher tasted to the full the graciousness of the compliment. Speaking of the motive that prompted it, he said:—

> Was it some reminiscence of Thucydides, and the saying that the love of honour is that which alone is incapable of decay? Or was it your own Shakespeare who came whispering to you that when a man is in the sere and yellow leaf he naturally desires that which should accompany age, as honour, love, obedience, and friends? Or was it the divination of the heart which led you to think generously of that man who has reached such a period that the future becomes a rather narrow sort of place for him to go upon, and he turns his back and looks upon the past, where his fancy and imagination may expatiate at large? When the real birthday, which you are now celebrating in a kind of effigy, arrived, I began to think seriously, What have I done? Have I left any mark, or am I an impostor and a swindler? And I have wondered over the names of old students, and why I have never heard of them; but, as I strained my eyes, I saw through these 16 years all the students, and by the magic of your benevolence, I was again face to face with those who had sat and listened to me.

These are touching words. The old scholar passed away within six months of his speaking them, and the last lines of the memoir by Professor Butler are full of kindly reminiscences. He was not, we read, like Scaliger, who, as Mark Pattison tells us, abhorred teaching, but rather like Chaucer's clerk of Oxenforde, for—

> Gladly wolde he lerne, and gladly teche.

He had "an enthusiasm which old age did not dim, fine taste, sound judgment, brilliant wit, marvellous fertility and felicity of illustration, and all set off by a blended dignity and charm of manner which held his young hearers captive. No one who has ever heard him will ever forget the trembling voice and faltering accents with which he read Plato's story of the last hours of Socrates, or the chorus in the Agamemnon which tells of the sacrifice of Iphigeneia, or Thucydides' pathetic narrative of the end of the Athenian expedition to Sicily." It is doubtless well within the truth that "as for Professor Badham's lectures, they were probably in many ways as great an intellectual treat as could be got in any classroom in our generation;" and it might be difficult to convey a better general idea of the character of the man than that given in these words:—

> Dr. Badham was a man of lofty character, actuated by a high sense of duty, full of scorn (which some thought he too freely expressed) for meanness, trickery, and every form of dishonesty; generous in a very great degree, candid, quick to take offence, but most placable. He was, too, a man of brilliant wit, rare command of language, varied knowledge of life and art, of the most polished and refined manners. Mr. Dalley speaks, in the notice I have already referred to, of his "marvellous gifts as a brilliant member of society. No one (he adds) was more fitted to adorn and delight the most cultivated circles, and no one more keenly appreciated the pleasures of refined social intercourse." Sir Theodore Martin, in the dedication of his "Catullus" to Dr. Badham, has happily described
> The lightning gleam that lit
> His eye before each burst of wit.
> And his talk so rich
> With fancy, feeling, thought, and lore,
> Where learning graced with playful art
> The higher wisdom of the heart.

Dr. Badham died on February 27, 1884, in his seventy-first year, almost immediately after writing a "Vale, in æternum vale!" with trembling hand, to Professor Cobet, his old friend of his post-graduate days of nearly fifty years before. This memorial volume which, by the way, is illustrated by a fine steel engraving of a portrait by Newman, will do good service in recording the words and labours of so notable a man.

RAILWAY MANAGEMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have always understood that the train service in this colony is regulated by the commissioners for the comfort and convenience of the general public, and is not subject to political influence. In the face of the facts I desire to mention the incorrectness of any such theory will, I think, become obvious. It is advertised that every Saturday a train leaves Gundagai for Cootamundra at 1.30 p.m. This train is supposed to reach Cootamundra in time to enable passengers desirous of travelling south-west to catch the paper train running to Wagga and Albury. Upon other days, in order to get to Wagga or Albury by rail residents of this district must leave Gundagai at 5.35 p.m., remain in Cootamundra for the night, and proceed by the express or mail on the following morning. Naturally, therefore, the Saturday train is much patronised.

Last Saturday I left Tumut for Gundagai about 10 a.m., intending to catch the 1.30 train at Gundagai. The object of my journey was to consult with and brief a barrister in an important case of arson which was to be tried at Wagga on the following Monday. The whole of the witnesses in this and two other cases (some 25 in number) went to Gundagai, expecting, like myself, to reach Wagga about 6 o'clock the same evening. On arriving at Gundagai, I found to my surprise and disgust that the stationmaster had received instructions to keep the train back until 6 o'clock. I interviewed the stationmaster and inquired the reason of this sudden alteration, but he was unable to enlighten me. The result was that I had to remain in Cootamundra all night, and did not arrive in Wagga until Sunday. Fortunately, my client was acquitted; but had it been otherwise it would have been largely owing to counsel's being unable to give the case the consideration and attention it required, owing to the delay of our local train, which I say was most unreasonable.

I am, &c., FRANK TAYLOR.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY, JULY 3.

NUNN V. BOROUGH OF REDFERN (PART HEARD).

Mr. O'Connor and Mr. J. L. Campbell, instructed by Messrs. Urquhart and Steel, appeared for the plaintiff; and the Attorney-General (Mr. G. B. Simpson, Q.C.), and Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by Mr. W. H. Pigott, for the defendants. This was an action brought by William Nunn against the Borough of Redfern to recover compensation for injury done to his property owing, as alleged, to the borough having so improperly, carelessly, and negligently constructed and maintained certain drains and sewers that his property was flooded, and he not only lost the rents from such property for a considerable time, but had to expend a large amount of money in repairs. Damages were laid at £1000. The defendants filed a plea of not guilty.

The evidence on behalf of the plaintiff closed on the previous day, and a considerable amount of evidence was called for the defendant borough to show that provision had been made to carry off 2 inches of rainfall per hour, and that they could not be expected to provide against phenomenal rainfall. It was also sought to show that the injury done to the plaintiff's property was due to his own neglect in building upon a place which was liable to be flooded without constructing proper foundations or damp courses.

The case was not concluded.

FRYER V. GRAY (PART HEARD).

Mr. Coffey, instructed by Mr. F. B. Wilkinson, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Barton, Q.C., and Mr. Pring, instructed by Messrs. Want and Marshall, for the defendant. This was an action brought by Richard Fryer against William Gray, to recover damages for a false and malicious libel alleged to have been uttered by the defendant. The plaintiff's case was that in December last he was the managing director and chairman of the Oakey Park Coal-mining Company, Lithgow, and in that month a special meeting of the directors was called in reference to a contract which plaintiff had entered into, or was about to enter into, with the Government, for a supply of coal from the mine. The special meeting was called because some of plaintiff's co-directors would not agree to the terms. Mr. Fryer was in the chair, and a discussion arose about the contract, when defendant said, referring to the plaintiff, "You do not keep proper accounts; you sent coal up West and did not give any account of it to the company, and therefore we cannot put any dependence upon you, and we won't allow you to handle a penny of the company's money." Plaintiff complained that his credit and reputation had been injured by this statement, which inferred that he had neglected his duties and so forfeited the confidence of his co-directors. Damages were laid at £2000. The defendant pleaded not guilty.

The plaintiff was called, and after detailing the circumstances connected with the formation of the company, said that on the 11th December a special meeting of the directors was called, when he expressed an opinion that his management had been unduly interfered with, and he would not be responsible for the guarantee bond. Gray, who was present, used the expressions complained of, and he cautioned him and said he would give him a chance of proving what he said, and Gray replied that plaintiff could do so. There was no justification for the defendant's statement, as the accounts were duly kept, and he attributed his statement to malicious motives. Defendant had every opportunity of checking the accounts. Jonathan Vincent, one of the directors, who was present at the meeting question said he heard Gray say that he would not allow Fryer to handle the company's money, and that he had been sending coal West without giving an account of it. Fryer cautioned him, and Gray said that he would not trust him any longer. P. H. Sullivan, solicitor for the company, also gave evidence as to what took place at the meeting of December 11, and as to the manner in which the business of the company was conducted.

For the defence, Mr. Bragg, formerly secretary of the company, was called and denied that defendant said that plaintiff was not fit to be trusted with the company's money; about a fortnight after that he was at a meeting of the directors, when plaintiff received notice that his appointment was at an end, but that was not in consequence of anything that was said by defendant; the reason was that plaintiff had gone to the bank and stopped the company's credit; after his dismissal plaintiff still continued to go to the mine, and the company in consequence went to the Equity Court to obtain an injunction against him. The defendant, upon being called, said that he never uttered a syllable against the plaintiff's honesty, and never believed anything against him. At the meeting in December fault was found with the plaintiff for stopping the credit of the company at the bank; as to a Government contract, the company never entered into one, and therefore nothing could have been said against plaintiff about it.

The evidence on both sides was concluded, and the further hearing was adjourned till Monday next.

No. 3 Jury Court.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice WINDEYER and a jury of four.)

O'BRIEN V. THE AUSTRALASIAN INVESTMENT COMPANY, LIMITED.

Mr. Ralston (instructed by Mr. T. O'Brien) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Barton, Q.C., and Mr. Delohery (instructed by Mr. G. Russell-Jones) for the defendants. The plaintiff, Lucius O'Brien, sued the Australasian Investment Company, Limited, for breach of agreement. In consideration that plaintiff would borrow from the defendants the sum of £12,000 and would pay the defendants interest on the same at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, and would execute a mortgage of certain property to the defendants to secure repayments of the sum, the plaintiffs alleged that defendants promised to lend him the sum of £12,000. Plaintiff pleaded that he was always ready and willing to borrow the sum from the defendants, but the defendants afterwards refused to lend him the money. He was put to a good deal of trouble and expense in procuring the loan from other persons, and was obliged to pay higher interest. The property in question comprised 62 houses and a shop at Ultimo, which the plaintiff recently purchased and which he was desirous of mortgaging to the defendant company. The defence was, that the company did not promise to lend the money as alleged, and it was also pleaded that the plaintiff refused to give the defendants certain necessary particulars relating to the tenants and the taxes on the property. Plaintiff was cross-examined with the view of showing that at the time he applied for the loan he had not purchased the property, but had only obtained the right of purchase. Mr. Barton applied for a nonsuit on the ground that the agreement proved was not the same as the agreement declared upon, and secondly, on the fact that the plaintiff had not a title to the property on which mortgage was to have been given, all that he had being the right to enforce an agreement by which he could purchase the property. By direction of his Honor plaintiff was nonsuited.

HAMILTON V. THOMPSON AND SONS.

Mr. Ralston, instructed by Mr. G. B. Smith, appeared for the plaintiff, and Dr. R. M. Sly, instructed by Mr. Joseph Thompson, for the defendants.

James Hamilton sued T. J. Thompson and Sons for the recovery of £800, damages for breach of agreement. Plaintiff stated that he employed the defendants, as shareholders, to purchase for him 324 shares in the Raub Australian Syndicate Company; 500 shares in the Bonang Gold-mining Company; 160 shares in the Imperial Broken Hill Silver-mining Company, and 500 shares in Marshall's Brewery Company, which they did agree to hold for him. It was alleged by plaintiff that instead of retaining the shares as agreed, defendants sold them without the plaintiff's authority, whereby plaintiff was deprived of the profit he would otherwise have made. The defence was, that the plaintiff did not pay the purchase money of the shares, and that defendants only sold them after due notice to the plaintiff. They also stated that the contract was subject to the rules of the Stock Exchange, by which if the purchaser did not pay the purchaser's broker could sell, and that plaintiff did not pay, and defendants sold. After hearing the evidence, the jury returned a verdict for the defendants.

ARDILL V. GRANT AND OTHERS.

Mr. Wilfred Blackett, instructed by Mr. S. F. Blackmore, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. J. H. Want, Q.C., with Mr. G. H. Reid, instructed by Messrs. Slattery and Heydon, appeared for the defendants.

This was an action for libel in which George Edward Ardill, director of the Home of Hope, Stanley-street, Newtown, secretary of the Sydney Rescue Work Society, and secretary of the Aborigines' Protection Society, sued John Grant, James Murphy, Edward Dunn, proprietors of the Australian Workman, the official organ of the Trades and Labour Council of New South Wales, and Harry Wilkinson, publisher of the said paper, for £2000 damages for printing certain grave charges against the plaintiff in relation to his conduct, management, and control of the Home of Hope.

His HONOR said he had been considering the question of the admissibility of the evidence relating to events which occurred seven years ago. He had not ruled that this evidence should be excluded, but simply intimated that he did not think it should be admitted. He did not want to see more time wasted than was absolutely necessary.

Mr. Want said it would save a great deal of time if his Honor would rule that witnesses upon events occurring six or seven years ago could not be called.

His HONOR said there was not the slightest allusion in that article to events seven years ago, and mentioned that this question of evidence had been dealt with in the case of Trotter and Bennett, in Sir James Martin's time.

Mr. Want said he took it that his Honor ruled that witnesses could not be called about matters seven years ago.

His HONOR said there were general allegations that the plaintiff had embezzled certain moneys, but there was nothing in the article referring to matters seven years ago. He did not want to do anything that could by any possibility be construed into burking anything that could go before the jury.

After some further argument the cross-examination of Ardill was proceeded with. The witness said he did not remember that a sum of £100 more than was shown in the books had been given by Mrs. Brown; questioned as to the accusation that a sunshade purchased for an inmate named Lucy Ford had been appropriated by Mrs. Ardill, witness said that there was an entry in Mrs. Ardill's handwriting in one of the books of a pair of shoes 3s 9d and an umbrella 6s for Lucy Ford; an entry of 10s in the books was a donation to the Home by Lucy Ford after she left; in the case of an inmate named Sneezing he had not gone to her employers after she left the Home to try to get her first week's wages; that related to five years ago. Witness was questioned at some length about certain erasures in one of the books, which he explained; he denied that the donation of £63 by Mrs. W. C. Brown in 1884 would have been left out of the balance-sheet had the clerk (Poole) not drawn his attention to it; the donation of £63 by Mrs. Brown had evidently been put in after the book had been made up; he did not remember that the book had been made up for some time before Poole had reminded him of the £63, and that then it was put in at the top; the balance-sheet would not have gone without the £63 had Poole not drawn attention to the omission, for it would have been seen to by the auditors; he kept a bank account; he had not asked Mrs. Brown to pay by cash and not by cheque; he was not quite sure whether he could turn up a butt of receipts showing a receipt for £63; he had entered the amounts of £50 and £63 as donations, but two years afterwards he was informed that they were really collections; the committee was perfectly willing that he should provision himself from the Home; he did not do so except when there was an ample amount of provisions sent in for the inmates and something extra; when any good things were sent in, such as fish or fruit, they were supposed to be at his pleasure, and were divided; his opinion was that if there was plenty of fish or fruit he should have some of it, but if there was only enough for the inmates he should not touch it. In reply to the question whether the good things sent to the Home went to him while the inferior things went to the inmates, witness said no inferior things were sent to the Home; his own table was the same as that of the Home, except in what he purchased himself; he had not been in the habit of picking out the best things for himself and the workers, the inmates getting the refuse; he could not swear that it had not been done by other people, but he had had nothing to do with it; the matron superintended the distribution of the food; the balance-sheet showed the expenditure to be:—Rent, £641 15s 11d; salaries, £485 5s 10d; printing and advertising, £121 7s 9d; incidental, £128 14s 5d; furnishing, £84 8s 9d; interest, £24; building fund, £70 10s; total, £1556 2s 10d. The receipts, excluding donations in kind, amounted to £1972 3s 5d.

Re-examined by Mr. Blackett: There were considerable donations in kind, representing considerable sums of money, which were distributed by the organisation; he had himself contributed to the starting of the organisations with which he was connected, and the institutions were indebted to him in a considerable sum; on September 30, 1889, he was a creditor to the amount of £527 5s 5d, and he offered to write off £227 5s 5d, leaving an indebtedness of £300; he did not get any interest on that money; this indebtedness had been running on for some years, and he had made no charges for it; each of the inmates was expected to come to the prayer-meetings, and they attended willingly; he had always given receipts for subscriptions; in 1883 there was no committee of management, but there were auditors; these organisations had arisen out of the Blue Ribbon Army; on Good Friday, 1884, a dinner had been given at the Oddfellows' Hall, Castlereagh-street, to 300 poor children, at the request of Mrs. Brown, who had given £10 for the purpose.

Mrs. Louisa Ardill, wife of the plaintiff, who resided last year at the Home of Hope, deposed that she gave advice to the matrons, gave out the work to the women, and saw about the girls' work; clothing was provided at the Home for the inmates to wear if needed; she remembered Lucy Ford; her sunshade had been stolen with two others; witness's sunshade was stolen first; afterwards Lucy Ford got a situation, and, before going, she asked witness to buy her a new umbrella and a pair of slippers; witness bought the articles and gave them to her; afterwards witness found Lucy Ford's umbrella at the Jubilee Registry Office; witness told Ford that if she did not want the two umbrellas she (witness) would keep one herself and pay for it; Ford left the new umbrella and took her old one, as she said she would want a good one when she visited Sydney; she told witness to use it herself, to which witness replied, "No, thank you, but I'll take it to-day, as it is raining;" the umbrella was now at the Home, and witness had reminded Lucy Ford about it; she occupied five rooms at the Home, and had never occupied more; Miss Williams was a worker, and shared a room with one of the inmates; there were 30 other rooms, and there had always been sufficient room for the inmates, and never any complaints about crowding; in regard to the accusation that the Ardill family had appropriated a tin of Arnott's biscuits intended for the inmates, witness said they were given by Miss Pemell, and witness had taken them down to the crêche, where they were given to the children; it was not true that she had taken them into her own apartments, where they had been used up by the Ardill family; she knew of no 9d tea being purchased for the inmates, and it was quite untrue that tea of superior quality sent to the Home for the inmates had been used by the Ardill family while inferior tea had been supplied to the inmates; there was no truth whatever in the accusation; the matron would usually receive fruit sent to the Home of Hope, and she would put it in the store to be used by the inmates at their meals; it was quite untrue that she appropriated the fruit to her own use; at Christmas time so much fruit was sent that they could not use it all, and some bananas had to be thrown away, when there was no surplus food out of that sent for the inmates, witness purchased food for her family at her own expense; it was quite untrue that her family were using butter paid for out of the laundry money, while the rest of the inmates were using dripping; there was not the slightest ground for the assertion that her husband paid too much attention to Miss Williams; she and her husband lived very happily together; she often took part in the amusements at the Home; there was nothing rowdy or improper in them, and there was no loud screaming; she also attended the prayer-meetings; they were appreciated by those who took part in them, and the inmates did not attend them in a spirit of mockery; Mr. Ardill always addressed Miss Williams as Miss Williams; the inmates were called by their Christian names.

Cross-examined by Mr. Want: Even in their own private rooms they addressed Miss Williams as Miss Williams, and witness only occasionally addressed her as "Gertie;" in reference to Lucy Ford's umbrella, witness said that as the old umbrella had been found, and as Lucy Ford did not want the new one, witness would keep it and pay for it herself; the price of that umbrella was entered in the books of the Home in witness's writing.

Mrs. Maria Glass, matron of the Home of Hope in September last, deposed that she left it a few months ago; during the time she had been there she had been Home matron, and had to look after the women and the stores; she had no recollection of saying to Mrs. Radcliffe that Mrs. Ardill was "an old fraud;" Mrs. Radcliffe had told her that Mr. Ardill was not a suitable man to have as manager of the Home; Mrs. Radcliffe did not seem to be in sympathy with the working of the Home; she said if it were worked properly there would be a change in the Home; she never saw anything wrong at the amusements held in the Home, nor was there any loud screaming; Mr. Ardill told her that he had heard that Hannah Stuart's room was untidy, and he, in her company, inspected it; they found one or two articles of linen lying about, and a custard tart wrapped up in a blanket; Stuart remonstrated, and said it was not the correct thing for a man to go in and inspect a girl's bedroom; while witness was at the Home it was well conducted, and sufficient food was supplied to the inmates.

Cross-examined by Mr. Reid: Mr. Ardill was very often at the Home, and helped in the entertainments at the Home; the entertainments were pretty frequent; there were, occasionally, times when the inmates had to sleep on the floor; the numbers varied very much; Mr. Ardill kept the key of the principal store where the contributions of food were kept; witness had the key of a small subsidiary store which was supplied by Mr. Ardill from the larger store; when witness was away the Ardills or Mrs. Radcliffe would receive the contributions; witness received her meals separately from the inmates, and so did Mrs. Ardill; the inmates started work at half-past 8 or 9 in the morning, and went on till 5 in the evening, and they were not unduly worked; Hannah Stuart was very cross about the visit to her room.

Re-examined by Mr. Blackett: The big storeroom of which the plaintiff kept the key was used to store provisions for the whole of the institutions.

Mrs. Isabella Walker, one of the workers at the Home, deposed to the tin of biscuits being given to the children at the crêche; she used to attend the prayer meetings twice a week, and sometimes more often; she had been a worker for the institution for 5 or 6 years; the prayer meetings were properly carried on, and, so far as she could judge, they did good; the amusements were always conducted becomingly.

William Charles Perrett, in charge of the Discharged Prisoners' Mission, deposed to having been employed at the Home of Hope; part of his work was to go round collecting donations; he frequently received fruit, and he never knew of any being thrown away except once, when some bananas were thrown away which had been received in an overripe condition; the fruit was given to the cook for the use of the inmates; Mrs. Radcliffe had not been friendly with Mr. Ardill, or with the management of the Home; she had complained of not having had more control; he was present at the open-air meeting when Mr. Ardill was charged with having told men during the strike to go and "blackleg" on the wharfs; Mr. Ardill always denied it, and on one occasion he offered to forfeit £5 if anyone could prove it.

Miss Gertrude Williams, niece of the plaintiff, deposed that she had been employed for five and a half years in connection with the Sydney Rescue Work Society, and latterly as collector; since the Home of Hope was opened she had lived there; she knew Mrs. Radcliffe, and on one occasion she had got some groceries for her; Mrs. Radcliffe gave her 10s to get them; she left her meeting early and went to Anthony Hordern and Sons' establishment, and bought a pair of gloves; afterwards she purchased 7s worth of groceries, took them home to Mrs. Radcliffe, and gave her 3s change; it was not true that she told Mrs. Radcliffe she had not a penny in the world; 2s had on one occasion been spent on cab fare to catch a train, to take two children from the Home to Liverpool; she got the 2s from Mrs. Radcliffe; it was not true that any impropriety had ever taken place at the amusements in the Home; the plaintiff always addressed her as Miss Williams, and not as "Gertie, dear."

Cross-examined by Mr. Reid: Mrs. Ardill was witness's adopted aunt; she came out from England with Mrs. Ardill, and for 5½ years she had been collector of subscriptions for the institutions; she took the proceeds to the society's office; Mr. Ardill had occasionally called her "Gertie."

The Court then rose, and the case stands part heard.

In Chambers.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice STEPHEN.)

LAURIE AND ANOTHER V. DUNNE.

Mr. Cohen appeared for the plaintiffs, Messrs. Laurie and Kerr, sharebrokers, of Adelaide, and moved for leave to issue execution against defendant, Patrick Dunne, of Mount Zeehan, Tasmania, on a memorial of a judgment signed in South Australia. Mr. J. L. Campbell appeared in opposition to the application. It was stated that Dunne, at a time when he was a resident in Broken Hill, had some transactions in shares with the plaintiffs who subsequently sued him in the Supreme Court, Adelaide, to recover £290 9s 11d alleged to be due to them as a balance of account. Judgment was signed against defendant for want of appearance. Dunne, though at one time living at Broken Hill, had never been a resident in South Australia, and it was therefore contended in his behalf that the Adelaide Court had no jurisdiction. An affidavit was, however, read by Laurie setting out that his partner had informed him that Dunne had promised, if proceedings were delayed for a month, that he would transfer certain shares to the plaintiffs, which they could sell and devote the proceeds towards the payment of the debt. He also promised that at the end of the month he would pay the balance. Plaintiffs fulfilled their part of the agreement, but Dunne failed to do so, and plaintiffs then sued him. Dunne, on the other hand, denied that he transferred the shares to obtain a suspension of proceedings, and that the shares were to be held pending an adjustment of accounts between the parties.

His HONOR dismissed the application, not being satisfied that Laurie's affidavit was sufficiently conclusive, as opposed to Dunne's direct contradictory affidavit. On the question of the jurisdiction of the Adelaide Court he expressed no opinion.

In Equity.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice OWEN, Chief Judge in Equity.)

STYLES V. DRYRING.

Mr. A. H. Simpson appeared for the plaintiff; Dr. Donovan appeared for the defendant Dryring, and Mr. Bevan appeared for the Illawarra Harbour and Land Corporation Company. This matter was ordered to stand over until after vacation, to enable the defendant Dryring to file affidavits in reply.

BRUSH ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING COMPANY V. KINGSBURY.

Mr. Gordon, instructed by Mr. G. F. R. Burcher, appeared in support of an application made by the defendant; Mr. De Lissa appeared for the plaintiff company to show cause. The defendant applied by summons in chambers for an order that the plaintiff company should give security for the defendant's costs, upon the ground that the plaintiff company being registered in England were resident out of the jurisdiction of the Court. The plaintiff company are the proprietors of all Edison's patents for electric lighting in the Australasian colonies, and they have established the Australasian business as a separate branch. The principal office of the company in Australia was situate in New South Wales in Margaret-street, Sydney, where the company have also stores and stock-in-trade. The plaintiffs' contention was that being registered in the United Kingdom it was the same as a foreign company resident out of the jurisdiction. Mr. De Lissa contended that an incorporate company could have more than one domicile or residence, and was resident in any place where it occupied business premises and carried on business, and that a company might be more properly resident in such latter place than in a country where it might be merely registered. Although there was a class of cases which might tend to the contrary view, they were decided before the present system of company law had been built up. He cited cases to show that companies had been held to reside or dwell within the jurisdiction of the Court for the purpose of being sued under the provisions of the Common Law Procedure Act against defendant, residing within the jurisdiction, and argued that companies held to be residing within the jurisdiction for the purpose of being sued must be held as plaintiffs to be equally resident within the jurisdiction.

His HONOR said the question he had to decide was whether the plaintiff company had been shown to have sufficient assets to meet the liability of costs, which were said to be likely to amount to about £500. It was shown that the company had a stock-in-trade worth £30,000, and a store in Margaret-street, Sydney, in addition to ample funds to carry on the business of the company. He thought the assets were ample to meet the liability. It was not necessary for him to decide the question whether the company was resident within the jurisdiction. That must depend to a very large extent on the facts of the case, but he did not think it was necessary that a foreign company should be registered in this colony. If a foreign company had permanently established a branch within the jurisdiction, and was bona-fide carrying on business within the jurisdiction, he thought it should be considered for the purpose of this question a security for costs as resident within the jurisdiction. How far the plaintiff company fulfilled these conditions it was not necessary for him to determine in the present instance, because he thought there were ample assets in the jurisdiction to meet the liability for costs. The application was therefore dismissed.

RE J. G. RAPHAEL, DECEASED.

Mr. Langer Owen appeared in support of the petition, and Mr. Gordon for the respondent, R. J. King. This was an application for the appointment of a trustee in the estate of J. G. Raphael. His Honor referred the matter to the Master.

RE FRANCIS MILLER AND TRUSTEE ACT.

Mr. Shand appeared for the petitioner. This was a petition for the appointment of a trustee, and his Honor made the order in accordance with the prayer of the petition.

RE WILLIAM SMITH, DECEASED.

This was a petition for the appointment of trustees. His Honor made the appointment, and made a vesting order as prayed. Costs to come out of the estate.

RE JAMES PEARCE AND TRUSTEE ACT.

Mr. Hanbury Davies appeared for the petitioner. This was a petition to appoint Samuel Thomas Whiddon and Arthur Hezlet trustees. His Honor made the appointment.

RE WILLIAM TAYLOR, DECEASED, AND TRUSTEE ACT.

Mr. Adison moved for the appointment of Frederick Fowler, Robert Nicholls Matthews, and James Patrick Green as trustees. His Honor vested the property in the gentlemen named.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL V. SOUTH WALLSEND COAL-MINING COMPANY, LIMITED.

Mr. Knox appeared for the informant. His Honor made an order on admissions.

CUNEO V. GHILLARDOTTI.

In this matter his Honor made a final order for foreclosure.

ALLEN V. HOUGHTON.

Mr. Knox appeared for the plaintiff, and moved for a decree in default of the filing of the statement of defence. The suit was brought for a decree making a sum of money a charge against the separate estate of Lucy Ann Houghton. His Honor granted the decree.

ARTHUR V. VIVERS.

Mr. G. Campbell appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Langer Owen for the defendant. By consent a decree was made in accordance with the finding of the Master.

SYDNEY SOAP AND CANDLE COMPANY V. WRIGHT.

Mr. Gregory Walker appeared for the plaintiff company, and Mr. L. Owen for the defendant. This was a motion for an injunction until the hearing of the suit to restrain the defendant from manufacturing and selling soap endorsed "Magic Cleaner," which was a colourable imitation of the plaintiffs' trade-mark, "Magic Cleanser." Mr. Owen submitted to the injunction. His Honor made the order. Costs to be costs in the cause.

THE NATIONAL STARCH MANUFACTURING COMPANY V. MUNN'S PATENT MAIZENA COMPANY.

Mr. Gregory Walker, instructed by Mr. Alfred De Lissa, appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. A. H. Simpson, instructed by Mr. D. M. Myers, for the defendants.

This was an application for leave to issue commissions to the United States and also to England for the purpose of taking evidence in a suit instituted by the plaintiff company to restrain the use by the defendant company of the term "Maizena," to which the plaintiffs claim to be exclusively entitled as a trade-mark. An order was made for the commissions to issue, returnable on or before December 1 next.

(Before his Honor Mr. Justice MANNING.)

RE MASON BROTHERS, LIMITED, AND COMPANIES ACT.

Mr. Gregory Walker and Mr. H. P. Owen appeared for the petitioner; Mr. Wise appeared for all the remaining shareholders resident in Australia with the exception of three, and two of those who were in Queensland he would receive proxies for that day; Mr. A. H. Simpson appeared for the company and for Mr. John Walker, a shareholder resident in Australia who opposed. This was a petition to wind up the company.

Mr. Walker and Mr. Wise challenged the statement that Mr. Simpson appeared for the company.

Mr. Simpson said he represented a gentleman who had a power of attorney from the directors in England. It was an English company registered in England.

His HONOR said he thought the proper course would be for Mr. Simpson to appear for the gentleman acting under a power of attorney purporting to be given by the directors in England. He promised to take a note of the matter.

The petition of Archibald Forsyth set out that the incorporation of the company took place in 1883. The registered office of the company was in England, but the principal office and place of business was in Sydney. The principal objects for which the company was formed was to carry on the business of importers, exporters, commission and shipping agents, and to purchase the business of Robert Mason and Co., of London, and Mason Brothers, of Sydney. The nominal capital of the company was £150,000 in 15,000 shares of £10 each, of which 10,622 shares were issued, on each of which £7 was called up and paid; 7620 shares were held by persons resident in the colony, and 7310 were in accordance with the articles of association entered and transferable on the register kept at the company's office in Sydney. The petitioner was the registered holder of 100 of the last-mentioned shares. Nearly the whole of the assets of the company, which were of great value, were in this colony, and liabilities of £60,000 had been contracted in this colony. The company carried on business in Sydney and London under a board of six directors, three being in London and three in Sydney. The chief management of the business was carried on by the Sydney directors, and it was the duty of the London directors to act as purchasing agents. The London directors had assumed the sole right to manage the company's affairs, and had purported to appoint and send out a manager to take over the company's business without reference to the Sydney directors. The power of attorney was executed by the London directors, who had acted without consulting the Sydney directors. The London directors had refused and neglected to communicate with the Sydney directors in reference to the affairs of the company. The London directors had passed a resolution purporting to make a call of 30s per share, which was wholly unnecessary. The Sydney directors had protested against these unauthorised acts, and had communicated the unanimous desire of the Sydney shareholders to be communicated with. These protests and communications had been ignored. The directors in London had succeeded in disfranchising the Sydney directors. The petitioner believed that it was the wish and intention of the London directors, by ignoring the authority of the Sydney directors, to obtain the control of the business to their private advantage and to the prejudice of the Sydney shareholders. The affairs of the company had come to a deadlock, and it would be impossible to carry on the business of the company, and the company would suffer great loss unless it was dissolved and placed on a more equitable basis. The affidavit of David Wilson set out that he was the managing director of the company. In August, 1890, he was advised by the London office that the English directors proposed sending a manager out to take charge of the whole business. He wrote to the English directors; "If you wish to appoint general manager you must consider the wishes of the Sydney directors or shareholders, who hold three-fourths of the whole shares." On July 28 he wrote: "I will not submit to any scheme which will allow 1000 shares to overrule 7500 shares, unless a full opportunity is given to discuss proposals." On August 5 he cabled to the London directors: "Meeting of shareholders holding 7000 shares oppose appointment of manager by London directors." In reply he received: "I can only say that this resolution will probably force us either to send our manager at once, or wind up company." In November a general meeting of the Sydney shareholders was held at which the articles were amended, making the number of directors seven, of whom two were to be resident in London and five in New South Wales. It was resolved that the business of the company should be managed by the Sydney board of directors, or a quorum thereof, and defining the powers of the London and Sydney directors. These amendments, together with proxies of the Sydney shareholders in favour of them, were sent to the London directors asking that a general meeting be held with a view of having the articles amended in the way indicated. A reply was received as follows:—"Such a suggestion is an insult to our common sense. We will not submit to be overruled by the proxies of Sydney shareholders, but if that is attempted we shall allow the business to be thrown into liquidation." A meeting of the Sydney directors was held rescinding the call of 30s per share made by the London directors and declining to approve of the action of the London directors. Recently the London directors caused to be served on the Sydney shareholders notice, threatening to forfeit the shares unless the call was at once paid. On a recent date Henry Pynegan called on him and handed him a letter from the chairman of the London directors, in which he was informed that Mr. Pynegan had been appointed general manager of the company's business. He was also shown a resolution passed by the London directors, purporting to remove David Wilson from his position of managing director. Henry Pynegan formally demanded possession of the company's business and assets, and he declined to give them up, and informed him that he intended to insist on his position. He denied the right of the London directors to act in the manner they had done. Henry Pynegan was, he believed, endeavouring to deal with the company's banking account in Sydney, but the Sydney directors had not been consulted in any way as to the action of the London directors. The affidavit of Henry Pynegan stated that he was the attorney of Mason Bros., Limited, acting under a power of attorney dated April 21, 1891, under the seal of H. T. Hinckes, J. C. Merryweather, and W. Gracie, a quorum of directors present at a meeting held at London. The company carried on business in England, and meetings of the shareholders and directors were held in London. A branch of the business had been carried on in this colony under the management of a committee of directors appointed by the London board of directors. He received instructions from the board of directors to come out to this colony to represent the company and the board of directors in the colony, and to act as general manager. He was informed by the directors that they had appointed David Wilson of Sydney, John Walker of Sydney, Robert Barclay Wallace of Newcastle, and Robert Adam Ritchie of Auburn to act as a committee of the board of directors for the purpose of carrying on the business of the company. He was also informed that a resolution was passed rescinding the appointment of David Wilson as managing director. There were 98 shareholders in the United Kingdom, holding 3397 shares. Since his arrival he had been arranging to carry on the company's business. He sent home to the London directors information as to the presentation of the petition, and he had received instructions to oppose the petition. The company was in a perfectly solvent condition, and liquidation was unnecessary. The call of 30s per share had been paid by all the English shareholders, but none of the Australian shareholders had done the same. Prior to the resolution making the call no objection was taken to the action of the London directors. He was informed that the London directors throughout had controlled the affairs of the company, and did not act as mere purchasers. He believed a winding-up order would be disastrous to the interest of the shareholders and prejudicial to the interests of the company.

His HONOR said he had come to the conclusion that the petition came within subsection 3, section 199. It seemed to him that where the affairs of a company were in a state of chaos, where they found an absolute divided authority and a reasonable divided authority, where they found in the country where the whole business was being carried on, and the life of the business existed that there was a state of chaos, it was desirable that an end should be put to the state of things. A person representing half the body of directors at home came out here and gave notice to the bank that he was the sole representative of the company, and the three persons who had been appointed by the shareholders directors of the company were informing the bank that they were the only people entitled to be the sole representatives of the company, what must necessarily follow on that must be absolute ruin to the company. How could people expect—knowing that a business of that class could not be carried on without advances from a bank, how could they expect the bank to make advances in that state of affairs? He thought it was just and equitable that the company should be wound up, and he made the order. Mr. David Wilson was appointed provisional liquidator, the matter of the appointment of the official liquidator to stand over generally, leave being reserved for any party to apply on notice.

In Lunacy.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice OWEN.)

EX PARTE S. S. HARWOOD.

This was an application by Septimus S. Harwood for the discharge of Mary Dix Harwood, who was confined in a lunatic asylum at Cook's River. The matter stood over for the certificate of the superintendent of the asylum as to the condition of the patient. The certificate stated that the patient was dangerous and unfit to be at large. Her conversation was indecent and insulting, she was inclined to be excited, and was occasionally violent in her behaviour.

His HONOR refused to allow of the discharge of the patient.

In Divorce.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice WINDEYER.)

KAHN V. KAHN.

The decree nisi for dissolution of marriage in this action, which was brought by the husband against the wife, was made absolute.

In Bankruptcy.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice MANNING.)

MOTION FOR RELEASE OF ESTATE.

Re William Boulton. Motion for the release of estate. It was ordered that this matter stand over generally.

CREDITORS' RESOLUTION.

Re William Cochran. His Honor approved of a resolution passed by the creditors, whereby the bankrupt is allowed to retain his furniture.

STATEMENT OF AFFAIRS AND TRADING ACCOUNTS.

Re James Markham, jun. The bankrupt having failed to file his statement of affairs and trading accounts, an order nisi had, at the instance of the official assignee, been issued, calling upon Markham to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt of court. The order was now made absolute, but his Honor directed that it should lie in the office for 14 days.

(Before the Registrar, Mr. ARTHUR HENRY.)

CERTIFICATE SUSPENDED.

Re Edward Davies. The Registrar, in giving judgment on the application for a certificate, said that, having considered the report of the official assignee, and the affidavit in reply, as well as all the proceedings in relation to the matter, he had come to the conclusion that it was his duty to suspend the issue of a certificate for 12 months on the grounds that the bankrupt continued to trade after knowing himself to be insolvent, and contracted debts without having at the time of contracting them reasonable or probable grounds of expectation of being able to pay the same. The suspension would date from the first application.

CERTIFICATE APPLICATIONS.

The hearing of the applications for certificates which had been lodged by James Chambers and James Tedd was adjourned to August 4.

EXAMINATION UNDER SECTION 30.

Re Michael Austin Cleary, examination under section 30. Mr. Gordon appeared on behalf of the official assignee. J. Sheridan Moore deposed that he had known the bankrupt for 15 years; witness gave the settlement which the bankrupt made to Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, solicitor, 10 or 11 years ago, and had not seen it since; he did not think it was ever registered; Fitzgerald was never witness's direct solicitor; witness handed him the settlement as a solicitor interested in the affair; he took it to Fitzgerald as Butler's solicitor; Dr. Butler was the proprietor of the paper and transferred it to witness as trustee for Cleary's family.

Montford Lewis Butler, residing on Botany-road, Alexandria, deposed that he knew Cleary, but had not spoken to him for 10 years; witness went to Edinburgh about the year 1880 to complete his education, and returned about four years ago; before going to Scotland witness knew Cleary well for six or seven months; previous to going to Scotland witness was a retail chemist in George-street West; since he returned he had not had any communication with Cleary or his wife or family; he had not seen any of them to speak to; he knew Sheridan Moore; he had not seen him since he came back from Edinburgh; witness was never at any time connected with nor did he own any newspaper; there was a distraint for rent, and witness paid some small amount at St. Leonards on the premises where some printing plant was, and which were occupied by Cleary; that was some time before witness left the colony; the landlord put the distress in; the distress was something under £10; witness found the money to pay the distraint; he could not swear that he went to the bailiff and paid him off; he thought there was a sale; the bailiff or auctioneer got the money; witness paid it to the auctioneer, he thought; he did not get a receipt; witness paid that money in 1880 or 1881; Cleary carried on some newspaper in the place; there was a general printing plant there; after he paid the money the paper was, he thought, carried on; witness received payment of the money eventually; he deducted it from the takings of the retail business; witness had no other claim or interest in the paper directly or indirectly; but for that, witness never had any interest in any newspaper or printing business; he thought he signed a paper in connection with it; a solicitor brought him a paper; witness did not employ any solicitor; he did not prepare the document, nor did he order it to be prepared; either Cleary or Moore brought it to witness or asked him to go and sign; he signed the document which was brought to him; it purported to transfer the paper; he had never seen the document since then; he took no further interest in the matter, as he intended to reside in the old country.

Michael Austin Cleary (the bankrupt) deposed that Dr. Butler bought the St. Leonards Recorder by public auction; he could not say in what year; J. Sheridan Moore was trustee for witness's daughter and his other children; the last witness was the Dr. Butler referred to by witness when he was previously examined; Dr. Butler owned the paper; he bought it at public auction, and he thought settled it three or four years afterwards on witness's children; Dr. Butler and witness were pretty fair friends; Dr. Butler married a distant relative of witness's; he would not positively swear that he had known Dr. Butler for more than six months before he made the settlement; J. Sheridan Moore was an old friend of witness's; Mr. Charles Farrell, since deceased, prepared the transfer; he thought Mr. Moore suggested that Mr. Farrell should draw the document up; the document was about the size of a sheet of foolscap; he did not think the document was registered; witness did not own the paper at St. Leonards since 1880; he forgot how much Dr. Butler gave for the business; witness had been carrying on the business before the auction sale; the auction sale was on account of a distress for rent; Mr. Hughes was the auctioneer; it was not a fact that Dr. Butler paid under £10 to relieve the distress for rent; the bailiff and Dr. Butler went into Sydney to pay the money; he did not pay Dr. Butler that money; he was not aware that anyone paid Dr. Butler; he would not undertake to swear that he did not pay Butler out of the retail takings; he believed that he did not pay Dr. Butler; after the settlement witness went on at wages; there was another auction sale about 1885; he believed he again purchased the St. Leonards Recorder at that time; the place was seized on a mortgage; the mortgagee had gone into possession; there was a bill of sale that he had given over the place; the bill of sale was given to raise money to buy a machine for the place; the machine went back again to Dunlop; he got £80 odd from the Australian Trust Management Company; there was a decree in the Equity Court that he should give a mortgage; that had never been executed; in addition to that he executed a bill of sale to Isaacs over the same property for £18 to defend him in a prosecution for criminal libel; the paper was now called the North Sydney Recorder; it was unencumbered except for the decree in the Equity Court; the paper was set up in type at 110 Albion-street, and printed at Cross's Radcliffe Printing Office, in Crown-street, near Oxford-street; the owner of 110 Albion-street was Mr. M'Lachlan; witness's son, Austin William Cleary, aged 17 or 18, took the lease of the place to carry on a little business himself; he took the lease one year and nine months ago; he was carrying on the business as a printer; the rent of the premises was 7s a week; there were two treadle machines and a press on the premises; witness bought one of the machines from Edwards, Dunlop, and Co.; he paid £12 10s for it; the other was part of the old plant of the St. Leonards Recorder; the eastern suburbs paper was set up in Oxford-street and printed at Haynes's printing office, near the Gaiety Theatre.

Austin William Cleary, son of the bankrupt, deposed that he was 18 years old; he had done work for himself at 110 Albion-street for the last two years; he took the place from Mr. M'Lachlan; witness made the last payment in respect of rent about a year ago; he took some jobbing type to 110 Albion-street; he obtained the type from Gordon and Gotch in exchange for a lot of metal; he got the metal from the Recorder office; there were two machines at 110 Albion-street; they were supposed to belong to his sister Maud; one of the machines came from the St. Leonards Recorder; he valued the whole of the plant at 110 Albion-street at £25.

The further examination of witnesses was adjourned to Tuesday next.

EXAMINATION OF BANKRUPTS.

Re Maurice O'Sullivan. The bankrupt, a contractor, gave particulars of moneys he had received in respect of certain contracts taken by him since December, 1889; the total of the receipts shown by his accounts was £1602 7s 1d, and the payments amounted to £1430; witness's tender for the Mortlake contract was £1133; he got the contract at scheduled prices, so that he only received £1067, including extras; his bondsmen were Mr. Robert Davis and Mr. O'Sullivan; the last amount O'Sullivan (his bondsman) received, was £213; O'Sullivan drew that some time in April or May, 1891; witness's estate was sequestrated on May 15, 1891; O'Sullivan drew £190 in September; witness authorised O'Sullivan to draw that; he did not put it in his accounts, as he did not receive it himself; when witness took the Mortlake job he was compelled by the specifications to obtain the timber from Jervis Bay; the timber merchant demanded money, and O'Sullivan paid that for witness, and also some wages; before witness took the Mortlake contract, in May, 1890, he owed money to other people.

Re Christie Helland (who had, he said, also traded in the name of "Christie.") The bankrupt, a storekeeper, deposed that his bankruptcy was caused by dullness of trade, bad debts, and the sinking of a boat; he did not keep a cash book; witness was in partnership with Richard Barrow, and they carried on business in the name of "Christie and Barrow;" witness's name was Christie Helland; the firm was called "Christie and Barrow" because witness was always known in the place as "Christie;" the partnership was dissolved in October; there was no stock taken at the time; the arrangement made in respect to the dissolution was that witness was to give Barrow £100, and the latter was to clear out of the business; witness was to pay all liabilities; he wrote to Fraser and Co., on April 1, stating that he had paid his partner a considerable amount in cash, and asked them to renew the bill coming due on April 4; he was quite sure that all he gave Barrow was £100; after the dissolution of partnership he employed Barrow, and paid him 25s a week; witness's banking account remained open until May 19, which was the date of the last payment by the bank; he made the last deposit to his credit on April 20, and after that date he used the cash which he received to pay for goods which he purchased. The bankrupt was directed to file accounts by July 27, and his further examination was adjourned to August 12.

Re Thomas Renn. The public examination of the bankrupt was adjourned to August 4.

Re Mary Jane Heil. The public examination of the bankrupt was adjourned to August 11.

POLICE.

Mr. Whittingdale Johnson, S.M., presided at the CENTRAL POLICE COURT yesterday. F. J. H. Phillips, alias Arthur William Richardson, alias F. H. Phillips, 38, a dentist, was committed to take his trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions for having, on the 19th June, 1891, obtained from Bernard Kahn the sum of 6s 6d in money, and goods to the value of £1 5s 6d, the property of the said Bernard Kahn, by means of a certain false pretence, with intent to defraud. Joseph Doyle, 25, an engineer, was charged with having married one Selina Schmidt, his lawful wife, Adelaide Duncan Doyle, being then alive. He was committed to take his trial at the Quarter Sessions. Bail was allowed. Edward Rossiter, 27, having cruelly ill-treated a horse by working it in an unfit state, was fined £1, in default seven days' imprisonment. Samuel Coomland was, on remand, charged with having unlawfully presented a loaded firearm, to wit, a revolver, at Minnie Hill with intent to do her grievous bodily harm, but as there was not an appearance on behalf of the prosecution accused was discharged. Charles Victor, 36, alias Johnson, was sentenced to be imprisoned for six months, with hard labour, on a charge of having obtained from Matthew Irwin the sum of 1s 6d by means of a valueless cheque, with intent to defraud. Mary Leatham, alias Mary Lamb, 22, was charged with having stolen the sum of £1 14s, the property of Thomas Monce. Accused was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. James Madden was charged with having assaulted Peter James Shopper in his office, 211 Elizabeth-street, and also at the Central Police Station, Elizabeth-street. On both charges accused was fined £2, in default 21 days' imprisonment. In the Summons Division Chong War was fined £1 and costs for having committed a breach of the Poisons Act, for that he, not being duly qualified to be a dealer in poisons, did sell certain poison, to wit, opium. William Newman, licensee of the North Annandale Hotel, Johnston-street, Leichhardt, was fined £3 for a breach of the Licensing Act.

Mr. T. K. Abbott, S.M., presided at the WATER POLICE COURT (Charge Division). Alice Thompson, 18, was sentenced to three months' hard labour for having insufficient lawful means of support. John King, 40, was fined 40s, in default 14 days' imprisonment, for travelling by the s.s. Cintra from Melbourne to Sydney without having previously paid his fare, £1, when demanded, and with intent to avoid payment thereof. Anton Christian Larsen was sentenced to six months' hard labour for stealing two silver watches, value £2 10s, the property of Peter Jacobson. Florrie Higginbotham, 18, was sentenced to three months' hard labour for having insufficient visible lawful means of support. Captain Fisher, S.M., presided in the Summons Division. James Denard, on remand, was charged with burglariously breaking and entering, on the 24th June, the dwelling-house of Richard Aden Ansdale, Levuka, Edgecliffe-road, Woollahra, and stealing therefrom a quantity of silver and clothing, value about £15, the property of the inmates. The accused was committed to take his trial at the next Quarter Sessions. Tack Kee was fined £5, in default one month in gaol, for allowing his premises to become unclean. Patrick Costello, for assaulting a constable, was fined £2, in default two months' imprisonment. William Johnston and Bertie Taylor were each fined £1 for obstructing a public thoroughfare and refusing to move on when requested. Michael Bellog and Charles Woodcock, for the same offence, were fined 10s each.

Mr. G. O'Malley Clark, S.M., presided at the NEWTOWN POLICE COURT. James Cummings was sentenced to three months' hard labour for having in his possession a quantity of jewellery reasonably suspected to have been stolen. The same prisoner was committed for trial to the next Quarter Sessions for breaking and entering and stealing from a dwelling. Joseph Springhall was ordered to pay Willie Ah Joe £9 for wages.

MENTIPLAY'S PILLS, FOR THE KIDNEYS AND LIVER. Are not pills in the ordinary sense of the term. They do not purge, but effectually subdue all billious disorders, female irregularities, indigestion and its train of complaints. They permanently cure gravel, incipient Bright's disease and internal diseases. They strengthen the system, and the many local testimonies received conclusively prove that they are the best pills in the market.

MENTIPLAY'S BLOOD ELIXER. As its name implies, is a wonderful remedy for generating pure blood, increases the power of nature to subdue disease. It is purely herbal, cures gout, muscular rheumatism, and all diseases of the skin. It is a matchless remedy for women undergoing a change of life. These preparations can be obtained from the chemists and storekeepers in city and country. Look carefully for the manufacturer's name and address—MENTIPLAY, 78 Bourke-street, Melbourne. BEWARE OF SPURIOUS IMITATIONS.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE. BEECHAM'S PILLS BEECHAM'S PILLS BEECHAM'S PILLS are universally admitted to be worth a Guinea a Box for Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy and Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c. The first dose will give relief in 20 minutes. This is no fiction, for they have done it in countless cases.

Every Sufferer is earnestly invited to try one Box of these Pills, and they will be acknowledged to be WORTH A GUINEA A BOX WORTH A GUINEA A BOX WORTH A GUINEA A BOX.

For females of all ages they are invaluable. No female should be without them. There is not a medicine to be found equal to them for removing any obstruction or irregularity of the system. If taken according to the directions given with each box they will soon restore females of all ages to sound and robust health. This has been proved by thousands who have tried them and found the benefits which are ensured by their use.

BEECHAM'S PILLS BEECHAM'S PILLS BEECHAM'S PILLS, For a weak stomach, impaired digestion, and all disorders of the liver, they act like magic, and a few doses will be found to work wonders on the most important organs in the human machine. They strengthen the whole muscular system, restore the long-lost complexion, bring back the keen edge of appetite, and arouse into action with the rosebud of health the whole physical energy of the human frame. These are facts testified continually by members of all classes of society, and one of the best guarantees to the nervous and debilitated is, BEECHAM'S PILLS HAVE the LARGEST SALE of any patent medicine in the world.

BEECHAM'S MAGIC COUGH PILLS BEECHAM'S MAGIC COUGH PILLS BEECHAM'S MAGIC COUGH PILLS. As a remedy for Coughs in general, Asthma, Bronchial Affections, Hoarseness, Shortness of Breath, Tightness and Oppression of the Chest, &c., these Pills stand unrivalled. They are the best ever offered to the public, and will speedily remove that sense of oppression and difficulty of breathing which nightly deprives the patient of rest. Let any person give BEECHAM'S COUGH PILLS a trial, and the most violent cough will in a short time be removed.

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

THE END OF THE CONTEST.

YESTERDAY'S POLLING.

The elections held yesterday in the Bourke and Gwydir constituencies brought the long-drawn-out contest to an end, and we are now in a position to state definitely the composition of the new House of Assembly. Four seats were fought for, three at Bourke and one at the Gwydir. In the latter electorate the old member, Mr. Hassall, secured his re-election, though only after a sharp contest with the labour candidate, Mr. Court. At Bourke the struggle was even more severe. There were no less than seven candidates, and the result was that only one of the old members, Mr. Willis, succeeded in regaining his seat. Mr. Langwell, an Opposition candidate new to Parliamentary life, came in at the top of the poll, Mr. Willis second, and Mr. Howe, one of the defeated candidates for Redfern, third. These returns, though not complete, are hardly likely to be altered. The former members, Messrs. Waddell and Davis, were both left out in the cold, and one of the candidates, Mr. O'Grady, lost his £40. As the result of these four additions to the new Parliament the state of parties now stands:—Ministerial, 48; Opposition, 56; Labour, 30; and Independent, 7; total, 141. By a proclamation issued yesterday Parliament is summoned to meet on Tuesday, the 14th instant.

Various rumours were floating about town yesterday with regard to the course of action which the Ministry intend to take, but beyond the fact that Mr. O'Connor, the Postmaster-General, has sent in his resignation, nothing definite has been announced. The Cabinet, however, declined to accept the offer, and nothing further appears to have been done. We give underneath a complete list of the new Parliament and a statement of the position of parties. The constitution of the new Parliament is also analysed, and a table which we publish shows in detail the number of votes polled in each electorate, both at the present and last general election.

REVIEW OF THE CONTEST.

THE VOTES POLLED.

COMPOSITION OF THE NEW ASSEMBLY.

The general election which is now closed will probably be classed by historians as one of the most remarkable in the history of this colony. It came upon us at a time of disquietude, at a time when men's minds were unsettled by the growing significance of the labour problem, and at a time when the seeds of dissent, sown by the great strike of a year ago, were only just beginning to bear fruit. The people at large looked on doubtfully, and asked themselves whether it was wise to precipitate an electoral struggle at the present moment, without urgent necessity. But to the aspiring politician the occasion was obvious. It was his golden opportunity, and he made the most of it. Even now, when all the excitement of the struggle is over, and the results of the polling, even in the furthermost constituencies, have been made known, we know not what the outcome will be. Figures are proverbially unreliable, and when applied to men their uncertainty becomes doubly doubtful. On paper the Opposition has apparently a majority in number over those who openly espouse the cause of the Government, and under ordinary conditions this would at once mean the resignation of the Ministry. But a new element has entered into the question. The labour party has with surprising suddenness become a factor in practical politics. It has won success after success all over the country, until its adherents number at least 30. This is enough to turn a division in any House where the parties are at all equally balanced, and in the Assembly as at present constituted, it gives the labour delegates the controlling vote. This without counting the number of spurious sympathisers with labour who have all at once arisen. These are the men who lie in wait, and, carefully calculating their chances, attach themselves to the skirt of whatever party they think to be in the ascendant. During the latter days of the election the number of members who wished to be classed as labour supporters was surprising. We have, however, omitted these nondescript politicians from our calculations, and have only reckoned as members of the labour party those who have actually become delegates of the Labour Electoral League. These gentlemen, who number about thirty, have, it is stated, placed their Parliamentary career entirely under the control of the body which they represent, and have pledged themselves to retire at the demand of two-thirds of the members of the league. Hence they can only, properly speaking, be called delegates, and it is upon their action that the future of the fifteenth Parliament of New South Wales so largely depends. As recently announced, the House will be called together on Tuesday week, the 14th instant, when the Government will place its programme before hon. members, and ask their opinion as to whether it shall continue in office or no. This course of action is strictly in accordance with precedent, and Mr. Dibbs, who was in power when the last Parliament was elected, did precisely the same thing. He met the House and placed his policy before it, though it was obvious that he was in a minority.

The history of the crisis has already been told at length in these columns, and therefore but little need be said about it. The first definite announcement which the public had of the coming event was the vote upon the want of confidence motion on the night of May 23. The Government only defeated its opponents by the casting vote of the Speaker, and it was at once seen that a dissolution was inevitable. On Tuesday, June 2, when the House would, under ordinary circumstances, have met again, the prorogation was announced, and on June 6 Parliament was dissolved. The writs were issued on Monday, June 8, and the opponents of the Ministry at once raised the usual outcry against the order in which the elections had been fixed. The elections were divided into 11 batches. The first batch included all the county of Cumberland electorates, and some of the more important of the country constituencies. Altogether 20 electorates, returning 53 members, were polled on this day, and the result was the return of 27 Ministerialists, seven Oppositionists, 17 labour candidates, and two independent members. The most surprising feature of the polling was the sudden success of the labour party. In some of the larger electorates, such as Balmain and West Sydney, the labour delegates carried off the whole of the seats, and all the other candidates were left out in the cold. All at once it began to dawn upon people that the influence of the labouring section of the community was likely to be an important one in the next Parliament, and many candidates whose political views had hitherto been slightly wavy made haste to get under the sheltering wing of the labour party. The remainder of the elections followed at frequent intervals, and as time went on it was seen that the Ministerial and Opposition parties would be pretty equally balanced, and that the seats gained by the newly-created labour body would be taken from either side, irrespective of any party considerations.

One of the features of this Parliament to which particular attention has been called is the large proportion of new blood which has been introduced. In the present Parliament there are 83 old and 58 new members. Some of the latter gain their seats without a contest, and sat as representatives before, though not in the last Assembly. When the last Parliament was elected, 92 old members were returned and 45 new ones were chosen. In connection with this point it should be borne in mind that the election excitement on this occasion was much keener than at any previous time. At the 1889 elections no less than 13 members were allowed to go peacefully, whilst at the recent election only seven members were allowed to come back without a struggle. The uncontested electorates were mostly places where the old members had secured a strong local hold on the affections of their constituents, and where it was obvious that any attempt to oust them could only result in defeat. The names of the electorates which chose their member were:—Wilcannia, Sturt, Inverell, Clarence, Grafton, Wentworth, and Tenterfield. It is noticeable that in only two instances, at Wentworth and the Clarence, were the elections unopposed both at the 1889 and 1891 elections. At the Clarence Mr. M'Farlane secured his election on each occasion without contest, and at Wentworth Mr. J. P. Abbott was equally fortunate. These are, under present conditions, remarkable instances of fidelity on the part of constituents to their members. The days when a member once returned could go on representing a constituency as long as he chose are gone by, probably for ever.

It was generally supposed, owing to the great interest taken in these elections, that there would be a vast increase in the number of votes polled. There has certainly been an increase, but by no means so great as was anticipated. Various causes may be assigned for this, one in particular being the wet weather and the flooded state of many of the country electorates. In this way many of the voters were prevented from coming to the poll, and even at the time of writing the elections cannot really be said to be over. There are out-of-the-way flooded-out polling-places yet to be counted, and as the whole of the returns are not yet in, our figures must be taken as only approximately accurate. The increase in the voting strength of the colony, as shown by the electoral rolls, amounts to over 34,000, there having been 304,000 voters on the roll this election, and only 260,000 in 1889. The actual increase at this election in the number of votes polled amounts to over 58,000. The number of votes polled for all candidates at the last general election was 362,311, whilst at this election it rose to 420,457. In the metropolitan and other large constituencies which were polled on the first day of the election, the increase of votes polled was over 28,000, and the remainder of the increase was pretty generally distributed over the country electorates. It should not be forgotten, however, that there were 13 uncontested elections in 1889, whilst this time there were only seven. In this respect the Opposition have been the most fortunate of all the four parties, it having gained four seats without a struggle. Only one member of the Ministerial party, Mr. Lee of Tenterfield, got in in this easy way. The Labour party also secured one uncontested seat, that of Mr. Cann for Sturt, and for the Independents, Mr. J. P. Abbott was returned unopposed for Wentworth. It is interesting to note that whilst the 141 members returned secured nearly 235,000 votes, the large number of unsuccessful candidates only obtained favour from some 178,000 electors. This shows clearly that the new Parliament represents as a whole the majority of the people.

The analysis of members returned shows some remarkable results. Out of the whole number of 141 members, 51 are entirely new to parliamentary life. Altogether, 58 new members have been returned, but of these seven have sat in Parliament before. Mr. Barton is well known as a member of the Legislative Assembly, and, more recently, of the Upper House. Messrs. Neild, Jeanneret, V. Parkes, Wise, F. B. Suttor, and Vaughn have all held seats before, and attained more or less political distinction.

The Opposition succeeded in sending back to Parliamentary life the largest number of new members, whilst on the other hand the Ministerial party secured the greater number of the unfledged politicians. All the gentlemen, 30 in number, distinctly marked as labour delegates, are new to Parliamentary life, whilst the whole of the seven gentlemen who rank as Independents are old Parliamentary hands. Altogether, of the 83 old members returned, 32 are Ministerialists, 44 Oppositionists, and seven Independents. Of the 58 new members sent to the Assembly 16 are Ministerialists, 12 Oppositionists, and 30 Labour delegates. The greatest number of votes polled by any one member was secured by Mr. Carruthers, who represents no less than 7231 of the Canterbury electors.

Perhaps, however, the fairest idea of the attitude of the people towards each party may be gathered from the number of votes polled by the successful candidates. On analysing the votes we find that the 48 Ministerial members returned represent 86,200 voters; the 56 Opposition members represent 66,300 voters; the 30 Labour delegates 68,000, and the Independent candidates 13,600 voters. Uncontested elections have not of course been included in this calculation, as it is impossible to say how many votes would have been recorded had there been a contest. As all the returns are not yet in, the figures must be taken as only approximate, though any variation which may arise can be but trifling. The Ministerial members obviously represent a much larger number of the people than any other party, but some allowance has to be made for the fact that there was only one uncontested Ministerial election. The Opposition had four of these elections, and hence a few thousand more voters may be credited to them. The Labour party would also have shown a higher result, as had the Sturt election been contested Mr. Cann would doubtless have polled heavily.

THE NEW MEMBERS.

We give below a digest of the opinions of the new members in relation to the principal subjects now before the country:—

BARTON, EDMUND, Q.C. (East Sydney), is a well-known man in politics. Mr. Barton was a member of the Legislative Council, but his friends brought pressure upon him with the view of inducing him to accept a seat in the Lower House. Mr. Barton is a protectionist, but he places federation first, and allows the fiscal issue to take second place. The position he takes up is that of federation or no federation, and not that of the Convention Bill or no Convention Bill. Whilst he does not wish it to be supposed that he has in the least degree abandoned the Federation Bill, he points out that he holds that the bill may be capable of amendment by the various Parliaments. The bill should become the subject of consideration by the Parliaments of the colonies, and afterwards go before another Convention. If protection can be initiated in such a way as to allow the country to derive benefit from it before federation, Mr. Barton will vote for it; but if the time before the possible bringing about of federation is so short that the alteration of the fiscal policy would be unworthy of the act of a practical politician he will vote against any change. Considering that this is a crisis in the history of the colony, Mr. Barton allowed himself to be nominated, and is determined to enter heart and soul into the fight which will take place in Parliament.

BAVISTER, THOMAS (Canterbury), who is secretary of the Federated Building Trades Council, considers it a mistake to suppose the labour representatives of which he is one are revolutionists. Neither freetrade nor protection occupies any prominent place in his views, as he believes that neither of these principles will benefit the working classes until it is administered by the working classes themselves; but if it comes to a vote he will support the freetraders. He favours local option without compensation.

BLACK, GEORGE (West Sydney), has had some journalistic experience. He is a champion of the cause of labour, intends to sit on the cross benches, and to advocate sundry reforms contemplated by the Labour Electoral League.

BOOTH, R. (The Bogan), is an alderman of Dubbo. He regards federation as the chief matter before the country. He opposes the Federal Parliament having control of the land, and thinks that the Constitution Bill requires amendment in other particulars. His leaning is towards labour, and he is in favour of boards of conciliation. He desires a Local Government Bill, and wants a railway from Dubbo to Coonamble.

BOWES, J. W. (Morpeth), is a protectionist. To a certain extent he favours federation, as he has always advocated freetrade between the colonies; but he thinks this colony should adopt protection before federation, to bring the other colonies to their knees. He promises to support some scheme of federation that will be fair to this colony, but says he will oppose the present bill or any other that would take the trade of New South Wales away from her. He is an advocate for the abolition of plural voting. He is in favour of small electorates, each returning a single member, and one man one vote.

BROWN, EDWARD GEORGE (Tumut), who is the Mayor of Tumut, has had previous Parliamentary experience, having represented the constituency during the late Sir James Martin's time, and also during the existence of the Parkes-Martin Coalition Government. He advocates federation, and considers that pending the accomplishment of that object the fiscal question should be held in abeyance. He approves of one man one vote, and thinks that all the elections should be held on one day.

CANN, J. H. (Sturt), who represents the electorate at the request of the labour bodies of the Barrier, advocates electoral reform to provide for the abolition of plural voting; measures to provide for the periodical inspection of land boilers and machinery; free, compulsory, and technical education; the amendment of the Mining Act; the establishment of a State labour bureau, a State bank, and a national system of water conservation and irrigation; the total abolition of all State-aided immigration to the Australasian colonies; and the extension of the principle of the State as an employer, under the control of local self-governing bodies.

CHAPMAN, AUSTIN (Braidwood), is a protectionist, but declines to be bound to any particular party in respect to giving his vote upon any measures to secure sound and useful legislation. He believes in payment of members, and is in favour of the full recognition of the rights of labour, and giving the workers a share of the profits of their labours, instead of giving the lion's share to the capitalist. He considers that a good Local Government Bill will be a blessing to the colony. He is opposed to the single tax, but in favour of a progressive land tax and an absentee tax. He is a federationist, but does not approve of the Commonwealth Constitution Bill. He pledges himself to continue to fight for a railway to Braidwood.

CLARK, E. M. (St. Leonards), is first and foremost a freetrader; he is in favour of federation; he is with the Government in its Electoral Reform Bill; he is strongly in favour of the one man one vote principle; he believes in the registration of voters' rights; he will support a water conservation bill; he is a full local optionist; and he will vote for placing a tax upon the unimproved value of land.

CLARK, G. D. (Balmain), goes into the House as the mouthpiece of labour, and to voice the feelings and aspirations of the industrial forces of the country. He thinks the House should do its work in the daytime. He desires to take legislation from the "classes," and to secure something for the "masses."

COOK, JOSEPH (Hartley), is a labour representative. His addresses before election were mainly devoted to education, municipal taxation, and federation. He regards absolute freedom of commercial intercourse between the colonies as the basis of federal union, and objects to the "Imperialistic tendencies" of the Convention Bill.

COLLINS, CHARLES (The Namoi), is a federationist and a freetrader. He contends, however, that the Constitution Bill must be referred to the people. He is in favour of one man one vote, and single electorates; the police also should vote. He is opposed to pensions, and advocates higher education in the country schools.

COTTON, FRANK (Newtown), who describes himself as being a journalist, is a member of the Trades and Labour Council, and was one of those who drew up the platform of the Labour Electoral League. Mr. Cotton is an absolute freetrader. He intends to make a "demand" for the representation of labour. He claims that he is "of the people," and promises to represent "the people." He is an advocate of "equal natural rights and an equal voice in politics." The cardinal principles of his platform are electoral reform and the abolition of plural voting. He believes that direct taxation is the only fair and equitable way of raising revenue.

CULLEN, DR. W. P. (Camden) is a freetrader, a federationist, and a supporter of the Local Government Bill. He is also in favour of the adoption of the one man-one-vote system.

DANAHEY, C. J. (Canterbury), supports the labour platform, which he thinks is "absolutely perfect." He advocates the eight-hour law; but is opposed to the early closing of shops. He contends that the one-man-one-vote principle should be embodied in the Local Government Bill, and favours local option without compensation.

DARNLEY, E. (Balmain), a labour representative, lays great stress upon better opportunities being afforded for the education of the children of the working classes. He urges that any child who shows ability should have opportunity given it to rise to the highest standard at the expense of the State.

DAVIS, T. M. (West Sydney), who is secretary to the Seamen's Union, came into prominence in connection with the maritime strike. He advocates concessions to labour, promises to sit on the cross benches, and to urge the adoption of the platform of the Labour Electoral League. Mr. Davis was a member of the Royal Commission on the cause of strikes.

DONALD, G. (Hartley) is a freetrader, and believes in the single-tax, and also in local option without compensation. He favours women's suffrage, the establishment of a national bank, and the eight-hour system.

DONNELLY, D. C. (Carcoar), is a protectionist. He is in favour of education being made free, and of the introduction of a bill to provide for mining on private property, in which provision shall be made for compensating the owner of the property for damage done to his land. He is opposed to local option without compensation.

EDDEN, ALFRED (Northumberland), appears in the House as a direct representative of the miners. He is a protectionist, and declines to sink the fiscal policy, as he believes it to be wrapped up with the whole labour question. He favours a fair and equitable land tax, and intends to strive for all the planks in the labour league platform.

FEGAN, J. L. (Newcastle), who is a miner, is an advocate of concessions to labour, pledges himself to do all he can to secure the adoption of the one-man-one-vote system, is in favour of amendment of the land laws and the introduction of a new mining bill. He is opposed to the continuance of the Legislative Council on the nominee principle.

FITZGERALD, J. D. (West Sydney), who is well known in connection with the visit he recently made to England on behalf of the labour organisations, declares that it is his intention to fight only for labour, to sit in legislative judgment on the cross benches, to force reforms by the introduction of private bills, and to obtain concessions for labour. He has subscribed to the platform of the Labour Electoral League.

GARDINER, A. (Forbes), who is a native of Orange, is a nominee of the Labour Electoral League. He is in favour of the abolition of plural voting, extension of the franchise to seamen, shearers, and general labourers, as well as to policemen and soldiers, single-member electorates, and the holding of all Parliamentary elections on one day.

GILLIES, JOHN (West Maitland) is a native of the town whose name his constituency bears. He is a freetrader, and supporter of the present Government. Whilst he is a federationist, he does not approve of the way in which the Commonwealth Constitution Bill has been submitted to the people. He is strongly in favour of the one man one vote principle, and pledged to support an Eight-hour Bill. He approves of paying members of Parliament at per sitting.

HART, John S. (Gloucester), declares himself to be a firm and consistent freetrader and supporter of the Government of Sir Henry Parkes. He will support the principle of federation, with a desire to see Australia as one nation, and able to hold her place amongst the peoples of the world. He does not think the bill, as passed by the late Convention, will pass in the Parliament of any of the colonies without some amendments, but he hopes that the further threshing out and discussion of all the principles that should be embodied in such a measure will finally result in an almost perfect Act, and in the union of all the colonies of Australia as a great and flourishing Commonwealth. He will support an amended Electoral Bill, including the principle of one man one vote; an amended Mining Bill, a bill for the conservation and proper using of water, a bill for the settlement of labour disputes, and a bill for local or district governments.

HINDLE, JOHN (Newtown), who is a representative of labour, is in favour of the creation of a labour department, as well as of a national bank, and approves of irrigation being carried out. In his opinion taxation to be truly equitable must come from land values. He advocates the extension of the franchise to policemen, and also to shearers.

HOLLIS, DR. LESLIE (Goulburn), is an advocate of the recognition in legislative enactments of "the natural and inalienable rights of the whole community to the land—upon which all must live, and from which by labour all wealth is produced—by the taxation of that value which accrues to land by the presence and needs of the community, irrespective of improvements effected by human exertion; and the absolute and indefeasible right of property on the part of all Crown tenants in improvements effected on their holdings." In that direction, in his opinion, should revenue be sought and from no other source can it, in his opinion, be justifiably derived till this is shown to be insufficient.

HOUGHTON, T. J. (The Glebe), secretary of the Trades and Labour Council, supports the labour platform. He is further in favour of reducing the number of seats in the Assembly, and of enacting that eight hours' work should constitute a day's labour. He agrees with the establishment of boards of arbitration and courts of conciliation on the lines laid down in the report of the Commission on Strikes, and believes in the introduction of a discriminating moderate form of protection. Mr. Houghton was a member of the late Royal Commission on the Cause of Strikes.

HOYLE, H. G., Redfern, late of Railway service, is in full sympathy with the labour platform. He is a protectionist, and intends to keep the fiscal question well to the front, believing it is the only way of improving the condition of the workers.

HUTCHINSON, G. F. (Forbes), proclaims himself to be a protectionist and a working-men's advocate. He believes that a tax on land values would be a fair and equitable one. He is in favour of the amendment of the land laws and of the introduction of a new comprehensive, and sound Mining Act, of the reduction of the number of members to 100, of one man one vote, of single electorates, and of all elections being held on one day. He does not approve of the proposal to extend the franchise to women. He is an advocate of the Parliamentary sitting lasting from 10 o'clock in the morning till 6 in the evening. The Upper House should, in his opinion, be elective. Mr. Hutchinson is a republican, believing that the time must come when the colony must cut the apron strings which tied it to the old country. "If separated they would," he said, "feel just as strongly and as kindly toward their mother country, but if they did not separate they would be having the peerage business introduced into this country. They would have a regular grand royalty, and there would be the Lord of Blink Bonnie, the Marquis of Murrumbogie and Duck's Flat, the Lord of Burrawang and Count Carrawobitty. No, they did not want peerages introduced into the country, but they preferred that all men should be plain Mr." He is in favour of local option with compensation.

JEANNERET, C. E. (Carcoar), is in favour of federation, electoral reform, and local option with compensation, but is opposed to prohibition at present. He advocates the more effectual opening up of Crown lands, the abolition of school fees in primary schools, and the establishment of technical colleges in important centres throughout the colony. He also thinks that more encouragement should be given to farmers by way of water conservation and instruction, and will vote for a measure for mining on private property.

JOHNSTON, JAMES (Balmain) is a labour member. He thinks that in New South Wales children work under unfit conditions. He says that the labour party "want to be like the boys on the see-saw, with the two parties on either end of the plank, and the labour representatives in the middle."

JONES, R. (Mudgee) comes forward in the freetrade and labour interests, but opposes the Government on the federation bill.

KELLY, A. J. (West Sydney), who is secretary to the Wharf Labourers' Union, owes his return to his declaration to fight for concessions to the labouring classes. He intends to sit upon the cross benches and support the platform of the Labour Electoral League.

KIRKPATRICK, JOHN (Gunnedah), who was nominated by the Labour Electoral League, intends to sit upon the cross-benches. He is a freetrader, and advocates the abolition of plural voting, and the election of magistrates by the people. He is directly opposed to federation, "except on a national basis." Mr. Kirkpatrick is of opinion that New South Wales has everything to lose and nothing to gain by the scheme brought forward by the Convention.

LANGWELL, HUGH (Bourke), is a labour representative. He has come to the conclusion that "up to now labour has never been adequately represented in the House; it has been recognised only as a slave. We have now found out that labour must be directly represented in Parliament, or else our great labour organisations will be rendered practically useless." He is an advocate of one man one vote, of the subdivision of the Bourke electorate into three constituencies, and of the repeal of the Masters and Servants Act.

LONSDALE, EDMUND (New England), came out as the champion of the working men. He is a stanch freetrader, believes in one man one vote, states that he was the first to adopt the eight-hour system in the district, advocates local option, believes in federation, votes for a land tax, and supports local government and a new mining bill.

LYSAGHT, A. (Illawarra), favours intercolonial freetrade, with protection against the world. He is opposed to the Federation Constitution Bill as it stands. He believes in one man one vote, sympathises with labour, but is an independent candidate, attached to neither party, and will take his seat on the cross-benches.

M'GOWEN, JAMES (Redfern), President of the Eight-hour Demonstration Committee, is a labour candidate. When nominated he explained that "he stood before the electors as one who was disowned by the protectionists, and not recognised by the freetraders." Any measure introduced into the House that threatens the wellbeing of the workers will be opposed by him. He supports the "one man one vote principle," and intends to fight for an eight-hour bill.

M'KINNON, H. (the Hastings and Manning), professes to believe in federation, but says that this colony requires protection for some six or seven years before federation, to put it on an equal footing with Victoria. He is in favour of the registration of voters, and approves of each elector being provided with a certificate, on presentation of which he would be entitled to vote in whatever district he might be. In regard to local option, he favours the taking a plebiscite of the people to say whether licenses should be continued or not. Protection would, in his opinion, give his district a steady market.

MARKS, JAMES (Paddington), is an absolute and stanch freetrader. He thinks that the bulk of the people are scarcely prepared for federation. Its realisation will be a matter of time and education. He is prepared to support a bill for the federation of the colonies upon broad, liberal, and democratic lines, but is opposed to the present Convention Bill as a whole, which he considers should be submitted to the Parliament for amendment and re-committal in the same manner as all other bills are dealt with. He favours local option; would vote for a board of conciliation in labour matters, and advocates electoral reform.

MORGAN, JAMES (The Bogan), is president of the Amalgamated Miners' Association at Peak Hill, and is a labour representative. He is a protectionist and is against federation. He does not promise support to Sir Henry Parkes or Mr. Dibbs, but will sit on the cross benches.

MURPHY, W. A. (Balmain), late secretary of the Marine Officers' Association, is a labour representative and intends to vote against class legislation. He desires to assist his co-workers in squeezing the labour platform into law from whatever side of the House it may come. He desires to wipe the "capitalistic statutes" off the Statute Book.

NEILD, J. C. (Paddington) proclaims himself a stanch freetrader. He will support a scheme for the federation of the colonies provided that it is a fair and equitable one, and that it receives the favour of the House and of the country. He favours local self-government and law reform; believes in "one man one vote;" suggests that there should be an extension of technical education; and supports the eight-hour bill, the factories and workshops bill, and an amendment of the mining laws.

NEWMAN, H. W. (Orange), was one of the candidates chosen by the labour party. He favours abolishing the nomination of candidates at the hustings, advocates one man one vote, and urges that eight hours should constitute a legal day's work. He would tax unimproved land, and announces himself as a freetrader.

NEWTON, JAMES (Balranald), is a protectionist. He is a federationist, and in favour of the formation of single-member electorates, equalised on a population basis; the abolition of plural voting, and the election of candidates by an absolute majority of votes. He advocates the introduction of a comprehensive scheme of water conservation and irrigation.

NICHOLSON, J. B. (Illawarra), will not, as a labour representative, support either Sir Henry Parkes or Mr. Dibbs. He will vote for any measure that will give fair legislation for the working people of the colony. He advocates electoral reform, amended mining legislation, the establishment of boards of conciliation and arbitration, the introduction of local government, the establishment of a national scheme of water conservation and irrigation, and federation on an Australian as opposed to an Imperialistic basis.

PARKES, VARNEY (East Sydney), came before the electors as a true liberal and freetrader, and a supporter of equitable laws for the welfare of all classes. He is a supporter of the Australian Constitution now developing, which he believes will, in Convention, be moulded on a basis to meet all the national exigencies. He promises to support any wise proposal for the solution of the labour difficulty, and for the establishment of a more permanent understanding between employer and employed.

RAE, A. (the Murrumbidgee), comes into the House in the interests of labour, with the view of holding the balance of power between the other parties, whom he contends have used their influence for personal and party ends. He alleges that the labour platform contains the sentiment of justice to all and special privilege to none. Independent of the tariff and war policy, Mr. Rae thinks we require legislation for the working classes, and he intends to help to force any party that comes into power to pass measures of a true liberal nature, which the voice of the people demand.

ROSE, T. (Argyle), is a protectionist and an ardent democrat. He is strongly opposed to the Commonwealth Constitution Bill, and at the present time is not prepared to accept any form of federation. He approves of payment of members at per sitting, and of the reduction of the number of members to 80.

SCOTT, DAVID (Newcastle), who is the Mayor of Carrington, is an advocate of the platform of the Labour Electoral League, and is pledged to do all he can to secure the adoption of the one man one vote system.

SHARP, W. H. (Redfern), President of the Trades and Labour Council, goes into Parliament as the mouthpiece of trades-unionism. He is a protectionist, but places the welfare of the working classes above party considerations. He agrees with local option but not with prohibition or State compensation. He believes in eight-hour legislation, and advocates the establishment of a department of labour.

SHELDON, JOS (The Namoi), enters the House in the interests of the wage-earners. He favours eight-hour legislation, self-registration of voters, and thinks that members should simply be delegates and consult their constituents on all questions. He advocates decentralisation, a national bank, and free education as the right of the people.

SUTTOR, F. B. (Bathurst), has had a considerable amount of Parliamentary experience, both as a member of an Administration and as a private member of both Chambers. He is a protectionist, is in favour of the adoption of the one man one vote system, and an advocate of granting compensation to publicans who may be deprived of their licenses as the result of a local option vote. If the working men desire an enactment providing that eight hours shall constitute a day's work, he will vote for it.

VAUGHN, R. M. (Grenfell), previously represented the constituency, and has held office as a Minister of the Crown. He believes in federation, but not on the lines laid down by the Government. He approves of the principle of one man one vote, of the creation of single electorates, and of the holding of all the elections on one day. He disapproves of the single tax. He advocates the repeal of the Masters and Servants Act, and the creation of an elective Upper House. Mr. Vaughn sees nothing to which he can object in the platform of the Labour Electoral League. In his opinion labour should be regulated in a similar way to agriculture and mining.

WILLIAMS, THOMAS (the Upper Hunter), is a labour representative, who favours federation, but is opposed to the Convention Bill. He advocates one man one vote, local government, and local option without compensation; and is a moderate protectionist.

WISE, B. R. (South Sydney), cordially supports the proposal to refer the draft bill of the Convention to our Parliament for criticism and amendment, and believes that any measure which may ultimately be adopted by a second Convention should be referred to a popular vote upon the basis of one man one vote. As a freetrader, he looks with no alarm upon the prospect of deciding the fiscal issue in a Parliament of the Australian Commonwealth. He is in favour of single member electorates and an elective Upper House and the registration of voters. He believes in the control by the State or local governing body of such works or undertakings as railways, tramways, and water supply; a Workshop and Factories Act, dealing specifically with the sweating system is of pressing importance; a tax on land values, irrespective of improvements, is, in his opinion, of the highest social and economical value. On the question of local option he will support the bill, in its essential principles, as recently introduced in Parliament.

YORK, T. H. (Wellington), although elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Ferguson, never took his seat, and therefore may be regarded as a new member. Mr. York, although a hostile critic of Sir Henry Parkes, is pledged to identify himself neither with Mr. Dibbs nor Sir Henry Parkes. No matter on what side of the House Mr. York sits, he will, he says, vote for electoral reform as affecting one man one vote, for a local government bill, and for any other measure for the good of the country, no matter by whom introduced. He thinks that the day of protection is coming, and declares himself to be a protectionist. Mr. York declares that he is not a special legislator. He is not the representative of one class; he is not a farmer's man, nor a squatter's man, nor a labour man, but one who will do his best for all. He intends to promote the interests of the miner, the farmer, the squatter, the tradesman, the good of all. He stands up, he says, for the national interest, knowing neither creed nor class, and will not be a delegate for one particular party. He is of opinion that some kind of federation will come in time, but the first duty of the Parliament is to legislate for New South Wales, to build it up to a nation. Federation will come by the united voice of the people.

QUEANBEYAN.

CAPTAIN'S FLAT, FRIDAY.

Great activity is being shown by both parties with regard to the polling at Captain's Flat, Brindabella, Uriarra, and Ledgerton. The statement that voters cannot cross the Murrumbidgee to the poll is incorrect. The Tuemas Bridge is available, and there are boats at Uriarra.

MOLONG.

MOLONG, FRIDAY.

Mr. P. F. A. Kinna, returning officer, officially declared the poll as follows to-day, in the presence of a large number of electors:—Dr. Ross, 318; Lindsay, 318; Hurley, 189; total, 1387—an increase from last election of 99 votes.

Dr. Ross, in returning thanks, met with a grand reception. He thanked the electors in a splendid speech for placing him at the top of the poll by such a large majority.

Mr. LINDSAY also thanked the electors, and said he again intended to contest the electorate.

Dr. Ross moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Kinna for the able manner in which he had carried out the proceedings in connection with the election, and Mr. Kinna briefly replied.

Dr. Ross called for three cheers for the Queen, which were spontaneously given.

BALRANALD.

HAY, FRIDAY.

The last return came to-day from Clare, giving Newton 5, Wilkinson 28, Lakeman 10, Cameron 7. Mr. Newton returned from the election campaign to-day and was accorded a great reception. He was presented with an address, and was drawn through the town in a waggon with 10 grey horses. The whole town turned out to welcome him.

BOURKE.

BOURKE, FRIDAY.

Polling was very brisk all the morning. Unionists, numbering about 200, marched round the town with a banner, and with a band playing, and crowded round the polling place. Everything went on smoothly. Each candidate's supporters worked hard. The full official returns cannot be in for a few days.

The following are the results of the polling from the returns to hand:—

This extraordinary polling throughout the whole electorate is accounted for by the large number of shearers and labourers who have been well organised at many places. Infinitely more votes were polled than there are inhabitants, and there is no doubt that a large amount of impersonation has taken place. Four persons were arrested to-day charged with impersonating.

A crowd of 500 labourers created a great din in the streets, and were harangued by Mr. Crick. No more returns are expected in to-night.

COLLARENDABRI, FRIDAY.

Mr. Waddell had a splendid meeting here last night. A vote in his favour was carried by a large majority. He declared himself an independent candidate, a freetrader, and strongly in favour of federation—but not on the lines of the Federal Draft Bill. He advocated boards of conciliation to settle labour disputes, and the early meeting of the conflicting parties. He dwelt largely on irrigation, and favoured the extension of the railways to the Narran via Collarendabri. Mr. Sherwin, of Angledool, was in the chair.

THE LABOUR PARTY.

The first caucus meeting of the Labour Party will be held this morning at the Temperance Hall. The situation will be thoroughly discussed, and the movements of the party probably decided upon. It is understood that amongst other business to be transacted will be the election of a leader and a secretary to the party.

At a meeting of the central executive of the Labour Electoral League, held at the Trades Hall last evening, the following motion was passed,—"That this committee take steps to hold a labour demonstration for the purpose of escorting the newly-elected labour members to Parliament House on Tuesday evening, 14th instant, in the event of the matter meeting with the approval of the members at the caucus to be held to-morrow, Saturday."

Mr. T. J. Houghton, secretary of the Trades and Labour Council, has, since the labour victory, received numerous congratulations from labour organisations, and amongst them are the following:—From the Federated Trade-Union Council, Wellington, N.Z.: "I am instructed by the conference of New Zealand Trades Councils now sitting in Wellington to remark upon the signal success attained by the labour party of Sydney during the elections which have recently taken place. There can be no doubt that much of this success is attributable to the organisation of which your council is the head, and therefore this conference congratulates the workers of Sydney, through your council, upon the unprecedented success with which their efforts have been attended. At first the success of the labour party in New Zealand was regarded as phenomenal, but that pales into insignificance with the splendid results of your late elections. New Zealand enjoys the glorious privilege of the one man one vote principle, which you in New South Wales do not, and therefore your success is of a more gratifying nature. The wish of this conference is that you will never cease working until you have attained the abolition of the pernicious system of plural voting."

The secretary of the Ballarat council has written: "I have the honour by instructions of the above council to forward the following resolution, which was carried amidst cheers at our last meeting: 'That this council accord its heartiest congratulations to the Labour Council of New South Wales for its success during the political campaign, showing as it does the unity of feeling and action on the part of the New South Wales workers, and trusts that the same success will continue to follow their unceasing efforts in the endeavour to constitutionally improve the condition of the people.'" The Social Democratic League of Victoria has written stating that the following resolution was carried at a public meeting held in the Trades Hall, Melbourne:—"That the congratulations of this meeting be conveyed to the Trades and Labour Council of New South Wales on the magnificent triumph achieved by the labour party during the recent elections for members to serve in the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, and further, this meeting also expresses its confidence that the great victory is the prelude of the return at the earliest opportunity of a majority of representatives pledged to give effect to measures calculated to enhance the welfare of the people." The Rockhampton Workers' Political Association has telegraphed congratulations upon the signal victory gained by the labour party.

The central committee of the Canterbury Labour Electoral League met at Ashfield on Thursday night. Mr. C. J. Danahey presided, and representatives of the various branches throughout the electorate were present. The balance-sheet showed that the total cost of the late election campaign to the Canterbury League, exclusive of propaganda expenses, was under £50. The meeting then proceeded to the election of officers of the permanent committee, with the following result:—President, Mr. R. Harris; vice-presidents, Messrs. Jackson and Blair; secretary, Mr. Brunsden; treasurer, Mr. Dawe; delegate to central committee, Mr. J. Quinnen.

At a meeting of the Dulwich Hill branch of the Canterbury Labour Electoral League, on Wednesday, arrangements were made for a series of meetings for the advancement of the cause, and the following officers were elected:—President, Mr. T. Sayburn; vice-presidents, Messrs. Cummings and Light; secretary, Mr. S. Blair; treasurer, Mr. W. Ward; delegates to central committee, Messrs. Blair and Sayburn.

THE LATE JAMES FLETCHER.

UNVEILING A MEMORIAL TABLET.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, FRIDAY.

A tablet commemorating the late James Fletcher was unveiled last night, at the Primitive Methodist Church, Plattsburg. The proceedings were very solemn. The Mayor of Plattsburg presided, and there were present Messrs. Ninian Melville, M.L.A., James Richardson, J.P., Aldermen M'Ilroe (Plattsburg) and Asher (Newcastle), and the Revs. T. Davis (Plattsburg), J. Blanksby (Wickham), and John Penman (Burwood). Mrs. Fletcher and family were also present. Mr. James Richardson, J.P., a friend of the late Mr. Fletcher for more than 30 years, after removing the veil from the tablet, paid a long tribute to the memory of Mr. Fletcher.

After the ceremony Mr. William Fletcher, second son of the deceased, rose, and on behalf of the family thanked all present very sincerely for the kindness they had shown in seeking to perpetuate his father's memory.

The proceedings closed with a memorial address from the Rev. J. Blanksby.

The tablet is of polished marble, placed in the centre of the church, just above the pew which Mr. Fletcher and his family occupied. It bears the following inscription:—"In memory of James Fletcher, M.L.A., an ex-Minister of the Crown, died March 19, 1891, aged 56 years. For many years a resident of this town, he always took a deep interest in its welfare. Benevolent, kind, and just, a true friend to his people, he exemplified in his life Matthew xxv., 35 and 36. Not of this perishing stone, but unto the hearts of thy affiliated friends, is thy worth recorded."

A YACHT'S EXPERIENCE.

A report is to hand of the voyage of the yacht Boronia. The yacht left Sydney on June 10 for New Caledonia, then to New Hebrides and Solomon Group for a general cruise. All went well until about 100 miles from Lord Howe Island on June 22, when she fell in with terrific weather. It blew a half-gale at 8 p.m., with confused sea and dreadful wind and rain squalls, put out the sea anchor; it increased landed to S.E. on Tuesday, vessel drifting at the rate of two miles per hour, glass 29° and falling. On Wednesday put out second sea anchor, wind about E., gale moderated about 12 p.m. on Wednesday; lowest glass during gale, 29·50. At 6.30 p.m. on Monday had a tremendous upheaval, threw the vessel on her beam ends, carried away the jibboom, smashed the skylight, and other damage, putting 6ft. of water in the vessel. Charts were destroyed, and everything spoilable. Used oil bags. A quantity of sand ballast was thrown several feet in height.

AUSTRALIAN ADVENTURE.

Commencing in the EVENING NEWS on SATURDAY NEXT, July 11.

THE MARVELLOUS EXPERIENCES OF AN EX-CONVICT.

FIFTY YEARS AS PRISONER, BUSHRANGER, AND GOLD-DIGGER.

The EVENING NEWS has secured a complete history of 50 years of Australian life—the experiences of an ex-convict and gold-digger, now living, aged 72.

The tale is as strange and realistic as any of the works of Defoe, or such works as "For the Term of his Natural Life" or "Robbery Under Arms," but, by far, more exciting.

It has references to many persons now living, and many famous in colonial history, and residents and tradesmen of Sydney.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

SATURDAY, JULY 4, 1891.

At a special meeting of the Executive Council, held yesterday afternoon, his Excellency the Governor, on the advice of his Ministers, ordered the issue of a proclamation calling the new Parliament together on the 14th instant, and proroguing the Legislative Council from the 7th instant to the same date.

Large quantities of wheat are being purchased by the Russian Government for the peasantry in the Western, Central, and Southern provinces of Russia, who have been reduced to the verge of starvation by the failure of the harvest.

H.M.S. Cordelia was in port at Suva when the steamer Rockton left, and was expected to sail thence on June 27 for Noumea. H.M.S. Goldfinch left Aneityum on June 27 for a cruise among the New Hebrides Islands.

With the exception of the Bishop of Limerick, the Irish hierarchy has signed a resolution calling upon the people to repudiate Mr. Parnell's leadership of the Irish party.

At the Liverpool Police Court on Thursday a local alderman, named Thomas W. Taylor, was called upon to show cause why he had not complied with an order of the Court to pay the sum of £11 16s 4d, due as wages to his housekeeper. Defendant said the order was a miscarriage of justice. He offered to pay what he considered was owing, and donate the balance of the amount to a charitable institution.

Several of his friends begged him to pay or allow them to do so, but he obstinately refused. On his own application defendant was allowed 24 hours in the Liverpool lockup, in order to arrange business matters before going to Parramatta Gaol.

At a meeting of the council of the New South Wales Rifle Association, held last evening, a letter of condolence was ordered to be forwarded to the widow of the late Commander Lewington. The sum of £50 was also subscribed in the room towards a proposed memorial.

The Land Court has just concluded the longest sitting yet held in Armidale. Between 500 and 600 cases were disposed of.

The revenue derived from the sale of Crown lands in the Newcastle district for the half-year ended June 30 amounts to £14,372, being an increase of £13,000, compared with the corresponding period of last year.

It has transpired that the Queen of Roumania was strongly favourable to the marriage of the Crown Prince of Roumania to Mdlle. Vacaresco, one of her maids of honour. The Queen first entreated and afterwards threatened the Cabinet to confirm the betrothal, and it was only when all her efforts had failed that the projected marriage was abandoned.

On Thursday evening a tablet of polished marble, commemorating the late James Fletcher, was unveiled in the Primitive Methodist Church, Plattsburg. A memorial address was afterwards delivered by the Rev. J. Blanksby.

The fourth of July celebrations will be observed with the usual festivities to-day. Mr. Alexander Cameron, the Acting-Consul for the United States of America, will hold a reception at the Consulate, Castlereagh-street, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., and in the evening a small party will attend the Theatre Royal.

At a meeting of the City Railway Commission, held in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon, Mr. Eddy submitted a proposal for the extension of the railway into the city, which was a modification of the Hyde Park scheme. Its consideration was postponed till Tuesday next.

With reference to a statement by Sir Henry Parkes, questioning the applicability of the Payment of Members Act to the new Parliament, the Attorney-General has forwarded an opinion that the operation of the Act is not limited to members of the late Legislative Assembly.

A case of alleged manslaughter, possessing several peculiar features, is occupying the attention of the Supreme Court at Perth (W.A.) The accused is a pearler named James Archibald, and he is stated to have brutally ill-treated and neglected a Malay servant named Jessop, in March last, which circumstances, it is alleged, if not the direct cause of death, certainly accelerated it.

Great suffering and privations from pestilence and famine are being experienced by the Jews who, on their expulsion from Russia, took refuge in Palestine.

The Irish Land Purchase Bill has been passed through committee in the House of Lords.

It is probable that the Rev. Dr. Jefferis, late of the Pitt-street Congregational Church, Sydney, will accept the pastorate of the Belgrave Church at Torquay.

Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria is reported to have been betrothed to the Archduchess Dorothy, eldest daughter of the Archduke Joseph of Austria.

The sum of £300,000 has been bequeathed by the late Mr. William Guesdon, of Clapham, to the charitable institutions of Great Britain, Tasmania, and Victoria. The Roman Catholic institutions are, however, not to participate in the bequest.

F. P. Slavin, the Australian pugilist, announces that he is prepared to make a match with John L. Sullivan to fight in the Australian colonies, on Sullivan's approaching visit, provided that an Australian purse of £4000 be raised.

At the New South Wales Club yesterday the retiring secretary, Mr. K. G. Nyberg, was presented with a pocket-book and cheque for 100 guineas subscribed among the members of the club.

In the libel action Mr. G. E. Ardill v. the Australian Workman, which was continued in No. 4 Jury Court yesterday, plaintiff concluded his evidence, and the testimony of his wife and several other witnesses was taken on his behalf.

There was a large attendance yesterday at the annual show of poultry and dogs in the Exhibition Building. The show closes to-day.

Regarding the heavy fighting which has occurred recently between the Presidential and Congressionalist forces in Chili, the latter claim to have achieved a decided victory. They further declare to have occupied the town of Huasco on the sea-coast, and to have caused ex-President Balmaceda's army to retreat.

According to the revised census returns the population of Adelaide and suburbs within a radius of 10 miles of the General Post Office, is 133,320, being an increase of 29,278, or 22 per cent. since the year 1881.

One hundred armed Boers have been prevented from crossing the Limpopo River into Mashonaland by a police force in the service of the British South Africa Company. The police arrested the leader of the Boer party.

Owing to the refusal of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company in London to grant extra payment to the stevedores employed in loading vessels on Coronation Day, a lock-out has occurred. Loading is being proceeded with by men belonging to the Shipping Federation.

Rioting has occurred at the docks in consequence of the locked-out stevedores making an attack upon the federation hands engaged upon the steamer Britannia.

A circular letter has been issued by the Board of Health directing the attention of the medical practitioners in the colony to the Parliamentary Acts now in force providing for the notification of infectious diseases to the board.

The activity of the labour party in Victoria has led to the formation of a National Association in that colony, with the avowed object of preserving the national character of the Legislature, as it is affirmed that representatives should not be delegates of any section of society.

We publish to-day a lengthy manifesto by Mr. Whiteley King, secretary of the New South Wales Pastoralists' Union, setting forth the views of the pastoralists upon the question of the suggested conference between that body and the Shearers' Union.

Mr. Daniel O'Connor has tendered his resignation as Postmaster-General, but it is understood that the Government will decline to accept it.

The Customs revenue received yesterday amounted to £8932.

The close of the general election is suggestive of several points of interest in addition to those more closely connected with party politics and the prospects of useful legislation in the new Parliament to which we have already referred. In another column a number of facts and figures relating to the election will be seen grouped together, and those of our readers who have time and inclination to follow out the lines of inquiry indicated by them will not find their trouble thrown away. Here we would remark that, taking all the circumstances into consideration, the country has passed through the ordeal in a satisfactory and creditable way. The number of votes polled points to the large amount of interest that was taken in the contest. In some places there was evidence of excitement of feeling. New issues were involved, and some of them, being connected with the special interests of a particular class, tended to evoke more than ordinary warmth and energy. But notwithstanding all things that might have seemed likely to work against the preservation of order and peace, order has been maintained as a rule, and the peace has been practically unbroken. The exceptions have been too few, and too unimportant, to require particular notice when the course of the election generally is reviewed. If freedom of speech has in some cases been imperilled, evidence has been supplied of a kind to allay apprehensions of any permanent or serious danger. These facts do credit to the intelligence and temper of our people; but it would be an inadequate view of the situation that contained no reference to the beneficial influence of the ballot in keeping down dangerous excitement and promoting order and peace. Some of us remember the different circumstances that surrounded contested elections in the colony before the ballot was introduced. Others have been witnesses of the rough play and violence at elections in the mother-country where party feeling has run high. If we have not now fallen into such extremes here, the difference is not wholly traceable to personal superiority; it is at least partly to be explained by the consideration that the ballot keeps the issue concealed until the close of the day, and shuts off many causes of irritation that present themselves from hour to hour where the fluctuations of a contest are under observation, and men's passions are excited by anticipations of victory and apprehensions of defeat. During the first great day of the general election, when so many contests in the Metropolitan district were being fought out, quiet reigned for hours together in the streets of Sydney, and a stranger uninformed would not have imagined that a momentous struggle was going on.

The most distinctive feature of this general election was the appearance of so many labour candidates upon the hustings, and the registration of so large a labour vote at the polls. But if we are struck by the novelty of these developments, we should also recognise in them an illustration of the instincts of the race. Englishmen generally have strong faith in the power of Parliament, and the habit of carrying their grievances there for mitigation or cure. The voyage across the seas has not changed the minds of the Englishmen who are here now, and those who came in earlier days handed down their tendencies and traditions to their sons. The appearance of the labour candidates, and the votes of electors of their own class, are evidence of a feeling amongst the class that it has claims which ought to be attended to, that Parliament is the place where they should be urged, and that the means they have chosen for presenting them in Parliament are likely to be more effective than any others to which they could resort. If it can be assumed that Parliament will not lose sight of its true position and duties, that sound Parliamentary rules of action will be adhered to, and that the interests of the community as a whole in the steady progress of well-considered reform will be kept in view, the new development may be regarded as a healthy sign. Apart from these conditions the situation would present a different aspect. It is well that any class, honestly conscious of grievances, should look to Parliament for their redress, instead of resorting to action in conflict with the letter or the spirit of the law. It would be one of the gravest calamities that could afflict the country if Parliamentary government, which should be the protection of the liberties and interests of all, should be corrupted, rendered unworthy of confidence, or destroyed.

It is possible, if not probable, that the general election just concluded will be the last conducted under the electoral law now in force. That law has done its work, but not in a perfect way. The chances are that no electoral system which could be devised would operate with mathematical accuracy as a means of procuring the just representation of opinions and interests in Parliament. But we are such a long way off that point that there is room for hope in electoral reform, if it be genuine reform, and not ill-considered change adopted for the sake of change, or merely under the influence of a cry. In the last general election but one there were 13 uncontested elections. On this last occasion there were only seven, and arguments, founded upon calculations of the number of votes polled, have therefore greater force. From the figures elsewhere it appears that in round numbers 87,000 votes were polled for Ministerial members, 62,000 for Opposition members, 68,000 for labour members, and 13,000 for the independent men. If the number of votes in each case be compared with the number of members returned, it will be seen that the element of fair proportion is lacking to a remarkable degree. A system that works out such results as these is an unfaithful system, and is in need of considerable change. The question is, how to change it without introducing new evils, or worse ones. The votes given for successful candidates numbered, roughly speaking, 230,000, and 184,000 were given for unsuccessful men. The dream of Mr. Hare, who died a few weeks ago, was that by his system of proportional representation no votes would be thrown away. Mr. Hare's scheme, though it had many believers when it was first propounded, is now regarded as a dream, and the tendency of thought is generally in the direction of simplicity rather than of complication. The danger of a complicated system is that in actual practice it would be liable to be misunderstood on the one hand, or to be manipulated on the other, or to break down in both ways. A system of single electorates is also liable to abuse, and in the United States has been abused. To make each electorate homogeneous would be a task of great difficulty. To abandon the attempt as hopeless would lead to injustice. There is a choice of evils in any case, but in the light of some of the results of this general election the choice will have to be made.

A correspondent who wrote about indistinct reading and speaking the other day broached a subject which probably would have attracted more attention had we been less familiarised with the state of things he criticised. People who are not able to appreciate the seriousness of the complaint made may regard as querulous the strictures on what this candid friend calls the "wretched reading, improper and indistinct enunciation, but, worse than all, bad pronunciation of our beautiful language." The reason, no doubt, is the same as that which allows the blind to be untroubled by the darkness, or the deaf to tolerate cacophony. They are either accustomed to it, or they do not know of any difference. There are those, however, who will think with our correspondent, and entirely agree in what he has to say about the discredit our readers and speakers reflect upon us, and in the feeling of repugnance which their slovenliness inspires. To say as he does that the correct pronunciation of the Queen's English is wholly neglected is perhaps to go a little too far. It would be a sad thing to have to admit that in these colonies there existed no polite circles of culture and good taste in which the English tongue was read and spoken in its purity, without affectation, or without regard to its elegancies of form and those elocutionary graces of enunciation, emphasis, and effortless but nicely-graduated expression which all go to make up what is characteristic in "the tongue that Shakespeare spake," and keep it from degenerating at this distance from its cradle into the rude jargon of a barbar-oi. We are still at a stage somewhere on the safe side of all this, et us hope, on the Avernus-slope our critic indicates; but even if his censures are inclined to be querulous and his exaggerations a little fantastic, the apologist who would take up the cudgels in our defence would probably find before he had done that it was easier to make out an adverse case than to put forward a favourable one. Taking the whole of the Australian colonies to-day, there are not many known public speakers who could deliver an address on any great question or occasion without justifying most of what our correspondent says in his letter, besides inflicting severe injuries on the head of Priscian in the course of the operation.

It is peculiarly unfortunate that this should be so in a society like ours, where public speaking is carried to such an excess, and where it is found impossible to undertake the most trifling public function without celebrating the fact by a copious outflow of words. In this respect we seem to be following a line of development of which the eccentric manifestations have been reported upon for the general edification by a kindly observer in another new country. When Dickens first visited the United States nothing seems to have struck him so much as the desire of the free people who energised there to express themselves at large, and in the most ceremonial manner, on all occasions. He ran the whole merciless gauntlet of popular eloquence, from Dr. Ginery Dunkle to Mr. Jefferson Brick, and came back and satirised the national failing in a way his victims never forgot. Perhaps the revenge was fiercer than the offence merited, but there is a difficulty about nicely proportioning the measure of punishment in cases of this kind; and, even at its worst, the sacrifice may stand as a warning. Similar conditions are in a very fair way indeed to produce much the same state of things here, and so long as the first passport to success in public life is the capacity to talk, much as private success depends on the exercise of a crude faculty of self-assertion, it is probable that the process of local manufacture of Ginery Dunkles and Jefferson Bricks of our own will go merrily on. Since we are compelled to listen to them, the least we can insist upon is that they will make the affliction endurable; and to this extent it becomes a matter of public concern that a little more attention should be paid to form as well as to quantity in public speaking. To extend the demand to quality at this stage would perhaps be asking too much, and for the present it would be judicious to rest content in aspiring to say nothing in particular with such regard to distinctness and propriety as not to offend the ear by slipshod solecisms or slovenly gracelessness in public speaking. In respect to this, distinctness of enunciation is surely the first thing to be aimed at. If we are to believe what our correspondents say about the pulpit, or what is reported of political speakers on the hustings or in Parliament, or even what is alleged of neglect in the teaching of so elementary a branch of study as reading in our Public schools, we have still much to learn before our public speakers or readers become decently tolerable.

The English language is one that by its flexibility and vigour lends itself to eloquence and elocutionary effect, and we owe it to ourselves to see that this magnificent heritage does not deteriorate in our hands. One of the most valuable of the things we owe to our connection with the mother-country is the fact that our social life is enriched from time to time by men from the English centres, who bring the traditions of English eloquence and public speaking with them. These have been our best models in the past, and what these colonies mainly suffer from is a paucity of good models. In other countries the stage is a school of elocution, and professional speakers of all classes are not above studying there. Our correspondent's letter makes mention of the existence of a University professorship of public reading, which has the same formative end in view. There is practically nothing of the kind in the colonies. Now and then on the stage it is our good fortune to hear an actor or an actress whose distinctness of articulation and sense of the æsthetic effect of cultivated voice-management make his or her playing a treat of the first order while it lasts. But these are exceptions. For the most part the stage is as deficient in all these respects as in that sensibility to the value of an inflection or a tone, or the fascination that clings to the worthy use of noble words, which give life and colour to histrionism. The case is still worse when defective articulation adds its grisly horrors to the murdered effect, or when pathos is sacrificed, and "sabre cuts of Saxon speech" are blunted or turned aside by some miserable little vulgarism of pronunciation. In the classic days of the English stage the use of "gell" for "girl," or "taown" for "town" would have been received with as little toleration as Kemble's "aitches." Although Mr. Froude complimented us on our pronunciation of English and its freedom from provincialisms, it is apparent to ourselves that the native-born of these colonies are not above concocting a few barbarisms of their own. This tendency might be counteracted, and the slovenliness of public speaking and reading corrected in time, if a little more attention were given to this important matter in our Public schools. It is important enough in itself, but in a community like ours, where the practice of public speaking threatens to degenerate into a nuisance, it is a crying necessity that the affliction should not be made harder to bear than is absolutely necessary.

The Attorney-General, in reply to inquiries from the Premier, has given his opinion that "the operation of the Parliamentary Representatives' Allowance Act is not limited to members of the late Legislative Assembly, but extends to every member of every Legislative Assembly who is not one of the persons" specially excepted by the Act, that is to say the Speaker, the Chairman of Committees, members holding offices of profit, &c. It is difficult to see that there is ground for imagining that any other interpretation could be placed upon the words of the Statute. To prevent misunderstanding it may be well to quote the second section of the Act in full:—

Every member of the Legislative Assembly now serving or hereafter to serve therein shall, unless he is one of the persons specified or referred to in the next following section, be entitled to receive, by way of reimbursement for expenses incurred by him in the discharge of his Parliamentary duties, an allowance at the rate of three hundred pounds per annum; which allowance shall be charged on the consolidated revenue fund, and be payable monthly, at the rate aforesaid, to every such member of this present Legislative Assembly now serving, from the date of the passing of this Act, and to every such member hereafter elected, from the time of his taking his seat, and in every case, until he shall resign, or his seat be vacated, or until Parliament shall be dissolved, or shall expire by effluxion of time.

The words which establish the right to the payment are those comprised within the first part of the section terminating with "per annum." The words "the Legislative Assembly" in the first line apply to the Assembly as an institution which, although liable to dissolution, and to expiry by effluxion of time, is a permanent branch of the Legislature. Dozens of Acts might be cited in which the words "the Legislative Assembly" are used in the same sense. The Constitution Act, in providing that money bills shall originate in the Assembly, is one of them. The words "hereafter to serve therein" refer, therefore, to all future Assemblies, and not to the particular House which took part in the passing of this Act. The distinction is made the more obvious by the words of the second part of the section, in which the House that took part in the passing of this Act is described as "this present Legislative Assembly." This second part was necessary for the purposes of showing how the money should be paid, when the payments should begin, and when they should cease. But for these provisions all sorts of claims might have been made, and it might possibly have been contended that members were entitled to payment even after the loss of their seats. It is to be remembered that the last Parliament was opened in February, 1889, and the Act was not passed until September. It was therefore necessary to provide expressly when the payment should begin. The original words were "from the commencement of the present session," which would have given the members then sitting six months' back pay. On the motion of Mr. Reid, however, these words were struck out, and as no other words were substituted for them, an awkward hiatus was left. In the Legislative Council the words "from the passing of this Act" were inserted, retrospective appropriation was avoided, and intelligibility was restored. Of course it was foreseen that before that particular Parliament came to an end changes in its composition might occur. Was a member who might be elected six months before the close of that Parliament to receive the same pay as others who had sat from the opening to the close? This difficulty had to be dealt with, and hence the provision that a member elected after the passing of the bill should only be paid from the time of his taking his seat. The only reasons why the Act expressly referred to members of "this present Legislative Assembly" arose out of the necessity of providing for their peculiar and varying circumstances. Taking the section as a whole, it will be seen that it first establishes a general right to payment for present and future members of one branch of the Legislature. It next makes special provision for the special circumstances of members of that particular House, and then becoming once more of general application it provides that "in every case" the payment shall continue until the member's seat becomes vacant, and inferentially shall terminate at that point.

Our telegraphic news reveals an uneasy feeling in Europe in relation to the renewal of the Triple Alliance. In political circles in Vienna, where naturally there is the most friendly appreciation of the value of an alliance with two great Powers for their mutual protection. It appears to be considered that the renewal of this international compact is likely to precipitate the conflict which it was professedly formed to prevent; while a semi-official utterance at St. Petersburg has been made to the effect that unless an alliance is concluded between France and Russia, the three Powers relying on the weakness of their opponents may take steps that will force a general war. This favourable view of an alliance with France has the more significance as it would appear to indicate a completely altered state of feeling in high official circles in Russia. Less than a month ago it was announced, on the usually correct authority of the London Times, that the Czar had refused to form a defensive alliance with France on the grounds that Russia must preserve a free hand; while on the part of France there appeared a waning confidence in the good intentions of the great Northern Power in consequence of disappointment with the attitude of his Imperial Majesty in relation to French claims in Guiana. Certainly important things have occurred since then, which might contribute to such a change in Russian feeling; for not only has the Italian Premier virtually admitted in a turbulent debate in the Italian Chamber that the renewal of the alliance was an accomplished fact, but the Emperor William of Germany has, within the past few days, specifically declared that the Triple Alliance will be prolonged for a period of six years. These confirmations of what was but rumour before may have induced the Emperor of Russia, as well as the French

Government, to reckon up all that was involved in this alliance. Then there has been the great increase in the Austrian vote for military expenditure directed against the massing of Russian troops on the Austrian frontier; and there has been that resolution about clothing the soldiers of the Triple Alliance in mailed armour; and there has been that collision between German workmen and French Customs officers on the frontier; and the edict for the compulsory naturalisation of Germans resident in South-western Russia; and there have been those junketings between the Austrian Emperor and the British fleet at Fiume, with that ominous hope of his that they would fight together in the next war; and those revived rumours of an Anglo-Italian naval alliance, and the projected visit of the Emperor of Germany to England. All these incidents, more or less disconcerting, have been embraced in the brief four weeks that have elapsed since the Czar of Russia is alleged to have expressed his disinclination to an alliance with France; and it is not attaching undue importance to them to say that in the aggregate they are sufficient to account for such a change of Russian feeling and policy as is disclosed in this semi-inspired utterance of the Novoe Vremia of St. Petersburg. The feeling of irritation appears to have extended to France, where nothing was required to stimulate a desire for such an alliance with Russia; and altogether a glance at the position in the light of recent incidents seems to justify the uneasiness existing in political circles at Vienna.

His Excellency the Governor presided over a meeting of the Executive Council yesterday, when all the members were present with the exception of Mr. Bruce Smith and Mr. M'Millan. It was decided that proclamations be issued further proroguing the Legislative Council until the 14th instant, and also summoning both Houses of Parliament to meet at noon on that date for the despatch of public business. It is probable that a meeting of the Executive will be held next Wednesday.

Mr. M'Millan, the Colonial Treasurer, left Sydney by Thursday evening's express train for Melbourne. His business in the sister capital is of a private character.

In compliance with the requirement of Mr. Bruce Smith, the officers of his department in all parts of the colony are forwarding reports on the damage done to public works and roads by the recent floods. Numerous applications have been received from public bodies for assistance to effect the necessary repairs. The reports and applications will be considered by the Minister on Monday next.

Mr. Bruce Smith, in company with Mr. Gould (the Minister for Justice), Mr. Vernon (the Government Architect), Mr. Miller (the Comptroller of Prisons), and Mr. F. Sulman, F.R.I.B.A., who acted as a board of examiners, has inspected the competitive designs sent in for the proposed new gaol at Grafton. The Minister for Works accepted the recommendations of the board of advice, and on Thursday he opened the envelopes containing the names of the successful competitors. They are as follow:—First award of 100 guineas, Mr. Henry A. Wilshire, Centennial Chambers, Hunter-street, Sydney; 2nd award, 50 guineas, Messrs. Backhouse and Laidley, 10 and 12 Hunter-street, Sydney; and 3rd award, 30 guineas, Mr. E. C. Manfred, of Goulburn. The design fourth in the order of merit was also prepared by Mr. H. A. Wilshire, and it was, therefore, deemed advisible not to award a fourth premium. The Minister for Public Works expresses himself as gratified at the success which has attended this first experiment of calling for competitive designs for public buildings.

Doubt having been expressed regarding the applicability of the Parliamentary Representatives' Allowance Act to the members of any other than the last Legislative Assembly, Sir Henry Parkes a few days ago stated a case to the Attorney-General. Sir Henry, in his communication, said:—"The question has been raised whether the Act is not confined to the existence of the late Legislative Assembly, and is now expired. I shall be glad if Mr. Simpson will examine the provisions of the Act and give me his opinion." Yesterday morning the Premier received the following reply:—"I am of opinion that the operation of the Act is not limited to members of the late Legislative Assembly, but extends to every member of every Legislative Assembly who is not one of the persons specified in section 2. The words 'every such member hereafter elected' have very probably caused the doubt which has arisen. The word 'such'—which has the same meaning in the two places in which it is used—was intended to show clearly that the allowance was not to be payable to 'every member of the Legislative Assembly,' but only to 'such' members of the then existing or any future Assembly as are not persons specified in section 2. (Signed) G. B. Simpson, A.G."

A further proposal for a city railway was laid before the Royal Commission on City and Suburban Railways at its meeting yesterday afternoon. The proposal was submitted by Mr. Eddy, Chief Railway Commissioner, and it took the form of a modification of the Hyde Park scheme, which has already been dealt with by the commission. The consideration of the new route was postponed until Tuesday next. The members of the commission present were Messrs. W. H. Pigott, M.L.C. (in the chair), C. F. Stokes, J. Macintosh, J. H. Goodlet, G. Munro, J. Martin, A. Kethel, and J. Macpherson.

The annual ball of the 5th Regiment Scottish Rifles was held yesterday evening at Leigh House, Castlereagh-street. Music was supplied by West's band and the pipe band of the regiment. Supper was provided by the Sydney Catering Company. There were about 70 couples present. Major-General Richardson, C.B., attended, as also did Captain Baynes, Lieutenants Pearce, Dibbs, Robertson, M'Rae (P. P. Artillery), M'Morland (Queensland Scottish), and Jenkins (Permanent Artillery).

Professor Liversidge, M.A., F.R.S., of the Sydney University, has received the following letter from the Admiralty, dated May 19:—"Sir,—With reference to your letter of March 17, forwarding copy of a resolution passed by the Australasian Association for the Advancement of Science at the meeting held at Christchurch, New Zealand, that the name of Tasman Sea should be given to the sea between New Zealand and the Islands of the N.W. of New Zealand on the one hand, and Australia and Tasmania on the other, I am commanded by my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty to acquaint you that the name will be inserted in Admiralty charts and other publications.—I am, sir, your obedient servant, Evan M'Gregor."

The loss of the steamer Ottillie, at the Purdy Islands, has been advised to Messrs. Rabone, Feez, and Co. The vessel was bound from New Guinea to Sourabaya, and struck upon a reef, three days out from her port of departure. The passengers and crew were taken off by the following steamer Isabel. They landed at Frederick Wilhelmshaven. The vessel became a complete wreck.

The Board of Health has issued a circular letter drawing the attention of all medical practitioners resident in New South Wales to the Acts of Parliament now in force which provide for the notification to the board of infectious diseases. The second section of the Infectious Diseases Act of 1881 is the first quoted, and it enacts that all cases of smallpox must be reported immediately to the authorities; the third section of the Leprosy Act, 1890, contains a similar provision in regard to leprosy, and default in either instance incurs a penalty of not less than £10 nor more than £50. The 7th, 11th, and 12th sections of the Dairies Supervision Act are also stated, to show that on the appearance of any case of infectious disease in any dairy premises or milk-store it must be reported, and that non-compliance with this provision or refusal to obey orders or directions of the Board of Health carry penalties not exceeding £20. The infectious diseases under the provisions of the Dairies Supervision Act are cholera, enteric fever, smallpox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and measles, and it is also pointed out that the provisions of the Infectious Disease Supervision Act and the Leprosy Act apply to the whole of the colony of New South Wales. The provisions of the Dairies Supervision Act at the present time only apply to the counties of Cumberland, Camden, Argyle, Northumberland, Durham, and Gloucester, the municipal districts of Albury, Balranald, Broken Hill, and Narrandera, and the police district of Shoalhaven.

The case of Nunn v. the Borough of Redfern, which has occupied the Chief Justice and a jury of four in the No. 1 Court for several days, was continued yesterday, and was not concluded. The defendant borough called evidence to prove that ample provision was made for ordinary rainfall, and that plaintiff, in building his houses, made no proper provision to avoid damage. In the No. 2 Jury Court the evidence in the libel action, Fryer v. Gray, was closed, the defendant calling witnesses to prove that the words complained of were not uttered, or, if they were, the occasion was privileged. The hearing will be resumed on Monday.

The hearing of the libel case of Ardill v. Grant and others, in which Mr. George E. Ardill, director of the Home of Hope, Stanley-street, Newtown, and secretary of other charitable institutions, sought to recover £2000 damages from the proprietors and publisher of a labour journal for publishing certain grave charges against him in relation to his management of the Home of Hope, was continued yesterday at the No. 4 Jury Court before Mr. Justice Innes. The examination of the plaintiff was concluded, and the evidence of Mrs. Ardill, wife of the plaintiff, Mrs. Maria Glass, formerly matron of the Home, Mrs. Isabella Walker, one of the workers at the Home, and Miss Gertrude Williams, niece of the plaintiff, was taken on behalf of the plaintiff. The case stands part heard, and will probably occupy two or three days more.

In No. 3 Jury Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Windeyer, in the action of O'Brien v. the Australian Investment Company, a nonsuit was granted, and in the suit of Hamilton v. Thompson and Sons, a sharebroking transaction, the jury returned a verdict for the defendants.

Pleading for time is a process well known in legal circles, and it is generally adopted where a person against whom a civil writ is issued cannot defend it, but is anxious to postpone the inevitable as long as possible. On several occasions lately members of the Judicial Bench have strongly condemned such a course, and yesterday where an application was made in chambers on behalf of a plaintiff to strike out a fictitious plea to an action upon a promissory note, Mr. Justice Stephen referred to the practice in plain terms, and said that where a defendant filed a plea which it was obvious he could not possibly sustain, he rendered himself liable to prosecution for perjury.

In the Dural district some of the orangeries have suffered considerably through the late rains. In one orchard alone it is said that 500 cases of oranges have fallen to the ground. In this part of the county of Cumberland the fruit as a rule hangs much longer than in any other part, consequently the growers keep their fruit late, and thus avoid a congested market.

Sir Charles and Lady Hallé will make their sixth appearance in the Centennial Hall this evening, when a splendid and at the same time popular programme will be presented. Perhaps the most interesting item in the programme is the famous "Devil's Sonata" (Il trillo del diavolo) of Tartini, supposed to be the most difficult piece written for the violin. The composer in his introduction states that it is an attempt to remember a solo played to him in a dream by "il diavolo." Sir Charles Hallé will be heard in the most popular of Beethoven's sonatas, "The Moonlight," and will be associated with Lady Hallé in the grand duet for piano and violin in G op. 30 No. 3 (Beethoven). Mdlle. Fillunger will sing the great soprano air from Elijah, "Hear your Israel," and "Love's Message" (Schubert). Madame Burton has chosen the famous contralto air from Gounod's "Faust" "Quando a te lieta," and Sir Arthur Sullivan's song "Will he come!"

At Her Majesty's Theatre the last nights of "The Lyons Mail" are announced, in view of the changes involved by the forthcoming Bernhardt season. Thus playgoers have but few opportunities of witnessing the revival by which Mr. William Rignold has added two more characters to his Australian repertoire. Last night "The Lyons Mail" was largely attended and was accorded a cordial reception. On Wednesday evening the Rignold Dramatic Company vacate their old quarters in order to produce Mark Melford's drama, "Flying from Justice" at the Theatre Royal, in which both the brothers Rignold will appear—a combination not recorded since the great production of "Merry Wives of Windsor." The new play, which is of a sensational character, places Mr. George Rignold as the hero, John Lacarsey, Mr. William Rignold, as Haldane Gulley, a notorious coiner, and Miss Watts Phillips and Miss Edith Blande in the juvenile and heavy leading parts respectively.

The chief item in yesterday's political development was that Mr. D. O'Connor, the Postmaster-General, had forwarded to the Head of the Government his resignation of office. It is understood that Mr. O'Connor felt it his duty in the face of existing circumstances to adopt this course. Accepting the fate of political reverses at West Sydney and Monaro, he considered that he could do no less than unreservedly dissociate himself from the Ministry of which he has been a member for the past 2½ years. We are informed that Mr. O'Connor's determination was submitted late last evening to his Ministerial colleagues, who unanimously expressed regret that he had not been successful in his Parliamentary candidature, and at the same time voiced an opinion to the effect that the exigencies of the political situation did not demand his resignation. It is therefore probable that the Government will not accept Mr. O'Connor's determination.

The Alhambra Music Hall, George-street, has been favoured with large attendances during the past week. This result has been due to the attractive character of the entertainment.

Dan Tracey's Vaudeville Minstrel and Specialty Company has been performing to good houses at the School of Arts during the week. To-night there will be a change of programme. All the old performers will re-appear, and in addition a new artiste, Miss Annetta Bodin. A performance will be given this afternoon.

To-day is, for all patriotic citizens of the United States, one of the greatest of national holidays. The 4th of July is, in the States, religiously kept as an institution in honour of the signing of the Declaration of Independence which finally severed the people of the States from their British parents. American citizens will, we believe, meet to keep the memory of the day green, but beyond the usual levee no demonstration of a public character will be attempted.

We are informed that owing to the pressure of other duties Dr. Anderson Stuart has felt reluctantly obliged to forward to the hon. secretary of the Hospital for Sick Children his resignation as one of the honorary physicians to that institution.

Dr. T. Dixson yesterday delivered a lecture before a meeting of the Ladies' Sanitary Association, on "The Ear, its structure and functions, its commoner ailments and their prevention." Special reference was made to disorders which the ear is liable to, which come on surreptitiously in the case of children, and occur in typhoid and other fevers; and stress was laid upon the danger of neglecting or unnecessarily tampering with the discharges of the ear, a common cause of loss of hearing, and which occasionally is attended with danger to life.

"Notes on Volcanic Action in Australia" was the subject of an interesting lecture delivered in the hall of the Y.M.C.A. last evening, by Professor David, under the auspices of the Sydney University Union. The lecturer, in his introductory remarks, observed that there was a deal of truth in the classical idea that volcanoes were nature's workshops, and in a vast mineral country like this, which owed so much of its mineral wealth to volcanic action, it would be difficult to over-estimate the importance of the work that volcanoes had done. Some of the richest of ancient valley gravels, containing alluvial gold and tin, owed their preservation to the covering of stony lava which had sheltered them from the wearing action of the weather for, perhaps, millions of years. Rare and beautiful gems, such as the diamond, ruby, sapphire, and emerald, had been formed in the chimneys of volcanoes, or in those deep-seated reservoirs which underlie volcanic mountains. Useful products, such as sulphur and borax, were deposited by hot springs and fumeroles—the last survivors of volcanic energy. Volcanoes also replenished the stores of atmospheric food for plants, and by pouring out lava and dust were continually supplying fresh materials, rich in minerals, and specially nourishing to plants, to take the place of soils impoverished by prolonged growths of vegetation. Their altitude favoured the precipitation of moisture, and so increased the rainfall. The lecturer then proceeded to describe the various volcanic formations that exist in Australia, and specially directed attention to the few extinct volcanoes. Mount Gambier, in South Australia; Tower Hill, Victoria; Mount Canobolas, were all rapidly glanced at; whilst the memorable eruption of Tarawera in New Zealand in 1886 was minutely described. The disastrous results accompanying the catastrophe, the lecturer pointed out, though deplorable at the time, have since been more than compensated for by the distinct improvement effected in the agricultural capabilities of the district. At the conclusion a very hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Professor David for his interesting lecture.

There is at present on view at Messrs. Farmer and Co.'s an oil painting by Mr. Wm. Huddlestone showing "The Gap" at South Head, where the ill-fated Dunbar was wrecked in 1857. The scene, shows the foam-white billows dashing against the familiar brown-hued coast, carved and hollowed by many a storm, with the entrance to the Heads, and a view of Watson's Bay beyond the low-lying gap. The work is spirited and the point of view well chosen.

At the fortnightly meeting of the Hebrew Literary and Debating Society held on Thursday evening, the Rev. A. B. Davis presiding, Mr. M. A. Cohen, B.A., read a paper on "Sanitary Science in the Bible." He explained the Levitical laws relating to the food and drink then used, the quarantine regulations enforced in Bible times, and he quoted the favourable opinions of Professor Virchow and other eminent savants on those laws. It was shown that many of the sanitary laws recently enacted were incorporated in the laws of the Jews 4000 years ago, while at that time the spreading of disease by means of contaminated water was fully recognised. At the conclusion of the paper a discussion ensued, in which Messrs. J. A. Goldsmid, D. M. Myers, B.A., Rev. P. Philippstein, P. J. Marks, B.A., L. Matthews, D. Aarons, and the chairman took part.

All the foreign fields of the London Missionary Society are being in turn represented by the annual deputations appointed to visit the Australasian colonies. At the annual meeting to be held in the Pitt-street church next week an address will be delivered upon Indian mission work by the Rev. Maurice Phillips, who has laboured with great success in the Madras Presidency. Mr. Phillips' knowledge of the sacred literature of India has given him a peculiar advantage in dealing with the Brahmins. His stories of contests with Brahmins are full of interest. The Rev. Joseph King will speak upon the work being done by the Australasian auxiliaries.

A public meeting was held in the Cumberland Hall, Auburn, on Thursday evening last, under the auspices of the Local Option League. Mr. W. Ewart occupied the chair. There was a good attendance. In opening the meeting the chairman referred to the evils resulting from the liquor traffic, which, he contended, the people should have power to protect themselves from by means of the local option vote. As one intimately acquainted with the working classes, he stated that the settlement of the drink problem was absolutely necessary for their welfare. Rev. E. A. Colvin moved,—"That this meeting affirms the right of the majority of Parliamentary electors to veto the liquor traffic in their own electoral districts, and urges upon the Government and Parliament the importance of dealing promptly with this great question." Mr. W. M. Thomas seconded the motion, which was supported by Mr. R. A. Ritchie, who contended that local option was the right of the people. He promised to do his duty as a representative of the people to secure that right for them. He denied that the publicans had any just claims to compensation. The motion was carried unanimously. Mr. F. E. M'Lean also addressed the meeting. He pointed out the great importance of the drink question to the labouring classes. He was glad to state that most of the labour representatives recently returned to Parliament are prepared to vote for full local option without compensation, thus showing that the people were unmistakably against the liquor traffic.

At a meeting of the Friendly Societies' delegates appointed to interest themselves in obtaining a grant of land on which to erect a Friendly Societies' Hall held in Parramatta on Thursday evening, a communication was read from the Colonial Secretary's office stating that such application had been approved, and the land would be defined after an inspection. It was decided to forward a letter of thanks to Mr. Hugh Taylor for the interest he had taken in the matter.

The first of a series of evangelistic meetings held in connection with the Surry Hills Young Women's Christian Association, took place in the Oddfellows' Hall, Brisbane-street, on Thursday evening. There was a large attendance. The president, Mrs. C. Ward, gave a short address. Mrs. W. E. Cocks contributed a solo, after which addresses were delivered by Miss Hogg (president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union), and Miss Norton, of the Central Association, Wynyard-square. The singing was led by the choir of the Surry Hills Young Women's Christian Association.

Although Mme. Bernhardt will open her season at Her Majesty's Theatre on Wednesday next, as already advertised, some change has been made in the movements of herself and company. The original plan by which she was to embark on board the s.s. Adelaide at the conclusion of to-night's performance in the South Australian capital has been abandoned so as to allow of the removal of a vast quantity of the scenery required in Sydney. The French company will accordingly delay its departure from Adelaide until Sunday morning, and in place of leaving Melbourne on Monday, will follow Tuesday's afternoon's express in a "special," consisting of a boudoir car and two "sleepers." Mr. D. C. Willoughby, the American journalist, who represents Mme. Bernhardt here, has now received particulars of the receipts of the Adelaide season up to last night, and by adding thereto the full seating capacity of the house for this day's performances, arrives at an estimated total of about £4000. This magnificent return for the week speaks well for the appreciation of Mme. Bernhardt's genius in Adelaide, where, as a matter of fact, the demonstrative warmth of her reception has been second only to that accorded her in Buda Pesth. Yesterday, in preparation for the season here, Mr. William Doran, one of the stage superintendents, arrived by the Innimincka with about 200 tons of scenery, and it will be his care during the week to get ready several scenes for "Theodora"—more particularly that of the third act, which was presented in an unfinished state in Melbourne. Mr. George Gordon will paint this scene at Her Majesty's Theatre from designs by the Porte St. Martin artists, and according to Mme. Bernhardt's idea of the author's wishes. On Mdo. Bernhardt's arrival she will take up her quarters in the splendid suite of apartments reserved for her in the new "Australia" hotel, and will rest as much as possible during the few hours which intervene between the fatigue of the long railway journey and her exciting first appearance upon the stage in a new and important city. During her residence Mme. Bernhardt will hold an auction sale of pictures and statuary by herself and the members of her company. She will mount the rostrum herself, and will endeavour to raise a substantial sum in the cause of charity. An amusing feature in the "bazaar" will be a dramatic entertainment in costume by herself and comrades, when they will "take off" a Chinese play they witnessed in San Francisco. As already stated, "La Dame aux Camélias" will be the opening piece, and it may be added that already some 600 seats have been reserved for the first four performances, so that the advance booking is so far decidedly encouraging.

"Evangeline" continues to draw crowded houses at the Criterion Theatre, and the burlesque—if that can be so called which burlesques nothing—is certain to prove one of the popular successes of the winter season. Mr. Rice's music is merry and tuneful, the staging is superb, and the whole production is characterised by a vivacity and "go" which ensure success by the presence of qualities frequently wanting in works of heavier calibre. During this evening's performance Mr. Rice's "Evangeline" orchestra will play a selection of national airs in honour of the celebration of American Independence.

At the Theatre Royal the announcement of the last three nights of "The Gondoliers" definitely fixes the limit of a run which promised to rival that of the most successful of the Gilbert-Sullivan series. The opera will be remembered here as introducing Mr. Ryley to Sydney audiences, his pleasant vocal method and graceful acting having proved attractive features of the production, whilst the cast, which provides an unusual number of parts of nearly equal value, has proved as a whole to be unusually well balanced. The Royal Comic Company sails on Wednesday afternoon by the Wodonga for Brisbane, where Mr. Henry Bracy will direct a short operatic season.

"Our Flat" was very largely attended last night at the Garrick Theatre, and is likely to find favour with the large class of playgoers who can appreciate farcical comedy. Mr. E. W. Royce, clever comedian that he is, certainly makes the most of the character of Nathaniel Glover, the loudly-dressed theatrical manager, and the ingenious adaptation of homely articles of furniture to ornamental purposes kept the house in roars of laughter last night.

To-day being the anniversary of America's independence, a special programme has been arranged for at the Bondi Aquarium. Professor Rice, the mind-reader, will give an exhibition of his powers, and 14 artists have also been engaged.

The travelling dairy, which has been sent out by the Department of Agriculture for the purpose of affording instruction in cheese and butter making in the districts of New South Wales which have hitherto given little attention to dairying, is at present at Orange, where it will open operations in the course of 10 days under the management of Mr. Frank M'Caffrey, who has been very highly recommended to the Minister for Agriculture by Mr. D. L. Dymock, chairman of the South Coast and West Camden Co-operative Company; Mr. H. J. Noble, chairman of the New South Wales Dairy Association, and Mr. Porter, manager of the South Coast and West Camden Co-operative Company. Mr. M'Caffrey is a native of the Illawarra district, where he was manager of the Wanghope Factory, Jamberoo, for a number of years, and lately of the Smithtown Factory, on the Macleay River, from both of which places he has received high testimonials.

Messrs. Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co. have received for the forthcoming sales the whole of the stud sheep, consisting of Tasmanian, New South Wales, Queensland, English, and German consignments.

There was a moderate attendance at the Intercolonial Sheep Show, held at the Agricultural Society's grounds, Moore Park, yesterday. In the morning the judging of the sheep was concluded, and the awards were made known. There was no formal opening, but in the afternoon the Governor visited the show and inspected the sheep and other exhibits. The horse-jumping contests were continued, as also were the sheep-dog trials. These will be concluded this afternoon.

The annual show of poultry, pigeons, canaries, dogs, and cats, in connection with the United Fanciers' Club of New South Wales, was continued yesterday in the Exhibition Building, Prince Alfred Park. There was a large attendance. The only awards to be made are those in the cat section, which will be announced this morning. To-day will be the last day of the show.

A pleasing ceremony took place at the New South Wales Club yesterday, when the retiring secretary, Mr. K. G. Nyberg, was presented with a pocket-book and cheque for 100 guineas, subscribed among members of the club. Mr. John Keep, one of the trustees of the club, made the presentation on behalf and in the presence of a number of the subscribers, and in doing so spoke of Mr. Nyberg's unvarying courtesy and kindness, and added that Mr. Nyberg's new career would be followed by his many friends with warm and sympathetic interest. In replying, the recipient expressed in feeling terms his sense of the compliment paid him.

Last night Messrs. Laurence, M'Lachlan, and Williams entertained their staff at supper in the dining-hall above their new offices in the Mutual Life Association Buildings, George and Wynyard streets. The occasion was taken advantage of to present to each of the clerks a handsomely-mounted photograph of the members of the firm and staff. Mr. M'Lachlan, in replying to the toast of the firm's health, spoke of the thorough and conscientious manner in which the clerks worked, and Mr. Laurence, in proposing the toast of the clerks' health, endorsed this sentiment. Selections of music, &c., were contributed, and a pleasant evening was brought to a termination by three hearty cheers for Messrs. Laurence, M'Lachlan, and Williams.

The Masonic Lodge Sydney St. Andrew, No. 7, held its installation meeting in the Masonic Hall, Castlereagh-street, on Wednesday, at which the W.M., Bro. A. Gordon, installed his successor, Bro. D. Munro, and the investiture of the other officers took place. The Grand Lodge was represented by Right Wor. Bro. J. C. Remington, Deputy Grand Master, accompanied by a large number of G.L. officers. A handsome P.M. jewel was presented from the lodge to the retiring W.M. Occasion was also taken to present Wor. Bro. J. W. Evans with an address (illuminated by Sands), also a P.M. and secretary's jewel and a diamond ring, subscribed for by the members, as a mark of esteem, and in recognition of the valuable services rendered by Bro. Evans as secretary to the lodge, a position held by him since 1875, and from which he is now retiring in consequence of the pressing nature of his public duties. Very Worshipful Bro. Remington, D.G.M., in making the presentation testified to the ability, zeal, and efficient services rendered by Bro. Evans during a period extending over 23 years. The recipient made a suitable acknowledgment. After the usual formalities the brethren, numbering about 250, were invited to a banquet in the large hall, where the customary loyal and fraternal toasts were duly honoured, interspersed with songs. Bros. Wilson and L. de Groen officiated at the organ and piano.

A correspondent calls attention to the position and, what he considers the disadvantage in which the English and French cooks are placed in at the present time in Sydney and New South Wales generally. Our correspondent says: "I for one, and many others, have served our time in some part of England or France, and have been many years in the colony, and have brought up families in New South Wales; and still we have amongst us employers engaging Chinamen in preference to English cooks. The reason asked, why do they employ the opium smokers? They tell you that the Chinese are a sober race. But have we not amongst our community English cooks, French also, men of the highest ability, sobriety, honesty, and why should they not be taken instead of this race? The English speaking people of Australia support the said employers of hotel and private houses, and why not give them employment? If the said employers had to depend on the Chinese for support, one and all would have to close their places of business to-morrow."

Yesterday afternoon a man named John Duggan, 52, a bricklayer, residing at 13 Wyndham-street, Alexandria, met with an accident at the Lands Office. He was working in one of the rooms when, owing to the breaking of some scaffolding on which he was standing, he fell to the floor, a distance of about 10ft. On being taken to the Sydney Hospital the man was admitted by Dr. Davies, who found that he had sustained severe bruises on the legs, back, left hip, and head.

On Thursday afternoon the body of a boy name George Steer, nine years of age, who resided with his father, William J. Steer, at Barranjoey, was found floating in the water near the Customs Pier, Barranjoey, by one of the Customs men employed there. On the body being taken home the father sent to Manly for Dr. Watkins, who pronounced life to be extinct. The Manly police were informed of the occurrence, and the facts have been placed before the coroner.

The bill brought in by Mr. Mason, M.L.A., to regulate the practice of the legal profession, is (says a Melbourne contemporary) practically identical with the measure that has been introduced several times previously in the Victorian Legislature, and which was only thrown out by a narrow majority in the Council a few sessions ago. It provides for the complete amalgamation of the two branches of the profession, enabling barristers to practise also as solicitors and solicitors as barristers, an arrangement similar to that which now exists in New Zealand, and, in a somewhat different form, in South Australia. A further important feature in the bill is that it removes barristers, solicitors, attorneys, and proctors from their present position as officers of the Supreme Court, and provides that barristers may sue their clients directly for services rendered, and that they shall be directly liable for negligence to the clients by whom they are retained to the same extent as a solicitor at present is. The idea of the promoters of the measure is that this alteration will have a tendency to spread legal business among a larger number of practising barristers, and that it will be a gain to the rank and file of the profession, and a decided advantage to the public. Mr. Mason anticipates support from a considerable section of the legal members of the House.

Mr. John Bell, Grand Master of the M. U. I. O. O. F., writes to say that the Loyal Crown Lodge funds amount to £660, with 95 members good on the books.

The figures £410, appearing in the report of annual meeting of Bourke-street Congregational Church, in yesterday's issue, should have read £195.

The monthly service of sacred song at the Y. M. C. A. will take place to-night.

A meeting of the Working and Factory Girls' Club will be held on Tuesday evening next.

A concert on behalf of the Y. M. C. A. has been arranged for next Tuesday evening. The concert will be given by the Petersham Congregational choir.

An advertisement elsewhere announces that Mr. Parker Lewis will render Dickens' "Christmas Carol," under the auspices of the Young People's Union, Pitt-street Congregation Church, on Thursday next.

(From our correspondent.)

LONDON, July 3.

The Queen of Roumania was strongly in favour of the marriage of the Crown Prince of Roumania, Prince Ferdinand of Hohenzollern, with Mdlle. Vacraesco, one of her maids of honour. Queen Elizabeth used various entreaties, and even menaces, to overcome the opposition of the Roumanian Cabinet to the marriage, and it was only after all her efforts to confirm the betrothal had failed that the projected marriage was abandoned.

THE REFUGEE JEWS IN PALESTINE.

SUFFERING FROM PESTILENCE AND FAMINE.

[By Cable.]
(From our correspondent.)

LONDON, July 3.

The Jews who, on their expulsion from Russia, took refuge in Palestine, are reported to be suffering great privations through pestilence and famine.

The Vienna correspondent of the Times, writing on May 21, refers to a tract of country in Arabia which is regarded as suitable for the settlement of the exiled Russian Jews. He says:—"The stringent measures adopted against the Jews in Russia must inevitably lead to their wholesale emigration, as it is out of the question that a population of four-and-a-half millions, of whom the greater part are engaged in commercial pursuits, could for any length of time exist within the rural districts assigned to them. This question is exhaustively discussed in a pamphlet which has just been published at St. Petersburg, and which contains a noteworthy suggestion. The author draws attention to a tract of land on which, in his opinion, half a million Russian Jews could easily be settled. It is situated in the north-west of Arabia, and extends along the shore of the Red Sea from Fort Akabah to El Wijht. It is still, as in Biblical times, under Egyptian jurisdiction, but at present the district is entirely neglected and all but abandoned by the Khedivial Government. The Arabian population now amounts only to some 10,000, leading a nomadic life; but the soil is said to be extremely fertile, and the climatic conditions are very favourable. It is proposed to establish there an autonomous principality with the Khedive as suzerain. As to the necessary funds, the author thinks they might be raised by a public subscription throughout Europe. The project is said to have been well received in influential quarters, and, according to information obtained in Vienna, the subject has already been broached to the Egyptian Government."

A SHIPPING DIFFICULTY.

LOCK-OUT BY THE P. AND O. COMPANY.

[By Cable.]

LONDON, July 2.

The Peninsular and Oriental S. N. Company has had a difficulty with some of its dockers. A number of stevedores in its employment were engaged loading the Eastern steamers, Chusan and Mirzapore, but they refused to work without extra payment on Coronation Day, that being a public holiday in the docks. The company declined to accede to this demand, and locked out the men. The P. and O. Company then arranged that the work should be continued by men belonging to the Shipping Federation.

To-day the locked-out stevedores attacked the federation hands who were working on the steamer Britannia, and rioting resulted.

A NATIONAL ASSOCIATION IN VICTORIA.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The activity of the labour party in organising its forces for the coming elections, with the avowed object of securing its own aims irrespective of all other interests, has led to the formation of a national association. A meeting of a thoroughly representative character was held to-day at Prell's-buildings, presided over by Mr. James M'Dougall. It was resolved to form an association with the following objects:—1. To preserve the national character of the Legislature, the association affirming that representatives should not be delegates of any section of society. 2. To oppose all unconstitutional political procedure, and thereby assist in maintaining law and order, and particularly to secure the effectual protection of all persons engaged in honest industry. 3. To assert and defend the right of every person to dispose of his labour or capital with perfect freedom within the law. 4. To prevent undue interference with the great producing interests of the colony; to encourage co-operation and good feeling among all classes; to further to the utmost the development of the agricultural, pastoral, mining, and manufacturing interests; and to vigorously oppose all class legislation injurious thereto. 5. To promote in all ways peace, security, and general confidence, that the public credit may be maintained, the investment of capital encouraged, a maximum of employment be provided, and all interests share in common property. 6. To uphold the just balance of electoral representation, giving proper weight to the claims of the country districts, upon the progress of which national life depends. 7. To secure the due registration of Parliamentary electors and a regular and systematic revision of the electoral rolls.

THE WEATHER FORECAST.

CASE OF ALLEGED MANSLAUGHTER.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

PERTH, Friday.

A highly-sensational case of manslaughter is occupying the attention of the Supreme Court. The prisoner is a pearler named James Archibald Hastie, living at Dirk Hartog Island. It is alleged that one day last March he assaulted a Malay servant named Jessop, and beat and kicked him unmercifully, and then left him lying on the beach exposed to the sun for several hours in the hottest part of the day. Jessop, who was suffering from acute inflammation of the lungs, was removed in the evening to a hut, and there left without attendance. The only person who did anything for him was another Malay, who shared his food with him. A week afterwards, when the police visited the island, Jessop was delirious and helpless, and in a filthy condition, with ants crawling all over his body, and even into his eyes, nose, and mouth. He was removed, and given fresh water at a camp, and was to be taken thence to Carnarvon, but he died on the way thither. The theory for the Crown is that, even if death was not caused by the assault, it was accelerated by it and by the subsequent neglect.

KIAMA AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

KIAMA, Friday.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Kiama Agricultural Association, held in the Council-chambers to-night, a letter was read from the Director of Agriculture stating that in connection with the judging at agricultural shows the advantages of the point system, and the desirableness of appointing single judges, were pretty generally conceded on all sides, and that with the object of gaining information which would enable the Department of Agriculture to compile a list of gentlemen competent and willing to judge the different sections at shows in any part of the colony, he had been requested by the hon. the Minister of Agriculture to invite the Kiama society's co-operation. The association was informed that the Director of Agriculture would be glad to receive a list of names which could be confidently recommended, together with information as to the classes or sections in which such gentlemen were best fitted to judge, and suggestions with regard to the scale of fee which should be allowed. The list, when completed, will be printed and circulated among all the agricultural societies in the colony, and will doubtless supply a long-felt want. This communication is regarded as of the greatest importance to the successful operations of every agricultural society in the colony, and in order to give the committee ample time for the consideration of the matter it was decided to take up the question at the next regular meeting a fortnight hence, when the list of names will be submitted. Captain Honey reported having had an interview with the Director of Agriculture recently re the distribution of money for the national prizes, when he was informed by Mr. Anderson that the money is intended to be expended this year, and if not spent before the year expires there might be some difficulty at the Audit Department; but he assured Mr. Honey that if it is possible the money will be made available for expenditure early next year, and he was good enough to admit that the Kiama society has a strong claim to first consideration. The committee dealt with a good many sections in the prize list, and some prizes were added which will increase the attractiveness of the show and create a spirit of emulation amongst the exhibitors. It now only remains to deal with the dairy produce section. Regret was expressed at the enforced absence of the president, Mr. D. L. Dymock, through indisposition.

THE FUGITIVE BLACKS.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondent.)

MOSS VALE, Friday.

Last night four constables, Sale, Gallagher, Barter, and Kilfoyle, returned from their pursuit of the two blacks whose arrest is sought for the murder of Souvrin Mursoakivits, at Dora Dora, in May last. Nothing further was seen of the blacks after the exciting chase at Scabby Flat. The pursuing party searched the surrounding country, which is extremely rough, full of caves and thick bush, for several days, but only saw a fire on a distant peak, and heard a cooey. The bush is so thick that a man might be only five yards away and yet not be visible. The police regard the report current to the effect that the blacks have been at Thirlmere as possibly correct, as the fugitives could not cross either the Wollondilly or the Nattai rivers in their present flooded state. The pursuers searched the country around Burragorang for four days, but found no traces of the blacks. What with the rough country, and the bad weather, the police had a terrible time in the gullies.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The three-masted schooner Chittoor, which was reported as missing, entered the Heads early this morning.

Mr. W. G. Brett, Inspector-General of Public Charities, believes that in ten years time the endowments and private and local contributions will be sufficient to support all the charities in Victoria, without aid from the Government or the municipal bodies. He told the Charities Commission to-day that the increase in the endowments for the three years, 1887-90, amounted to £87,311.

At a meeting of the Marine Board to-day the official report of the Newcastle Marine Board relative to the circumstances under which the ill-fated steamer Taramung left that port was received. It was decided that no further action could be taken.

The Hohenstaufen cleared the Heads for Sydney at 5.10 p.m.

Last night a sharp shock of earthquake was felt at half-past 9 at Bright. The disturbance seemed to be travelling from west to east. It was felt over a large area, houses being shaken at Wandiligong and Bright.

The body of Joseph Lilley, a machinist in the Argus office from 1853 till about six months ago, when he received a stroke of paralysis, was found in the Yarra to-day. He left his home at Collingwood on June 9, and nothing had since been heard of him.

Henry Morgan Murphy, formerly a member of the Legislative Council, and a well-known figure in politics about 15 years ago, died suddenly at his residence in South Yarra last night. His age was about 70. He had resided in the district nearly 40 years. One of his sons is absent in England in connection with the invention, the Murphy torpedo.

Professor Miller, on behalf of the Melbourne Athletic Club, has cabled to James Corbett, in San Francisco, stating that the club will offer £1000, with £160 for expenses, for a match between him and the winner of the Goddard-Choynski fight.

The schooner Chittoor which arrived to-day was anchored near Lorne on June 22, taking salvage from the wreck of the W. B. Godfrey. The master was on shore at the time. When the weather became bad she was riding with two anchors. One cable parted, and the remaining anchor commenced to drag. The mate slipped the anchor to prevent the schooner going ashore, and stood out to sea. Since then the Chittoor had experienced heavy and contrary weather, but she arrived all well to-day.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The Elections Bill introduced in the Assembly yesterday provides for the adoption of the Continental system of election, namely, that the successful candidates must receive an absolute majority of the total number of votes polled, and if necessary second and third ballots shall be taken.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

For the seat vacated by the resignation of Mr. West-Erskine, in the southern division of the Legislative Council, Messrs. M'Kie, Stirling, and Mizon have been nominated. Only the two former had announced themselves, and the nomination of Mr. Mizon has caused surprise.

The superintendent of the census states that the revised figures for the census of Adelaide and suburbs, within a radius of 10 miles of the Post-office, and including an area of 170,850 acres, are 63,913 males and 69,307 females; total, 133,220 persons, an increase of 29,278, or 22 per cent., since 1881.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PERTH, Friday.

Sir Henry Wrenfordsley will not proceed to England immediately, but on the return of Mr. Onslow. For the present he remains in Perth. Nothing is yet known as to the appointment of a third Judge.

TASMANIA.

LAUNCESTON, Friday.

The recently-formed association of the Launceston trades and manufacturers had an interview with the Launceston Board of Health to-day, with the object of amending the Health Act in the direction of removing the power now afforded by any of the citizens to call on the court to close any factory they may deem a nuisance.

The share market is quiet. Success Extended, paid, sold at 2s; and Adelaide Proprietary, contributing, at 4s 1d.

An important discovery of gold has been made near Nathinna. Two large gold-bearing quartz reefs have been found.

THE LATE FLOODS.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondents.)

GUNDAGAI, Friday.

The committee appointed at the public meeting yesterday to collect subscriptions to reward the men who acted so bravely in saving life during the recent flood, met at the municipal chambers this afternoon. Mr. E. C. Allman, of the Commercial Bank, was appointed treasurer, and Mr. O. O'Brien, solicitor, secretary. It was decided to send out subscription lists, to be returned by the end of the month. The following resolution was carried unanimously:—"That the secretary write to the Royal Humane Society, bringing under its notice the names and acts of the six men actually engaged in saving life at their own personal risk, and expressing the opinion of the committee that the conduct of those men is deserving of consideration by the society." The following are the names of the heroes:—Edward True, Dave M'Ginity, Edward J. Battye, C. R. Cunningham, John Burns, John Reardon. It may be mentioned that M'Ginity saved six and True four.

The weather continues showery, but the river is falling fast. It is not more than 8ft. above summer level.

NARRANDERA, Friday.

The flood here was equal to the flood in 1870. The water reached within 1in. of the floor of the Royal Hotel kitchen, and up to the third step of the hotel back verandah. The people have to go about the yard in boats. There is now 3ft. of water in the yard. The river has fallen about 2ft. since yesterday, the gauge now registering 27ft. above summer level. The latest from Wagga shows that the river there is falling fast. No more flood water will reach here. There has been great damage and loss of property. Miles of fencing have been swept away. Jones, Lincoln, and Co., brewers, are heavy losers. They now estimate their loss at £300. Great damage was done to the Chinese gardens, the estimated loss being over £200. Several of their dwellings were washed away. Mr. Sugden's wool-scouring works were completely submerged, and great damage was done. A number of wooden houses on the flat collapsed and were swept away. It will be about 10 days before the Chinese can get back to their quarters.

The weather is still showery and cold. Fifteen points of rain fell here last night.

WAGGA WAGGA, Friday.

The subject of the damage caused by the flood was discussed at the fortnightly meeting of the Wagga Borough Council yesterday evening. The Mayor (Alderman M'Grath) stated that he had gone over the town with the borough surveyor, and was surprised at the amount of damage caused by the floods. He estimated the damage to the roads, footpaths, &c., at £3,500. The loss was a very serious one, and a Government grant of £1500 had been asked, with a pretty good assurance that they would get that sum. At the same meeting a letter was read from the Under-Secretary for Public Works, in reply to Mr. Dibbs, stating that the Minister for Works had taken steps to afford relief in cases of the destruction of roads, and of individual distress caused by the floods. Alderman Manton stated that the streets were in such a dreadful state that the council could not take into consideration any individual application for repairs. The Mayor said that the three members for the district, who were present here at the time of the flood, would be able to speak about it at the proper quarter. A large number of men are working in repairing the damaged streets. The borough council propose to ask the Railway Commissioners what steps they intend to take to endeavour to save the railway in the town from injury by floods. At the meeting of the corporation the aldermen congratulated the Mayor and the borough surveyor upon the provision made to alleviate the distress. The greater portion of the town was re-lighted with gas this evening. The weather was fine to-day, but it set in wet again in the evening.

THE GOVERNOR'S VISIT TO ALBURY.

[By Telegraph.]
(From our correspondents.)

ALBURY, Friday.

In response to the Council's communication inviting his Excellency the Governor and Lady Jersey to Albury on the occasion of the annual show, the following letter has been received:—"Government House, Sydney, July 2, 1891. Sir,—I am desired by his Excellency the Governor to request that you will be good enough to inform the Mayor and aldermen of the borough of Albury that his Excellency and Lady Jersey will have much pleasure in being present at the annual show of the Albury Pastoral, Agricultural, and Horticultural Society, to be held on the 9th and 10th of September next. Yours obediently, George T. Goschen, Private Secretary. The Council Clerk, Albury."

THE SHEARING DIFFICULTY.

PROSPECTS OF THE PASTORALISTS.

INTERVIEW WITH THE CHAIRMAN OF THE EXECUTIVE.

But little time is being lost by the executive of the Pastoralists' Union of New South Wales in making preparation for the shearing season, and for meeting difficulties that may arise out of the threatened action of the leaders of the Shearers' Union. The shearing was to have commenced a couple of weeks ago, but the rainfall up north has been so heavy, and the country is in so flooded a condition, that the shearing in some cases will be delayed till September, and even later. With a view to ascertaining the opinion of the pastoralists generally as to their prospects, in the event of the labour unions assuming a hostile attitude, a representative of the Herald had an interview yesterday with Mr. Alexander Wilson, chairman of the executive council of the Pastoralists' Union, and with Mr. W. E. Abbott, a well-known squatter who represented the Upper Hunter in the late Parliament, and questioned these gentlemen jointly on the matter. By way of preface our representative was informed that about three-fourths of the sheep in New South Wales were owned by members of the Pastoralists' Union. In addition to this several station owners who had not actually joined the union, intended to work on the lines of the policy laid down, while other station owners had not joined the union simply because they found it more to their personal advantage to work independently. There were, however, very few stations of any consequence which were not in full sympathy with the Pastoralists' Union.

"Do you anticipate," asked our representative, "any serious difficulty in getting through the season?"

Well, as to that, of course you are aware that when the trouble commenced in Queensland it was definitely stated by the labour leaders that if the men stood out, an effectual stop would be put to the shearing. The unionists not only stood out but they strained every nerve to prevent others from working, and yet millions of sheep were shorn, and at the present time the work of shearing in Queensland is proceeding without interruption, and as though nothing unusual had taken place. Nothing can prevent the work of shearing being got through in this colony. The only effect of the union men refusing to work would be to extend the time of shearing.

Do you anticipate any difficulty in getting sufficient labour?

None whatever; at the present time we have entered into agreements with, or promised work to over 1500 men. These men have all been registered as well fitted for the work.

Are these local men?

Not all; we have some men coming from New Zealand under agreement, but these imported men are experienced shearers. We intend to import as little labour as possible.

Are any engagements being made in the country by station owners?

Oh, yes; at many sheds between the Barwon and the Murray, and as far west as the river Paroo, numbers of hands are being engaged by the owners or managers; indeed, several of the largest sheds have already engaged a full complement of men.

Do you refer to union or non-union sheds?

In many cases the sheds have been employing union labour for years past. A great number of the old hands have not merely been already engaged for the season, but have deposited £1 as a guarantee that they will turn up when required and commence work. I know of one shed in the central district at which shearing is not to be commenced till August, where no less than 20 of the old union hands have been already engaged, and the full strength of the shed is not more than 30.

How many sheep can a man get through in the season?

As an average a fairly expert shearer can shear 5000 sheep during the season, and if he be successful in making his arrangements so as to re-commence work as soon as one engagement is completed he might even shear as many as 8000 or 10,000 sheep. The rate of pay is £1 per 100 sheep.

Are you engaging men for any particular sheds?

Our union engages men for any four or six months, and is bound under the terms of the agreement to provide these men with constant work until the time for which they were engaged has expired. These men will be sent to certain sheds, and will be removed to other sheds as soon as the wool is all cut. Of course no time will be lost in moving the men from shed to shed. The moment one shed is cut out the men will be promptly moved to another.

Then practically the union, as a corporate body, takes over the work of shearing?

Well, so far as the general scope of it is concerned, the union will take over the shearing. But this applies only to cases where the men who have been in the habit of shearing refuse to shear.

Is anybody prepared to take the place of these "regulars?"

Scores; we have also received applications for work from a very large number of young men and lads, many of whom have little or no knowledge of shearing, asking for employment and for an opportunity of learning the business. As soon as we can get to work arrangements will be made to teach as many as possible.

Does it take long to learn how to shear?

Many learners become fairly proficient within a month, so although the lads we propose to take on may not be of much use early in the season, they should prove serviceable hands in the late sheds.

Are many shearing machines in use in the country?

No; comparatively few. A man can learn to use the machine more quickly than the ordinary shears, but on the whole the saving of time and labour is not considerable.

Are all the station owners engaging hands now?

No; the late sheds are not. In the districts that do not shear until October or November the owners decline to make arrangements with the men, although asked to do so. This course is being pursued in order to allow of the men now being engaged for the season to have continuous work up to the close.

Do you think that the union men generally are desirous of avoiding a struggle, and of going on quietly with the work of shearing as in former years.

Yes, we are sure of it; and more than that, we have ample proof that many unionists are seeking engagements in districts where they have not previously shorn, and they are doing this simply to avoid the bullying of the union delegates. Men are coming from the other colonies for a similar reason.

Have you any offices outside the city for registering the names of applicants for work?

There are now over 40 branch offices of the Pastoralists' Union in different centres, and the men engaged at these offices will be sent from shed to shed as required, and will thus be freed from the need of making personal application, as well as from the cost of moving from place to place. There is no lack of men offering.

Then you feel confident that work will be successfully carried out?

We do not anticipate any serious difficulty whatever. The work may possibly be delayed a little, but that it will be done there is not the slightest doubt. An ample supply of labour is available altogether outside the union ranks. If the Shearers' Union is sincere in stating that the unionists will be asked to stay at home, then there will not be the slightest difficulty or delay in getting the sheep shorn, or in getting the shearers on to the stations.

Do you think that many unionists will offer their services, regardless of what the leaders may desire?

Yes. We can safely say, and we speak on the strength of reliable information, that a large number of the members of the Shearers' Union have made up their minds to go to work, and the effect of a policy of interference on the part of the leaders will be to drive these men out of the unions. With a little more reason exercised by the leaders, these men could do their ordinary work and yet remain in full sympathy with the unions to which they belong.

What are your arrangements with respect to commencing the shearing?

It was intended to start shearing nearly three weeks ago; but owing to the floods in the Warrego, the Cuttaburra, and the Paroo and the other rivers flowing down from Queensland, and owing to the more or less continuous rains in the hilly districts, it was found impossible to complete our preparations, or even to get the men on to the ground; and even now the country is in too flooded a condition to allow us to proceed with work.

What is the objection to receiving a deputation from the Trades and Labour Council?

Well, had the Trades and Labour Council simply asked that a deputation be received to discuss the impending shearing difficulty the Pastoralists' Union would have been bound to receive the deputation courteously and to discuss the matter fully with them; but when the Trades and Labour Council went on to ask for an unconditional conference, the position was brought within the scope of legislation effected by the Australian Pastoralists' Federal Council, and thus the Pastoralists' Union of this colony was obliged to reply in terms of that legislation.

At this stage, Mr. Alexander Wilson had to leave to attend to a meeting of his executive, and our representative continued his interview with Mr. Abbott, who in response to a question concerning the claims of the free labourers to the consideration of the pastoralists, said:—

There are now in the employment of the Pastoralists' Union probably 15,000 men who are not members of the Shearers' Union or of any other union. This fact seems always to be lost sight of in the discussion of the relative positions of the Pastoralists' Union and the Shearers' Union. And yet the interests of these men are of as much importance to the country as the interests of the union shearers. We could not make any arrangements with the Shearers' Union which would have the effect of depriving these men of the right to work for us; and the effect of conceding what was asked for by Mr. Spence—that none but union men should be employed—would be to compel us to dismiss these men, or to force them to join the labour unions; in other words, we would throw out of work one lot of men for the purpose of giving their places to another lot of men. That we cannot do, and that is one reason why we cannot give up freedom of contract. I had more than one representative of non-union shearers come to me when the boycott was on last year, and ask me if I thought it likely that the pastoralists would go under and dismiss them; and on my saying that I could not tell what they would do at that time, these men said to me that if the pastoralists gave in they would never shear another

* eep for them. And one of these men was a man who had been shearing for me ever since I owned a heep.

What stamp of men were they who spoke to you in this way?

Well, men of the sturdy settler stamp; men having small holdings carrying, say, under 1000 sheep, and who make a practice of seeking work off their holdings during the shearing.

Will you define freedom of contract?

I define freedom of contract as the right of any man to work in a free country whether he belongs to a union or not, and the right of any employer to give him employment without asking whether he belongs to a union or not. The claim of the union is to all intents and purposes that none but union men should be allowed to work; thus the penalty of not joining a union would be starvation. Obviously then the employers cannot honestly concede the claims put forward by the union. Further than that, if the employers conceded these claims the rules of the federated unions would be placed above the laws of the country, and every man, whether employer or workman, would have to consider in the conduct of his business—not the laws of his country, but the rules of the federated labour unions. This would place a tyrannical power in the hands of men who "run" the unions. At one of Mr. M'Elhone's meetings, held on June 23, at Merriwa, in the Upper Hunter electorate, Mr. Spence, who was one of the auditors, asked Mr. M'Elhone to define freedom of contract, and Mr. M'Elhone said he could not give a scientific definition, but he could give one that every man in the room could understand, and his definition was this: "If I have work that will give employment to 100 men I advertise for those men at the current rate of wages and I employ the first 100 men who offer themselves; after they are employed I find that 50 of them are unionists and 50 of them are non-unionists; freedom of contract gives me the right to continue to employ the 50 non-unionists." To this Mr. Spence said "Hear, hear:" and Mr. M'Elhone proceeded, "I claim more than that. If, after having begun work, I find that 99 of the men are unionists and only one a non-unionist, I claim for myself the right to continue to give that one man work, and I claim for that one man the right to work for me." To this Mr. Spence said, "Hear, hear; that is all we want." Mr. M'Elhone stopped his speech, and demanded that Mr. Spence should come on to the platform, put that admission into writing and sign his name to it; and if he would do this Mr. M'Elhone undertook to settle the whole dispute in 48 hours. Mr. M'Elhone waited a considerable time, and repeatedly called upon Mr. Spence to put his admission into writing, but Mr. Spence refused to do so.

There is no doubt, said Mr. Abbott, in closing the interview, that if such an admission of freedom of contract were signed by the Shearers' Union, and placed before the Pastoralists' Union, the whole matter would be settled; at any rate, he added, that is my opinion.

THE PASTORALISTS' MANIFESTO.

Mr. Whiteley King, the secretary of the Pastoralists' Union of New South Wales, writes:—"In view of the approaching shearing season in this colony and the threatening attitude of leaders of the Shearers' Union, it becomes necessary to once more place before the public the position taken up by the Pastoralists' Union in the struggle in which it is embarked for the preservation of the rights and freedom of its members and their workmen. It must be within the recollection of all who follow the course of public events that the pastoralists of Australia were forced to combine in consequence of attempts made by the leaders of the Shearers' Union to interfere with the free employment of pastoral labour and the shipment of wool shorn by men who were not members of the Shearers' Union. Immediately upon the establishment of the Pastoralists' Unions of Victoria and New South Wales, the authorities of the Amalgamated Shearers' Union were approached by both bodies with conciliatory proposals for an adjustment of threatening difficulties. To the former body Mr. Spence, president of the Amalgamated Shearers' Union, replied that 'all sheds under members of your union must be union sheds,' which meant that all shearers employed must be members of the Amalgamated Shearers' Union, or, in other words, that no pastoralist should employ a shearer who was not a member of that union. To the proposals of the Pastoralists' Union of New South Wales, Mr. Spence replied that 'the executive of the Amalgamated Shearers' Union cannot agree to the proposal you make. . . . and cannot see that the reasons put forward are sufficient to justify withdrawal from the position taken up by the Amalgamated Shearers' Union, and which is clearly set forth in the manifesto, a copy of which I enclose.' The manifesto here referred to by Mr. Spence bears date July 12, 1890, and appealed to every unionist 'to assist by giving such co-operation as circumstances may suggest, and to draw such a cordon of unionism around the Australian continent as will effectually prevent a bale of wool leaving unless shorn by union shearers.' The same manifesto declared that 'in the case of the A. S. U. there is no question of wages, hours, or conditions of working.' The issue of the position assumed by the A. S. U. is here clearly set forth. From the above quotations it will be seen that compliance with the conditions imposed by Mr. Spence would have involved some members of the Pastoralists' Unions of New South Wales and Victoria in a dishonourable breach of the agreements they had solemnly entered into with non-union shearers, and would have forced thousands of unwilling men to join the Amalgamated Shearers' Union in order to obtain their livelihood. It would also have involved the abrogation of the principle of freedom of contract, and an unwarrantable interference with the rights and liberties of individual employers and workmen. Negotiations emanating from the Pastoralists' Unions for a peaceful settlement of the shearing difficulty, a year ago, were thus broken off by the action of the Amalgamated Shearers' Union in attempting to impose impossible preliminary conditions, and the Pastoralists' Unions, in refusing to comply with those conditions, secured the applause and sympathy of all classes of employers, the press, and the general public. Their contention that freedom of contract must be maintained, as necessary in the interests of all classes of the community, was upheld by the conference of employers, representing the great commercial, shipping, pastoral, and mining interests of all Australia, which met in Sydney last September; it was maintained by the press and public throughout the great maritime strike of 1890, and latterly by the Pastoralists' Federal Council of Australia, and throughout the Queensland shearers' strike of 1891, which collapsed only a few days ago. To-day the position is exactly the same as it was a year ago. The Shearers' Union—if the published utterances of its accredited agents are to be accepted as defining the issue—still demands that only members of the Shearers' Union shall be employed as shearers, and that the great body of Australian workmen who are not members of any union shall not be allowed to work for their livelihood. The Pastoralists' Union, on the other hand, contends that all employers shall have the right to employ whom they please, and that every man in this country shall be at liberty to engage or to refuse to engage—to work as he pleases. The soundness and justice of this contention is confidently submitted to public opinion. Many so-called attempts have been made by Mr. Spence, the president of the Australian Shearers' Union, and others, to induce the pastoralists to agree to what he and they are pleased to term an 'unconditional conference,' and many well-intentioned people have been thus entrapped into the belief that the pastoralists are barring the path to a conference by imposing impossible conditions; but that is not so. The conditions made by Mr. Spence a year ago—which in themselves constitute the abrogation of the principle of freedom of contract—are the only conditions barring the way to a conference between the two contending parties. The pastoralists in effect said a year ago:—'We cannot accept the conditions you impose, as they interfere with our freedom of action and the freedom of a number of working men, our right to employ whom we please, the right of any man to work for us if he please; withdraw those conditions, and we will still be willing to meet you.' We have said this any time during the past 12 months; we have made the offer to Mr. Spence personally and officially; and the offer has, I doubt not, been published in every paper in the land. Who then is making the conditions precedent to a conference and possible adjustment of threatening difficulties? Not the pastoralists, clearly, for they have imposed no conditions; they have simply asked, in other words, for the withdrawal of conditions imposed by Mr. Spence when they were disunited and disorganised. Now that they are powerfully organised Mr. Spence would have the public believe that, in insisting that he must admit freedom of contract (which is merely an insistence that he shall withdraw the conditions laid down by himself as a prelude to settlement), they are refusing an unconditional conference. Let there be no misunderstanding about the matter. If the officials of the Shearers' Union desire a conference they may have it to-morrow, but it will never be acceded to by the pastoralists until the denial by their executive of our common freedom is withdrawn. There is no middle course; it is a question of freedom on the one hand, or bondage of the most uncompromising character on the other. If the Amalgamated Shearers' Union insists that its members cannot work with any but members of that body there is nothing to discuss with them, and the pastoral work of the colony, as at present, must be done by free labour. The conditions in connection with the performance of that work can only be discussed with those who are willing to do the work. I do not wish to depart from the main issue. I might, with advantage to those who are urging the pastoralists to grant a conference, refer to the pretended ignorance—I use the word advisedly, the pretended ignorance—of the Labour leaders of the meaning of the term "freedom of contract." Is any man in a civilised and enlightened country ignorant of what is meant by freedom? Has not the pastoralists' definition of the term been conveyed by letter to the authorities of the Shearers' Union, and been by them accepted, and in the next breath denied; has it not been published throughout the country over and over again? I might refer to the deliberate statement made by Mr. Spence before the Royal Commission on Strikes, that "if the principle is important enough, unionists may be called upon to break agreements solemnly entered into." I might refer at length to the action of the A. S. U. Conference at Adelaide in removing the only clause in their agreement which, in the opinion of Sir Frederick Darley, compelled the men to complete their contracts. But all these matters are beside the real and only issue involved. It is this: Are the pastoralists of Australia to employ only such men as are members of the Amalgamated Shearers' Union, and thus allow themselves to be used as levers to force thousands of unwilling men to bind themselves hand and foot to Mr. Spence's organisation, which declares that it has no respect for legally and solemnly made agreements?—or are they to conduct their business on the same businesslike and free basis as other employers? It is not possible to concede the demand that only union labour shall be employed. Such a demand is an insult to a free people. In the history of trade unionism the world over there is no warrant for such a demand, and it has never before been made, and is, moreover, condemned by unionist authorities, such as Howell, Burt, Odger. I contend that the pastoralists, in the circumstances which have beset them during the past year, have behaved with greater liberality than have most employers in the United Kingdom, America, or even New Zealand, under similar circumstances. Notwithstanding the great provocations and serious monetary losses endured by them, they have refrained from declaring war against the unions, and have contented themselves with remaining on the defensive. Instead of insisting that union labour shall not be employed in their sheds, they have expressed their willingness to employ all suitable labour, whether union or non-union, on certain business conditions intended to prevent any undue interruption in the progress of shearing operations. In reply to the threats unworthily advanced by a section of the press, and by at least one recently-elected Labour representative in Parliament, that the pastoralists of New South Wales, unlike their Queensland confrères, have to reckon with a Labour power in Parliament, I have only to say that, however composed, every Parliament in a free country legislates under the fierce light of public criticism, and that the honesty and intelligence of the community safeguards the liberties of the people. I hope better things of the Labour party in Parliament than to imagine that it will exert its power in any futile attempt to bring the pastoralists to their knees with any admission of the justice of the contention of the A. S. U. The Labour party is intelligent, and is quite aware that the State has a certain duty to perform in protecting the rights and liberties of its subjects. Either the Government, with all the forces at its disposal, must protect the rights and liberties of the humblest citizen, or, admitting its inability to perform its constitutional functions, hand the government of the country over to mob-rule."

(From our Correspondents.)

MOULAMEIN, Friday.

An influential meeting of pastoralists was held at Moulamein to-day, nearly every station in the district being represented. About 40 shearers and station hands were also present. Mr. Edmund Mitchell, secretary of the Victorian Pastoralists' Union, addressed the meeting at length. At the close of his speech questions by the shearers present were put and answered. It was unanimously resolved to establish a branch of the Pastoralists' Union at Moulamein, and the following committee was appointed:—W. J. Mein (Moolpa), D. Johnston (Murray Downs), J. J. Armstrong (Noorong), T. S. Armstrong (Noorong), G. C. Jaffrey (Chah Sing), J. and W. A. Macvean (Mooloomoon), J. H. Dennis (Metlool), George Lawrence (Poon Boon), J. Cumming (Keri Keri), E. E. Johnson (Tchelery), L. M'Bean (Woorooma), T. H. M'Nicol (Nyang.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The question raised respecting a conference has been much discussed in commercial circles, and the opinion is generally held that it is desirable that the Pastoralists' Union and the Shearers' Union should meet in conference.

The Trades Hall Council to-night passed a resolution heartily endorsing the opinion expressed by Mr. James Service in his letter to the Argus in regard to an unconditional conference between the pastoralists and the shearers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The queries made by "Liberty" in your paper of 1st July wholly miss the point at issue. The only chance of peace and justice depends upon the submission of the whole question to public opinion. If both parties at the conference state their cases fully, then all grounds of complaint such as those mentioned by "Liberty" will come out clearly and the press and the public will be able to arrive at a verdict. Neither party to the dispute will dare disregard such an award. To resist it or act in defiance of it would be tremendous handicap on either the squatters or the unions. "Liberty" must remember that there are numbers of intelligent people in New South Wales who are neither sheepowners nor shearers, and their verdict is worth gaining, as in this dispute it would virtually have the irresistible force of public opinion. I am, &c.,

Young, July 2. GEORGE RANKEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It ought not to require the sweet and solemn persuasiveness of our judicious Hookers and representative councillors to induce the pastoralists to go into conference with the shearers' representatives, unless a conference of the parties must demonstrably be an abortion. Now, if freedom of contract were a well-understood expression on both sides; if the shearers knew what meaning the pastoralists attach to it as accurately as the pastoralists seem to believe that they know themselves; and if the shearers knew what things are excluded from the expression, as well as what things are included by it, then I think a conference would be, as we are sometimes told, a farce. But if the conference which the shearers ask for has no other result than an intelligible definition of this at present rather unintelligible shibboleth (I say shibboleth, not fetish), then surely it might be neither farce nor even loss of time on the part of the pastoralists to agree to hold a conference.

The "Homoiousians" and the "Homousians" knew pretty well what they were fighting about, or, at all events, their leaders did; but I hope I may be forgiven for doubting whether "freedom of contract," the abstraction which now divides the pastoral employers and the leaders of the shearing industry, means the same thing to both parties. Would it not be as well to find out before declaring war? It might cost £100 to find this out by means of a conference. To find it out by a war would perhaps mean a round million or so. I am, &c., MERCUTIO.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—There are few who can regard without grave misgiving the possibility of the disastrous struggle between labour and capital which has produced such ruinous results in Queensland, being renewed in this colony; and if a friendly settlement could be arrived at, it would remove a heavy burthen from the public mind. But this at present appears somewhat remote, especially as the pastoralists seem indisposed to accept the proposal for an open conference as suggested by the Trades and Labour Council, preferring to remain for the time being strictly on the defensive. Is it, however, necessary that a conference should be held? The points in dispute are thoroughly understood on either side, and unless mutual concessions are made, any such conference would simply result in disappointment. You can lead a horse to the well, but you cannot make him drink. But while the discussion respecting a conference is going on, how are the unionist shearers faring? They have, we are told, agreed to remain at home pending the settlement of the dispute. But it may take months, even years, to accomplish this, and while they are remaining in this condition of self-imposed idleness where are the means of support for themselves and their families to come from? Some of the Queensland shearers are absolutely penniless. They have spent their accumulated savings, and it will take many months of hard toil to place them as they were before the unhappy strike commenced. That they should have endured such privation and loss in the upholding of principles which they deem founded upon justice and right, speaks strongly in favour of their courage and determination, but at the same time proves how grievously they had miscalculated their strength. They were in a position to demand a great deal, but not everything. The pastoralists, rather than have shearing operations stayed, would have made every possible concession, in the shape of increased wages, improved accommodation, better conditions of labour, &c., and up to this point the unionists had the advantage; but when it came to dictating whom the pastoralists should or should not employ, then they overstepped the line, and provoked that spirit of dogged resistance which has recently found expression in the refusal to take part in an open conference. Employers and employed have feelings very much in common; neither like being dictated to by the other. They would not be men were it otherwise. Labour and capital have each their rights and duties, and neither may seek to override the other. Until recently the principal objects of unionism were to raise and maintain the rates of wages, and to aid in ameliorating the conditions of labour. Under this system the unionist did not object to working side by side with the non-unionist so long as the latter received the same rate of wages and laboured under the same conditions as himself. Why should it be otherwise at the present time in Australia? So long as a workman can secure the maximum of wages with the minimum of labour he has achieved all that is possible, so far as his relations with his employer are concerned, by means of union with his fellow-workmen. But this is possible only where the supply of labour is more or less restricted. As the supply of labour becomes increased, wages have a tendency to fall. This is a fact beyond all dispute. When the exodus to the goldfields nearly depopulated Sydney and Melbourne, wages rose to a fabulous height; ordinary carpenters and blacksmiths making as much as 20s or 25s per day. Of course, in time, with the increase of workers, wages fell to their normal level. When the Queensland shearers found the pastoralists unwilling to advance beyond a certain point, their true policy would have been to assist in consolidating the various advantages gained, and, by accepting employment on the conditions offered, have aided in maintaining the rates of wages. Instead of this, they played into the hands of the pastoralists by declining to work for them, thus necessitating the employment of free labour; in other words, increasing the actual number of labourers, and thus preparing the way for a future decreased rate of wages unless employment be found for the artificially-created surplus labour. It cannot be too strongly insisted upon that, in the true interests of the workers, it is unwise to unduly increase the surplus supply of labour in any particular branch of industry. Yet this is precisely what the Queensland shearers have done, and what the New South Wales shearers purpose doing. But how, it may be asked, are the malcontent shearers to act if the pastoralists refuse to recede from the position they have now taken up? The answer is simple. Let them return to the sheds, and keep the work in their own hands. To many the suggestion may be unpalatable, but it is based upon common-sense. It is not to the interest of the pastoralists to quarrel with the shearers, and if the unionists muster in sufficient force to do the work required, there will be no necessity to talk about freedom of contract. It is only when the pastoralist finds that he cannot get the shearing done without the assistance of free labour, that the principle of freedom of contract comes into play. But, after all, why should the relations between pastoralists and shearers be on other than a business footing? The pastoralist wishes to have the shearing done as cheaply as possible, while the shearer naturally desires to obtain the best terms for his labour. What is to prevent an average being struck which shall satisfy both? It is all very well to talk about "crushing capital," "reconstructing society," and so forth but working men, as a rule, cannot afford the cost of social experiments at their own expense. And it is a significant fact that the hardest employers—those who display the least consideration for the people in their employ—have generally been working men themselves. One of the most disastrous strikes in Lancashire was precipitated by the tyrannical conduct of a wealthy mill-owner, who had originally been a journeyman carter, in which capacity he achieved considerable notoriety by his frequent tirades against the alleged shortcomings of capital. Neither capital nor labour can effectually crush the other, but each can inflict a vast amount of mutual injury and suffering; and when the two meet in conflict the burden of pain often falls more heavily upon labour, because it is generally the weaker. But why should there be any fighting at all? Why should not capital and labour unite in maintaining a happy state of peace and industry? Such a friendship means much to capital, but more to labour, for to the latter it signifies continued advancement and prosperity, not only to the workman, but to all associated with him. I am, &c.,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The question of whether there shall be, or shall not be, a conference between the pastoralists and shearers is one that has much solid interest for the public. It cannot be looked upon as a difference of a purely private character. Hence the public have a right to be heard, and as one of the public I offer my contribution to the discussion.

The representatives of labour have asked for a conference; the representatives of capital have refused the request. In asking for a conference, what is it that is asked for? It is simply that a number of Australians shall meet together and talk over the trouble; that each side to this dispute shall, in a representative gathering, put forward its views; and, finally, if possible, arrange a basis on which the work of a great industry may be carried on. By simply meeting neither side either gains or loses, neither is thereby driven to desert its principles, or to weaken the defence of its interests; rather each side is the better able to place its opinions before the other as well as before the public.

If one side refuses to the other a request by the granting of which it could lose nothing, the refusal naturally tends to bitterness of feeling. Just as bitterness increases, is the difficulty of a final settlement increased. The serious strike which took place last year in the shipping and mining industries resulted in the defeat of the men; but is it straining truth to say that even to-day the men feel more bitterly about the refusal to grant a conference at that time than they do over the defeat itself? Differences between labour and capital are bound to take place from time to time; but it is for each side to recognise, and for the public to urge, that all negotiations between capital and labour must be conducted in the spirit most likely to facilitate settlement, to promote mutual respect, and to leave behind as little soreness as possible. If the question arises as to which side ought to excel the other in courtesy, I presume the reply would be that the capitalists ought to carry off the palm, because of their superior social position. Whether there is to be a conference or not seems to resolve itself largely into a mere question whether the attitude of the employers is to be a kindly one or not? The public certainly hope that it is to be a kindly one.

Perhaps I may venture to trespass on your space to refer to some correspondence that took place during last year's strike. I felt then—as I feel to-day—that the public welfare demands that all parties to industrial disputes should do all in their power to reduce the amount of friction accompanying such disputes. On September 4 a cable message was published to the effect that the British steamship owners intended to pecuniarily support the Australian steamshipowners in their struggle with the men. On the publication of this message I suggested to Mr. Burns, of the Steamship Owners' Association, that the offer should be declined, expressly with a view to prevent "the further widening of the area of strife, and by decreasing bitterness of feeling, possibly tend to an earlier solution of the existing most deplorable state of things." This letter brought a reply to the effect that nothing was known of the matter referred to in the cable message, and that therefore it was impossible to take any notice of it. A month later I again wrote to Mr. Burns, and suggested that it was desirable "that every possible effort should be made on the part of the employers to prevent an impression being created that they desired to lower the status of Australian labour." To this suggestion I added the following remarks:—"I fancy political economists have not yet fully recognised the advantages that are reaped by capitalists through the payment of a high average rate of wages. Large wages mean, nay, they create, large trades, and, of course, the larger the trade the greater the scope for the employer. It appears therefore, that Australian employers might wisely take a broader, bolder, more humane view of this subject than is taken in Europe, and by publicly declaring that, spite of differences between them and their employees, they were anxious for labour in Australia to occupy a higher social position than in any other part of the world, they would be doing honour to themselves and, at the same time, paving the way for the easy settlement of the present difficulty and of others that may arise from time to time in the future." In response to this Mr. Burns on October 3, wrote to me as follows:—"In reference to your letter to me you might draft a short article or notice such as you propose, and this, if submitted, might be approved, or otherwise, by the S.S. Owners Association, or better still, by the Employers' Union." Thus encouraged, I drew up the following declaration to be submitted to the Employers' Union:—"It having been represented to us that this step we have taken to unite the Employers of Australia, results from a deliberate and determined intention on our part to lower the remuneration and the dignity of Australian labour, we hereby emphatically repudiate any such intention. We go further, and say that we recognise as an economic fact that the welfare of employers and capitalists generally is best promoted by the existence of a high average rate of wages, since high wages mean large purchasing powers, and, consequently, extensive trade. We go still further and say that we are anxious that labour in Australia should occupy a higher and more dignified position than it occupies in any other part of the world." This declaration had the personal support of Mr. Burns, now president of the Steamship Owners' Association, and of Mr. Henry Hudson, the chairman of the Employers' Union, it was, however, shelved for various reasons. I refer to this correspondence now because I think it contains some useful hints as to the course that should be pursued at the present juncture, and also because of the evidence it gives of the willingness of large Sydney employers to meet their men in a friendly spirit. Employees and employers want to know more of one another; they cannot meet too often; they cannot be too well acquainted with the conditions under which capital is worked and labour employed. I am, &c.,

July 3. EDWARD PULSFORD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am informed that many thousands of working-men are now and have been for a long time past carrying on the permanent pastoral work of this colony alone. Those similarly engaged in the adjoining colonies number many thousands more. In addition, large numbers of shearers are now doing, and more are engaging to go on with, the shearing everywhere in Australia. All these men are working harmoniously with their employers under freedom of contract, and have in spite of all attempts to coerce them, declined to break faith. They are virtually working under the pastoralists' agreements, and do not see why they should make way for the late strikers. Put it as you will, would an open conference justify the discussion of freedom of contract? Or, in other words, shall these men who are entitled to honourable treatment at the hands of their employers—and who have been branded by those seeking to confer with every opprobrious epithet—be forced to subscribe to support unions in which they do not believe, or be dismissed? Many persons, differing from Dr. Garran and Mr. Service, think it would have created a bad impression had it even been admitted that such a subject could be brought up, though at the same time they regret that the letter asking for an unconditional conference, coupled with the simultaneously published speeches of the shearers' representatives, contained conditions which rendered conference impossible. I am, &c.,

WILLIAM COPE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Will you publish the following:—Scene: Union Camp, Barcaldine, Sunday, June 14. Strikers informed that all the money was done, and strike must be declared off. Stranger to shearer: "Excuse me, but what are all these men wanting?" Shearer: "Wanting, why they want the squatters to give them a conference." Stranger: "What do they expect to get by holding a conference?" Shearer: "Well, you are green; don't you see directly a conference is granted those men and the rest of the leaders will attend, or anyway some of them, and after a little talk will agree to the pastoralists' agreement if they promise not to employ Chinamen and kanakas excepting as cooks or gardeners; it will all be settled in a few minutes, and we shall at once gain the public sympathy? The people will say all this trouble would have been prevented if the squatters had held a conference months ago." Stranger: "That is all very well, but why have you all been causing so much misery, and so many of you throwing up good billets, if you are satisfied that the agreement is fair?" Shearer: "Oh, we had to come out with the others, besides, if we agree to sign the agreement, those men have lost their billets, they have never been recognised, and they would have to work the same as us fellows for a living." Stranger: "Thanks; then if I understand you right all this trouble is caused by these men being able to make more money by their agitation than by hard work, and they fear that the trouble may be settled without them being the ones to arrange the settlement. This occurred; and I am, &c.,

THE STRANGER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Notwithstanding the published statement on the authority of Mr. Temple, secretary of the Amalgamated Shearers' Union, that the ballot of members has resulted almost unanimously in favour of members of the Shearers' Union remaining at home this season, I observe that the conference of delegates of the Shearers' Union now sitting in Melbourne has "decided to recommend the members of the Shearers' Union to remain at home till some of their demands have been conceded." Such a recommendation would surely be unnecessary if it were true that the ballot above referred to had resulted as stated by Mr. Temple. The following quotations from the official report of the A. S. U. conference in Adelaide last February, giving the views of Messrs. Temple, Stanley, and other officials of the Shearers' Union, on the question of the men staying at home, will be interesting at the present juncture:—Mr. Mooney moved,—"That members of the A. S. U. be requested to stay at home until they are sent for by friendly pastoralists." Mr. Slattery did not see what they were to do at present, as it was impossible to tell what would occur. The proposal was no doubt a good one, but it would not operate. Men would not stay at home; some would, but others would be about the sheds to await. Mr. Hee: The Wagga men will. Mr. Slattery: No, they won't. You have as many blacklegs and scabs as any other district, and scab sheds. Mr. Mooney rose to order. Mr. Slattery: O, its no use; you are always blowing about Wagga branch being all-important. Mr. Head: So it is. Mr. Slattery: Then it should show an example to others, but it does not—not by a long way. I'll back my district against it and win. Mr. Stanley: It's nonsense to talk about staying at home, as it would not be done. Where will the Bourke members stay?—under the trees? The men were better in the ground? Mr. M'Inerney spoke similarly. The men would not do it for anyone, as they knew it would be giving the scabs their own way. Mr. Temple spoke at some length, showing the utter impracticability of carrying out such a scheme. If our members stayed at home the others would have a walk-over, and weak-kneed members would be found wavering. Mr. C. Poynton said if the scheme was adopted, the very men who stayed at home would be those who should be out, while those who did not stay at home would be the very ones who it was desirable should be kept away from the sheds. Mr. Temple did not know of a more complete scheme for breaking up the union than the motion meant. Half the men would not stay at home, and the consequence would be a most serious split in our ranks, and there there was no telling how it would end." In the face of this official report, which is privately supplied to subscribing members of the Shearers' Union, Mr. Temple states that, in defiance of the expressed opinions of the leaders, as reported above, the men have decided to remain at home! I am, &c., LYNX.

MEETINGS.

THE ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

A meeting of the council of the New South Wales Zoological Society was held yesterday afternoon at the Gardens, Moore Park. Present: Messrs. Walter Bradley (in the chair), W. Beaumont, and C. C. Skarratt. Mr. Bradley, the newly-elected vice-president in place of the late Sir John Robertson, returned thanks for the honour conferred upon him. The secretary read his monthly report, in which he stated that the receipts at the gates had amounted to £112 10s; from the elephant, £9 10s 3d; and from the donkey and pony, £3 15s; making a total of £125 15s 3d. The gate money represented the admission of 5892 visitors, of which 2784 had been children. The grounds had also been visited by 75 school children. The following donations had been received:—Diamond snake, by Mrs. C. Jones; Records of the Australian Museum, from the trustees of the museum. The following had been purchased:—9 mandarin ducks, 1 kangaroo, and 1 wallaroo.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION.

The monthly meeting of the council of the New South Wales Rifle Association was held last evening at the United Service Institution. Present—Colonel Jacques (in the chair), Major Longfield, Major Walker, Dr. Hurst, and Messrs. West, Sheridan, Douglas, Mitchell, Cohen, Keating, Stack, Fraser, Leggatt, Oldershaw, and W. Foskett (secretary). Colonel Jacques, upon taking the chair, referred in feeling terms to the death of Commander Lewington, who had held a seat on the council for a considerable period. As a mark of respect to the memory of Commander Lewington, only formal business was proceeded with. Major Walker moved,—"That this council desires to express to Mrs. Lewington its condolence and sympathy with her in her sad bereavement by the death of Commander Alfred J. Lewington, and also that the council places on record its sense of the valuable services rendered by him to this association." The motion was seconded by Major Longfield and carried unanimously, all the members rising to their feet. The chairman stated that at a meeting held in the vestry of St. Philip's Church, a resolution was passed that a memorial should be erected to Commander Lewington's memory. It was also decided at that meeting that a committee representing St. Philip's parish, the Naval Brigade, and the Rifle Association, should be formed to take the necessary steps in relation to the erection of the memorial. Colonel Jaques, Major Longfield, and Lieutenant Foskett, were appointed as the council's representatives on the committee. £50 was subscribed in the room towards the Lewington Memorial. A letter was received from Captain Cuthell, officer instructor of musketry, stating that the following order had just been received from the Home Department in reference to rifle firing:—"The direction of the pull off is not straight backwards, but slightly upwards across the small of the butt, and the trigger should therefore be pressed accordingly. In using a 'trigger-tether' it should be held in a line diagonally across the small of the butt." Captain Cuthell added, "I hope you will express to the association my extreme regret at the loss of so valuable a member as Commander Lewington, and I also beg to state that I should have been present at his funeral together with several of my brother officers, if sufficient warning had been given as to time and place." A letter was received from Captain Dean, of Adelaide (S. A.), stating that the intercolonial match for 1891 would be fired on September 8 at the Port Adelaide Rifle Range. Captain Dean forwarded two copies of the report of the last proceedings of the council, and the details of arrangements of numbers and conditions arranged for the match which should have been fired in Queensland. These stand good for this year. A letter was received from Mr. R. Penman, hon. secretary of the Wallsend Rifle Club, acknowledging the receipt of the silver medal offered for competition under the rules which provide that "Rifle clubs or rifle reserve companies affiliated to the association under rule II. shall be annually entitled to the silver medal of the association; to be competed for by members of the club or company so affiliated." The medal offered for competition to the Wallsend Club was won by Sergeant Cook, who expressed himself as much pleased with it. The conditions of the competition for these medals, arranged by the Picton Reserve Rifle Company, the Dubbo V. I. Rifle Club, the Molong Reserve Rifle Club, and the Naval Artillery Volunteers, were approved. The programme for the annual matches of the association will be published in a few days. The matches will be held during the week ending October 31.

THE WATER SUPPLY RESERVOIRS.

The Board of Water Supply and Sewerage have for some time had in contemplation a visit of inspection to their 100,000,000gal. reservoir at Potts Hill. Yesterday the full board mustered for that purpose. Those present were the president (Mr. T. Rowe), Messrs. B. Palmer, C. W. Darley (Engineer-in-Chief, Harbours and Rivers), R. Hickson (Engineer-in-Chief, Roads and Bridges), J. Graham, J. D. Young, and J. G. Lander, with the secretary (Mr. Reginald Bloxsome), and the Engineer for Water Supply. The party made a thorough examination of the work. The quality of the work and the progress made were considered satisfactory.

This work is designed to receive and store water conveyed by the canal and by the 6ft. pipe from the Prospect reservoir, the supply being in such quantity as to tide over any difficulty that may arise when it may be necessary to interrupt the conduits for repairs or other reasons.

This reservoir is chiefly in excavation, and measures over all 1206ft. by 906ft. It has sloping masonry sides 1½ to 1, and is 21ft. deep. The water will be 17ft. deep. The surface when full will be 175ft. above high-water mark and the bottom 158ft. The bottom is lined with cement concrete. The excavation amounted to 835,789 cubic yards. It is expected that the work will be completed in November next. On their way back to Sydney the board inspected the route whereon the new duplicate 4ft. trunk main is to be laid. The first part of this main is of wrought iron, manufactured by Messrs. C. and G. Hoskins, of Hay-street, the remainder, those of cast iron, being imported. A considerable number of both kinds of pipes are lying on the surface ready for laying underground. The board then visited the elevated tank that supplies the heights of Ashfield and Petersham. This tank is of mild steel, rivetted, having a dished or concave bottom, resting on brickwork arches, and its capacity is 100,000 gallons. The provision to counteract the effect of expansion and contraction has proved thoroughly efficient, as not the slightest defect is observable in the brickwork. The tank is watertight. It was made by Mr. Tulloch, of Pyrmont Foundry. The Petersham brick reservoir was then visited, and everything was found to be in good order. Between Ashfield and Redfern the board viewed the more elevated parts of Ashfield, Petersham, and Newtown, with a view of determining as to the proposal of the engineer to give the pressure from the Woollahra Reservoir to these localities. The present supply to the localities is very precarious in summer on the first floor. At the next meeting of the board it is proposed to discuss this question. The board then drove through Newtown and Redfern to view the site selected at Moore Park for a 20,000,000 gallon reservoir. This work is designed for the storage of the water brought in throughout the night, for use the following day, as well as to tide over any interruption that might occur to the canals, &c. The site was considered admirably adapted for the purpose.

TRADES MOVEMENTS.

The first meeting of the annual Eight-hour Demonstration Committee was held at the Trades Hall last evening. The proceedings were opened by Mr. P. J. Brennan, on behalf of the Amalgamated Slaughtermen and Journeymen Butchers' Union, the society chosen as the inaugurating body for this year. No less than 28 labour organisations were represented, and it was announced that in all probability several other societies would apply later on. The only business done was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—President, J. Grant; vice-president, Mr. F. Brennan; treasurer, Mr. J. Biddell; and trustees, Messrs. J. Cooksey, Samuel Smith, and W. C. Andrews. Mr. Bernard Goode was again elected secretary. The demonstration will take place during October.

A meeting of the Graphic Art Society was held last evening at the Royal Foresters' Hall, for the purpose of reorganisation.

A subterranean Roman temple has just been unearthed at the foot of the Calvarienberg at Baden, near Vienna. In a niche of this cave or mithras grotto are the remains of an altar hewn out of the rock. Fragments of Roman vessels and utensils, as well as knives, arrows, lamps, and coins, were also found. Baden—one of the most popular Austrian health resorts, famed for the remedial virtues of its waters—was, under the Romans, an asylum for the veterans of the Legion, at which period the efficacy of its springs enjoyed prehistoric fame.

THE INTERCOLONIAL SHEEP SHOW.

The Royal Agricultural Society was favoured with splendid weather for yesterday's intercolonial sheep show and parade of stock. A finer day could not have been desired. In the morning the attendance was sparse, but in the afternoon a moderate number of people visited the show, and the ground presented an animated appearance. The main features of the exhibition were the sheep, the horses, and the sheep dogs, but it was not till the afternoon that they were ready for public inspection. The Tasmanian sheep, which had not arrived on the previous day, were yesterday penned and ready for the judges. Nearly the whole of the morning was occupied in the judging of the sheep. By lunch time the main pavilion, in which they were penned, was thrown open, and by 2 o'clock a large gathering had assembled upon the grounds. Up till the closing hour the sheep were closely inspected by breeders and others specially interested in them, but the most popular attraction was to be found outside, in the jumping contests of the horses. This lasted for nearly an hour. There were seven competitors for the Gentlemen's Hunters' Plate, and the jumping was exceedingly good. No awards were made, however, as the contest does not conclude until this afternoon. During this contest the Governor and his Private Secretary (Mr. Goschen) arrived on the ground, and were received by the members of the committee. His Excellency was conducted round the show by Mr. Inglis, and he evinced great interest in the sheep and in the Wolseley shearing machine, which was at work. After the jumping was concluded, the trial of sheep-dogs was continued. Seven dogs competed, but none of them yarded the sheep, although their attempts to do so were viewed with much interest. The parade of stock was small. The samples of wool shown by the Technological Museum received a large share of attention. Messrs. F. Lassetter and Co. showed some force-pumps and other similar machinery. The Langley wool-press was on view and at work, and it received more than ordinary notice. To-day the jumping contests and the sheep-dog competition will be concluded. The jumping contests will consist of the Gentlemen's Hunters' Plate, Ladies' Hunters' Plate, Water Jump, and High Jump.

THE HUNTER'S PLATE.

A feature of the exhibition was the jumping contest for the Gentlemen's Hunter's Plate over six fences, and in which seven out of the nine entrants took part. The fences were ordinary three-railers, and the competitors, who carried 13st, are to be judged on their hunting qualifications. Messrs. V. Dowling, J. Gormly, and H. Dawson, officiated as judges. The Goulburn horse Dart was the first to face the timber, and, nicely handled by Mr. J. Wilson, he cleared his fences in good style. Dr. Cortis's chestnut Inverell, owner up, was the next to enter the arena. The son of Banker turned his head at the first fence, and at the second attempt he negotiated it rather clumsily, Dr. Cortis losing one of his stirrups, but the remaining five he took. Tudor, piloted by his owner, Mr. W. Cope, followed, but marred an otherwise good performance by declining the fifth obstacle. Mr. A. B. Staff's bay horse by Duke of Cleveland came next, and received a well-merited round of applause after clearing his fences without a mistake. Mr. Terry's Wrangler, ridden by Mr. A. E. Wicks, rapped his first fence, and at the fifth he refused three times, but eventually got over. The Orange horse, Biglow, piloted by Mr. E. Whittaker, gave a splendid exhibition of fencing; and the same may be said of Shannon, a fine-looking grey horse, the property of Mr. H. J. Wynne, of Elizabeth Bay. Taken as a whole, the jumping was first-class.

SHEEP.

There are about 150 pens of sheep, all of which are comfortably accommodated in the main pavilion. The entries should have been larger, but this is not the society's fault. If breeders will not come, or if persons whose "fancy" is in the way of sheep do not support the shows held in the metropolis, no association of agriculturists is likely to bring about a better state of things. There was a serious talk some months ago of making what would be termed a grand champion show, at which the champions of all the sheep-shows of the colony would be encouraged to appear by offers of very large prizes; but the project proceeded no further than the mere proposal, although one supporter of it promptly offered a donation of £100. The show business has been so much divided that it affects the sheep sections. The breeder who wins at one show does not like to jeopardise his reputation by appearing as an exhibitor at another. The metropolis should be a good convincing-ground, and so far as the present show has gone it is a place where an exhibitor is educated. The competition is not great, but there are good sheep, some of the best in Australia being present. The leading pastoralists of Australia are in the city, ready to take part in the stud sheep fair, so it would appear that it is right to make a sheep show the preface of the sales.

Judging this year was done strictly under the point system. The judges were:—Fine wool rams, L. C. Rowe and H. C. Burwell; strong wool rams, R. D. Clark and W. Harkness; fine wool ewes, P. Sinclair and S. Robinson; strong wool ewes, J. Thorpe and D. J. Tully. These gentlemen were instructed to judge by scales of points, a specimen of which is given in the following class:—

Fine.—Class 2: Ram, artificially fed, 1½ and under 2½ years.

Award.	No. of Exhibit.	No. of Days Growth.	Breeding Style and Character.	Form and Constitution.	Size.	Length of Staple.	Density.	Covering.	Brightness and Softness.	Wave, Fineness, Freeness, &c.	Evenness of Quality.	Yolk.	Total.
...	...	...	2	15	5	7	25	10	10	15	13	2	100
1	20	352	2	13	5	7	22	9	9	11	12	1	91
2	19	352	1	11	4	6	22	8	8	10	11	1	82½
3	22	318	1	9	4	5	23	7	7	9	10	2	77

It is a rather risky procedure to ask eight judges, some of whom have never tried the point system, to give verdicts at a metropolitan show under its strict ruling. It would have been better to have tried a few classes, as was done at last year's show. The judges did their best, and in some cases were very patient in striving to bring the best sheep to the fore, but it happened occasionally that what the judges considered best came out in the second place. This was more than ordinarily prominent in the case of the champion ram in the artificially fed section. In the ewes, too, there was a conflict of opinion. The defects in the system were in the value set upon certain qualities. Breeding, style and character, 2; yolk, 2; brightness and softness, 10; evenness of quality, 13, are examples of classification which point out the faultiness of construction when making up the various divisions. The first—"breeding, style, and character"—being most essential points of a stud sheep, merit more than a couple points; whilst "yolk," bearing in mind its influence on the character of the wool, is scantily treated. Six points for each division ought to be at least the lowest they should be computed at. "Brightness and softness," although a great desideratum, do not require a tenth of the whole number of points, and can easily bear a reduction of 50 per cent. The same—in a lesser degree—can be said of the points allotted to "evenness of quality." The mistake was made by not placing the scale of points before the judges previous to the commencement of their duties, and thus allowed them the opportunity of agreeing to a classification that would have led to more uniform judging and caused less grumbling amongst judges and exhibitors.

The stewards, E. D. E. Van Weenen and A. Bruce, worked industriously, and kept the four sets of judges busily employed from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. The tickets and ribbons were promptly placed, and the management generally was creditable. There were two main divisions in the schedule, one for sheep artificially fed and housed, the other for grassfed and unhoused. These divisions were subdivided into sections for fine and strong wools. In the fine section, class for rams 2½ years and over, the 11 exhibits were of a superior kind. George Lee, of Bathurst, took first prize with a fine ram, which by points scored 81½. M'Farland Brothers, of Berooga, second with a densely clad sheep by True Briton, scoring 72½ points, and G. H. Cox, of Mudgee, third with 72 points. This ram is excellent on top, but slightly deficient in length of staple. The Collaroy ram, No. 12 on the catalogue, which many good judges considered as the best sheep on the floor, was completely overlooked by the judges, who considered him more a woolsorter's fancy than a good sire. This opinion, however, is plainly erroneous, as prize-winning stock from him are present on the floor, and again his shape and qualities speak for themselves. It is rather hard on Collaroy, as the estate is second for the championship with a ram which Mr. Maher, Collaroy's manager, considers inferior to the neglected No. 12. In the class for rams under two and a-half years, Thomas Gibson, of Esk Vale, Tasmania, is first, second, and champion, with two admirable sheep showing great length and quality of fleece, the covering below being more than ordinarily perfect. The champion, a son of Pilgrim Second, scored 91 points, being only 9 points below perfection. The second ram has 82½ points; the third, George Lee's, 77—not a bad score, and which supports a recent Bathurst verdict, where first place was reached. There were 17 exhibits in this class. In the rams, under 18 months, shorn, George Lee took first, 88 points, with a very neat sheep bred by James Lee, of Larras Lake; Collaroy being second with 75 points, and F. B. Suttor h. c. with 71. There were eight rams over 2½ years in the strong combing class. Collaroy was first and reserve champion with a well-clad three-year-old sheep, which scored 85 points. M'Farland Brothers were second with a half-bred American, 77 points, density being specially marked; Thomas Gibson third with the biggest sheep on the floor. Amongst the unplaced ones may be mentioned Vincent Dowling's ram, also very dense, but rather fine for the class. This is one of the best Lue sheep which has ever come to the city.

The class for rams under 2½ years had six exhibits. Here M'Farland Bros. take first with 85½, Geo. Lee being second with 79½, and V. Dowling third with 78½ points—very close work indeed in the way of point-judging. Out of seven rams under 1½ year, shorn, Vincent Dowling is first and second, 79½ and 66 points, beating Bathurst and Collaroy.

In fine ewes, 2½ years and over, F. B. Suttor scored a first, 90½ points, with a very neat, well-clad sheep, which was first in her class here last year, and second recently at Bathurst. G. H. Cox was second with 76 points, and Vincent Dowling third with 73½ points. There were 10 ewes under 2½ years, and here W. H. Gibson, of Fairfield, Tasmania, is first, second, and champion, the last prize being given on 93 points—an award which supports a recent verdict at the Midland show, Tasmania. The Collaroy Company came out creditably as third, with 81 points. In ewes, under 18 months, shorn—a big class—W. H. Gibson is first with 87 points for a ewe by King Billy, and Vincent Dowling is second with 75½ points, the Collaroy Company highly commended with 74 points.

In strong combing ewes, over 2½ years, Vincent Dowling is first and second, 85 and 72 points; G. and H. Suttor third. There was a large class of ewes under 2½ years, but Collaroy came out first and second with two very pretty specimens of the Australian merino; V. Dowling scored third, the points being respectively 73½, 73, and 68. In ewes, under 18 months, shorn, Collaroy was first with 78½ points, V. Dowling second with 73½, and G. and H. Suttor third with 64½.

The classes in the grass-fed section were rather sparsely furnished. In fine-woolled rams, 2½ years and over, Marshall and Slade, Glengallan (Q.), took first; in the next two classes, G. Merriman, Ravensworth, scored honours. In strong combing rams over 2½ years and rams under 2½ years, Vincent Dowling took two first, a champion, and a second. This breeder was equally successful in the fine-woolled ewes over 2½ years and under 2½ years. In the latter class he took champion with a sheep of admirable quality. Merriman and Suttor also took honours in these classes. Dowling was first in ewes under 18 months, with 70½ points, Merriman being second with 68.

In strong combing ewes, Dowling takes three firsts and three seconds, in one case scoring 78½ points. Being the owner of the champion ewe in the grass-fed section, he takes the Sydney Morning Herald's prize of £10. The prizes offered by the Union Mortgage and Agency Company—£5 5s and £3 3s—are taken by W. H. Bennett, of Bloomfield, Tasmania, with pens of five excellent ewes. The long-wool section was rather bare, but some good quality appeared. Norman L. Suttor, of Bathurst, took two first, two second, and two champions, with Leicesters of good quality, from imported stock. John Lindsay, of Illawarra, took two firsts and a second with Shropshires—a breed which is rather popular on the coast.

TRIAL OF SHEEP DOGS.

The trial of sheep dogs took place at 3 o'clock, and as usual was an interesting exhibition. Each dog had to take three sheep between a pair of hurdles a few feet apart, drive the sheep across the ground, and through a second pair, and finally drive the sheep into a small pen, all within 15 minutes. None of the dogs managed to complete the task, various causes acting against them. One reason was that some of the sheep refused to be driven, and one of these emblems of animal mildness turned stoutly upon the dog and drove him away several times, provoking cries from the spectators that the sheep was trying to yard the dog. The first hurdle was the more difficult to negotiate, and here the mistake was made by more than one competitor of trying to bustle the sheep through in place of steadying them in front and fetching them slowly down to it. The work done by the dogs was not uniformly good, the principal defects being a want of steadiness and a tendency to get too close to the sheep when near the hurdles. The latter error must be charged in part to the masters for not keeping the dogs well ranged out at a critical time. None of the work could be considered equal to what was shown here some time ago by such dogs as Patty, and Boori Barber; and in fact the performance of Patty under the control of her master—Mr. Besnard—must be a revelation even to those who have seen the work of ordinary dogs. The first dog—Jet—the property of Mr. Eckford, lacked condition, and was not perfectly under control. The sheep first faced the dog, and then breaking away, ran along the fence, none being put through the first hurdle. Mr. Farlane's Needle started with an immense circuit, lost a sheep, and then began barking. She followed the two sheep which kept together, and disobeyed the call to fetch the single one first. After the first hurdle had been negotiated the sheep were worked to the second, and put through after breaking. Mr. Matchett's Fairy proved to be very fast and well under control. She quickly had her sheep to the first hurdle, but they were pushed up to the opening too fast, and ran past it, this performance being repeated until time was called. Mr. M'Phillamey's Sneak got the sheep to the first hurdle in good style, but they were bustled at the opening, and while one went through two ran round, and at the next hurdle they could not be kept together, and Sneak was withdrawn. The same owner then tried Tiny and three good sheep were liberated. Tiny showed wonderful activity, and took an immense range in rounding the sheep. This dog did not succeed in getting the sheep through the first hurdle and sprang at them a couple of times when breaking. Mr. Merryman's Toby was not under very good control at the start, requiring many repetitions of a command from his master, but he improved after a little time. He was unable to do anything with one of the sheep, which charged at him time after time, and was quite unworkable, although the dog exercised the greatest patience. Mr. Newnham's Bob, a thick-set bob-tailed dog, showed himself to be perfectly steady and under command. He lacked pace, but all his work was very good, although he only got the sheep through one hurdle before time was called. This completed the competition for the day. The typical colley, with immense ruff, well feathered legs, and full sweeping tail, was as usual not to be seen amongst the competing dogs, the favourite type being a wiry built dog, with rather long legs, prick ears, and no superfluous hair.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

With every prospect of splendid weather, it is safe to assume that the Canterbury July reunion, which takes place to-day, will attract a large attendance. The bill of fare to be discussed is an interesting one, and apropos of the "Glorious Fourth," the nomenclature of the races has a decided American flavour. The management have made due preparations for the comfort of a large gathering, and as the track is reported to be in good order, the sport bids fair to be of a high-class character. In addition to the ordinary traffic, special trains leave Redfern for Ashfield at 12.45 and 1 p.m., returning after the last race. The opening event is set down for 1.45 p.m., when the horses engaged in the Independence Handicap will be despatched on their errand, and the most likely to fill the places are Avenger, Repeater, and Denman. The prospects of Euterpe, Queen Mary, and Lady Elizabeth appear to be the most encouraging of those engaged in the Park Stakes; and Minting, Oxenham, and Reversion may be the most reliable for the Monmouth Handicap. A large field is almost certain to contest the Stars and Stripes Handicap, and should Avenger be reserved for that event the son of Chester must have a great deal to say in the matter, while Dick, Repeater, and Komisch may be the best of the others. Reversion, Forester, and The Miner should divide the honours in the Selling Race; while Theodore, Eveline, Dampier, and Komisch may form the first flight in the Stewards' Mile. The programme is published elsewhere in this issue.

The hurdleracer Satyr was yesterday withdrawn from all Warwick Farm July engagements.

The programme framed by the Rosehill management for their July meeting on the 18th instant demands the attention of owners and trainers on Monday next, when at 5 p.m. nominations close with the secretary, Mr. G. B. Rowley, for the following items:—Oceanic Handicap, of 60 sovs.—6 furlongs; Granville Stakes, a welter handicap of 70 sovs., for all horses that have never won an advertised prize of the value of 45 sovs. at time of starting—1¼ mile; Maiden Hurdle Race, a handicap of 70 sovs., for all horses that have never won a hurdle race at time of starting—2 miles; Selling Race, of 50 sovs., w.f.a., for three-year-olds and upwards, winner to be sold for 100 sovs., selling allowances—7 furlongs; Steeplechase, a handicap of 75 sovs—about 2½ miles; Rosehill July Handicap, 100 sovs, second horse 10 sovs from the prize—1 mile. The usual liberal conditions will be found in our business columns, and the nomination fee of one sov. must accompany each entry.

The Lillie Bridge proprietary hold their postponed trotting and pony race meeting this evening, when a five-event programme will be run through, commencing at 8 o'clock. Special trams will, as usual, run to the grounds at short intervals during the evening.

Bellringer and Marmion, who are engaged in the V. R. C. Grand National Hurdle and Steeplechase respectively, have left by rail for Melbourne.

The speedy and well-bred mare Pet Girl is for private sale.

Owners and trainers of trotting horses and racing ponies should bear in mind that entries for the Lillie Bridge trotting and race meeting, to be held on Saturday evening next, 11th instant, close at 4 p.m. on Monday with the secretary, Mr. H. Taylor. The events include races for ponies 11.2, 12.2, 13.0, and 13.2; and a two-mile trot for horses.

A little wagering in connection with the Victorian Spring campaign took place yesterday, without causing any important alteration in previous quotations. Carbine still holds the pride of place for the V.R.C. Melbourne Cup, and 100 to 9 was the best offer against the great son of Musket. 100 to 7 was obtainable about Vengeance; and 100 to 4 bar two. Stromboli had friends who accepted 100 to 3, and 100 to 4 was the best available at the finish. For the V. R. C. Derby and Melbourne Cup the prices ranged from 1000 to 20 to 1000 to 2; while 1000 to 1 and 2 could be got about the "two cups." The quotation for doubles on the V. R. C. Grand National Hurdle and Steeplechase was 1000 to 10; and for the Steeplechase, straight out, 6 to 1 on the field, Sir Wilfred and Fearless II. being favourites.

At a meeting of the A. J. C. committee on Thursday, disqualifications imposed for running at unregistered meetings were removed from the following racehorses:—G g Idle Boy, aged; b g Chinaman, aged; br m Molley, 4 years; b h Nancy Lee, aged; br g Eira, 5 years; b g Barebones, aged; b g The Fop, aged; b h Recovery, aged; br g Hark, 6 years; br g Stout, 6 years; ch g Cigar, aged; and blk or br g Slow Tom, 5 years. R. Collins, E. Bartley, William Irwin, B. Gough, J. T. Luckey, W. Whatham, and T. Grimes were granted jockeys' licenses.

The conditions for the two leading handicaps of the A. J. C. spring reunion are announced in this issue, and owners and trainers of racehorses should note that nominations must be lodged with the secretary, Mr. T. S. Clibborn, 14 Castlereagh-street, Sydney, or the secretary of the V. R. C., Melbourne, before 4 p.m. on the 13th instant. The events are as under:—The Epsom Handicap, a sweepstakes of 10 sovs. each, half forfeit, or 1 sov. only if declared before 4 p.m. on Monday, August 17, with 1000 sovs. added, for 3-year-olds and upwards, second horse 200, and third 100 sovs. from the prize—1 mile; and the Metropolitan, a handicap sweepstakes of 20 sovs. each, half forfeit, or 5 sovs. if declared by 4 p.m. on Monday, August 17, with 1000 sovs. added, second horse 200 and the third horse 100 sovs. from the prize—2 miles.

At the Royal Agricultural Society's Grounds, Moore Park, the jumping competitions will be decided this afternoon. Taking a line from yesterday's performances over the fences, the contest for the Gentlemen's Hunters' Plate should prove most interesting, while the Ladies' Hunters' Plate, Water Jump, and High Jump are almost certain to bring about spirited competitions.

The five events on the card for the trotting and race meeting to be held at Moore Park on Wednesday next attracted 70 nominations yesterday, of which the Mite Handicap was responsible for 13; President's Handicap, 20; Time Handicap Trot, 13; Unique Selling Race, 12; and Club Handicap, 12. The list is published in another part of this paper.

Word comes from Melbourne to the effect that Mr. S. G. Cook, who announced his intention to dispose of his racing stock, has reconsidered the matter, and has withdrawn the notification.

The Victorian jockey Flood has been disqualified for 12 months by the stewards of the V. A. T. C. for foul riding in the Richmond Handicap on the 27th ultimo.

MENTONE RACE MEETING.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Mentone Race Meeting was held to-day, and proved very successful, though in consequence of the somewhat rainy weather the attendance was smaller than usual. There were fair fields for most of the events and most excellent racing. Labour, a N.S.W. representative, and Rossall were heavily backed for the Trial Stakes, but The Jester won all the way. The Queensland horse Redfern was made a strong favourite for the Mentone Handicap, but an ex-Queenslander in Master Walter won, after running a dead heat with Accident. The following are the results:—

SELLING HURDLE RACE, 1¾ mile.—Mr. J. Cohen's Bangle, 10st (Keating), 1; Mr. J. T. Carslake's Gulpha, 10st 7lb (A. Ferguson), 2; Mr. A. Ruding's Yatapa, 10st 7lb (Fallon), 3. Betting: 6 to 4 on Gulpha, 6 to 4 v. Bangle, 4 to 1 v. Yatapa. Won by a nose, Yatapa a poor third. Time, 3 minutes 10 seconds.

TRIAL STAKES, 5 furlongs and 20 yards.—Mr. S. G. Cook's The Jester, 6st 12lb (Myers), 1; Mr. D. Greenaway's Rossall, 6st 9lb (Holmes), 2; Mr. M. Thompson's Labour, 6st 9lb (Jas. Hayes), 3. Eight others ran. Betting: 7 to 4 v. Rossall, 5 to 2 v. Labour, 6 to 1 v. Lardy Dardy, 7 to 1 v. The Jester, 10 to 1 v. others. Won by two and a half lengths. Labour two lengths away. Time, 1 minute 7¼ seconds.

MIDWINTER HANDICAP, 6 furlongs.—Lazarus Bros. Briton, 7st 12lb (M'Gowan), 1; J. O'Neill's Adonis, 6st 12lb (Jas. Hayes), 2; J. T. Carslake's Memoir, 7st (King), 3. Six others ran. Betting: Evens Briton, 7 to 1 v. Memoir, 8 to 1 v. Driffield, 10 to 1 v. any others. Won by a short head, Memoir three lengths away. Time, 1 minute 7 seconds. The stewards held an inquiry into the running of Driffield, with the result that the owner (J. B. Rennison), the colt, and the jockey (John Hayes) were each disqualified for 12 months.

HANDICAP HURDLE RACE, 1¾ mile.—Mr. S. W. Cook's The Dane, 9st 2lb (Barbour), 1; Mr. H. Oxenham's Handover, 11st 4lb (Suey), 2; Mr. F. Musgrave ns Provoker, 9st 6lb (Fallon), 3. Five others started. Betting: 4 to 1 each v. Hart, Proletaire, and The Dane, 5 to 1 v. Laverness and Handover, 10 to 1 v. any other. Won by four lengths, Proletaire a bad third. Time, 3 minutes 8½ seconds.

DISPOSAL STAKES, 5½ furlongs.—Mr. W. J. Buck's Colleen Juna, 7st 12lb (James Hayes), 1; Mr. F. R. Scott's Meerschaum, 7st 5lb (Banbard), 2; Mr. D. Robinson, jun., ns Coronation, 7st 5lb (Caldecott), 3. Four others run. Betting: 5 to 2 v. Colleen Juna, 3 to 1 v. Coronation, 4 to 1 v. Meerschaum and Abrupt, 7 to 1 v. any other. Won by a head, Meerschaum a neck in front of Coronation. Time, 1 minute 10¼ seconds.

MENTONE HANDICAP, 1¼ mile and a furlong.—Mr. J. Whittingham's Master Walter, 7st 6lb (S. Fountain), and Mr. C. Ruding's Accident, 7st 3lb (Cundin), a dead heat; Mr. P. Bolger ns Vegetarian, 6st 12lb (Holmes), 3. Ten others started. Betting: 2 to 1 v. Redfern, 4 to 1 v. Maggie and Accident, 7 to 1 v. Mikado II., 8 to 1 v. John Bright, 10 to 1 v. any other. Time, 1 minute 59½ seconds. In the run off the betting was 6 to 4 v. Accident. The non-favourite led all the way, and though Accident got close to him at the finish Master Walter won by a length and a quarter. Time, 2 minutes 1½ second.

FOOTBALL.

The Association Cricket Ground will be occupied this afternoon with a match between the Strathfield and Zealandia Clubs. Play will commence at 3 o'clock.

The meeting on Moore Park of the Sydney and West Sydney teams this afternoon in the Flanagan Cup competition has every indication of being an interesting and stubborn struggle for supremacy. At present the suburban team occupies the premier position, their opponents, however, having only one reverse recorded against them.

LACROSSE.

Kirribilli and Iroquois Clubs meet at Moore Park this afternoon, when the following are selected to play:—Kirribilli: E. Jones, Walker, B. Clarke, Banks (2), Thow, Wales, Tulloh, Dodds, Irving, H. Paul, and H. Jefferson. Iroquois: Black, Hurst, Lawless, Marsh (captain), Pettit (3), Redhead, Millin, Smith, Stark, Wallace. The match will be played on the Delaware ground.

BASEBALL.

This being the 4th of July, the Americans intend holding a baseball match in the afternoon on the Domain. The game of baseball has made wonderful progress in the sister colonies; and, now that we have the American baseball representative in Sydney, the game is becoming so popular that in a short time we may look for intercolonial baseball matches. To-day's match will be between the Sydney and Casino clubs, and the players will be placed as follow:—

Sydney Club.	Position.	Casino Club.
Franklin	Catcher	Simpson
Gleeson	Pitcher	Quinlan
Grundy	First Base	Willoughby
Sleigh	Second Base	Mahoney
Bolster	Third Base	Wise
Bird	Short Stop	Keith
Gunther	Centre Field	Cooper
M'Gifford	Right Field	Ford
M'Donough	Left Field	Jones
Clear	Emergencies	Deans
Grosse		Gregory

Umpire, J. E. Chuck.

PEDESTRIANISM.

The Marrickville anniversary meeting will be held this afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock.

Nominations for the Carrington Nursery Handicap close to-night.

The Sir Joseph Banks Handicap will be run on Monday afternoon.

CARRINGTON HANDICAP.

The Carrington Nursery Handicap was run last night, and it was won by T. T. Nelson off the 27½ yards mark.

In the first round the winners were:—A. A. Brown 27½ yards, W. H. Hall 20, A. Barker 29½, J. Wilson 28½, W. Arkell 28½, R. Strong 29½, A. Harper 30, J. Lockhardt 29½, P. Murphy 27½, T. T. Nelson, 27½, T. Brimble 27, B. Healey 27½, J. Nesbitt 26½, A. C. Beeston 28½.

The winners in the second round were:—T. Brimble, T. T. Nelson, W. H. Hall, and R. Strong. The final resulted as follows:—T. T. Nelson, 27½ yards, 1; W. H. Hall, 20, 2; R. Strong, 29½, 3; T. Brimble, 27, 4. Won by a yard. Betting: 2 to 1 on Hall, 6 to 4 v. Nelson.

The following are the starts for the Carrington Professional Handicap to be run on Wednesday night:—

Blyth, to Linden, and the proceeds of additional tickets not yet collected will bring the amount to £15.

ATHLETICS.

The annual sports meeting of the University Athletic Club will be held on the Association Cricket Ground on Wednesday, the 22nd instant, under the patronage of his Excellency the Governor, who has consented to be present. A lengthy programme has been arranged, and will be found set out in the advertising columns of to-day's issue. Entries close positively on Wednesday next, the 8th instant. Entries for the open events may be given in to Messrs. R. Coombes, R. J. White, and H. Schwartzkoff, who will receive them on behalf of the club.

CYCLING.

The committee of the Sydney Bicycle Club met at Milthorpe's Hotel, York-street, on Thursday evening and disposed of several items of important business. The hon. secretary was empowered to complete the agreement with the trustees for the use of the Association Ground on the 22nd August next for the annual race meeting. A requisition, asking that the club championship be closed against pneumatic tyres, was not conceded to, as after careful consideration the committee agreed that a championship must be open to best and best machines. The second road race of the season for club members was arranged over the usual Botany course for the 1st August. Officers and handicappers were appointed.

AQUATICS.

THE MERCANTILE ROWING CLUB.

The half-yearly meeting of the Mercantile Rowing Club was held at the Oxford Hotel last evening. Mr. F. Senior, jun., presided, and there was a large attendance of members. The secretary, Mr. E. Grace, read the report relative to the resignation of the club from the Rowing Association in consequence of the decision in the race for the champion eights, rowed on May 23, which the Mercantile crew was declared the winner, but which was afterwards declared no race because Mr. Jenkins, a member of the Mercantile crew, had some years since rowed for a money prize. The report concluded:—"All we ask is that the association will act strictly under its rules, and leave it to our sense of honour how to act under the circumstances. We have been persistently opposed and misrepresented for fully three years, and could not with dignity submit to this last blow at our supremacy. We solemnly declare that Mr. Jenkins was included in the races of the past three years in all good faith, and that we had not the slightest idea that he had done anything that would lead to his disqualification. As the matter now stands, all the members of our crew have been declared to be professional oarsmen, and included in the crew are our executive officers, captain, hon. treasurer, and secretary. We trust the association will reconsider its action, as we cannot allow matters to remain as they are. This is the first opportunity we have taken of stating the facts of the case, as we considered the members were entitled to have our explanation first. We have refrained from approaching the association, as we wish to leave them free to act fairly. In conclusion, we might add that the statement that Mr. Jenkins's case was considered by the association three years ago is outside our knowledge, and we never heard of such action being taken."

The adoption of the report was moved by Mr. J. Blackman, and seconded by Mr. G. Jenkins. While the motion was being discussed, a letter was received from the secretary of the Rowing Association. The communication was read, and was to the effect that at a special meeting of the association, held on the previous evening, he had been instructed to officially communicate that the senior eight-oar crew representing the M. R. C. was simply disqualified from receiving the medals for the race, and the club from receiving the championship pennant for such race, on account of evidence submitted to the committee at its meeting on June 9 to the effect that one of the crew, Mr. George Jenkins, was not an amateur, and his admission that he had rowed professionally was accepted as sufficient grounds for the action taken. The race was further declared "no race" to obviate the possibility of any gentlemen who competed therein losing their amateur status by reason of their having rowed against a professional. He was also instructed to add that the action was taken under rule 2 of the Association Rules, as it was considered that the objects of the Association had been contravened by the M. R. C. crew being other than amateur. The association committee was quite ready to admit that the crew was not aware of Mr. Jenkins's performances, but submitted that they should have been. The only end in view was to have the race re-rowed by purely amateur crews in which the winning club would secure the championship under the conditions prescribed by the association. The association committee by no means desired the club to sever the connection with the association. It was hoped that the club would consent to re-contest the race at a date to be immediately arranged.

After discussion, the motion for the adoption of the committee's report was carried unanimously.

The Chairman then presented the association's medals for the Junior Fours race at the last regatta to the winning crew. The silver cup, given by Mr. Senior for a handicap skiff race, was presented to Mr. F. Pyke, the winner, and the second prize was presented to Mr. C. Chandler. A vote thanks to the chairman ended the meeting.

This afternoon the Mercantile Rowing Club will hold a handicap skiff race for prizes presented by Mr. D. Fletcher. The entries and handicaps are:—W. Hotten, scratch; James Thompson, A. M'Gregor, A. Williams, 10 seconds; S. Daley, 20 seconds; J. Daley, G. Mitchell, 30 seconds; M. J. M'Keown, 40 seconds; F. Senior, F. Thorpe, H. Tange, D. Aitken, R. Barbour, A. Pierce, T. Barkell, 50 seconds; J. Lehane, A. Sullivan, 60 seconds; J. M'Credie, 90 seconds.

PIGEON SHOOTING.

The second competition for the N.S.W. Gun Club Cup took place at the club's ground yesterday, and resulted in a "leg in" for Mr. J. G. de Lamb, who killed 10 birds without a miss.

GOVERNMENT GAZETTE.

The following announcements appeared in the Government Gazette issued yesterday:—

RESUMPTION.—Certain low-lying mud-flats in the vicinity of Neutral Harbour and Careening Cove have been resumed. Land is resumed at West Maitland for the construction of flood embankments.

PASTURES AND STOCK PROTECTION ACT.—The provisions of the Pastures and Stock Protection Act and the Pastures and Stock Protection Act Amendment Act of 1881 are applied to the destruction of the mutton bird in the Murrurundi sheep district for a period of five years; and to the destruction of the fox in the Narandera sheep district for a period of five years.

Allman to be first lieutenant in the Lismore troop N. S. W. Regiment of Cavalry. H. Allen, to be second lieutenant in the Inverell Company, N. S. W. Regiment of Mounted Infantry.

A NATURAL TONIC.—HEALTHY BILE.—When the liver is not making healthy bile, or insufficient quantity, the blood becomes impure—the groundwork of disease—and produces constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, headache, &c. Eno's "Fruit Salt" is the best remedy. A gentleman writes:—"I have used Eno's 'Fruit Salt' for six years, and I willingly endorse the statement that it is imperatively necessary to the enjoyment of perfect health. By its use many kinds of food will agree which otherwise would produce wretchedness." Caution.—Legal rights are protected in every civilised country. Examine each bottle, and see that the capsule is marked Eno's "Fruit Salt;" without it you have been imposed on by worthless imitations. Sold by all chemists. Prepared only at Eno's "Fruit Salt" Works, Pomeroy-street, New Cross-road, London, Eng., by J. C. Eno's patent.—[Advt.]

THE BROKEN HILL JUNCTION NORTH SILVER-MINING COMPANY, Limited.

NOTICE is hereby given that a Special General MEETING of the Broken Hill Junction North Silver-mining Company, Limited, will be held at the registered offices of the Company, 684 Pitt-street, Sydney, on THURSDAY, the sixteenth day of July, 1891, at 4 o'clock afternoon, for the purpose of considering, and, if thought fit, passing the following special resolutions, that is to say,—

Whereas eighteen fraudulent certificates of shares in the Company, purporting to be numbered from 2301 to 2318 inclusive, and to be paid up to 16s 8d per share, have been issued in purported favour of W. O. Davis, and by means of such certificates and of transfers purporting to bear the signature of W. O. Davis or W. O. Davies, the said purported shares have come into the hands of bona-fide purchasers for value, and in some cases such purchasers have received new certificates and have sold or dealt with such purported shares on the faith of such new certificates,

It is hereby resolved,—

(1) That the claims upon or against the Company made and which may be made by bona fide holders or purchasers of the said purported shares shall (subject to the approval of the board of directors of the Company) be admitted as valid and legal claims against the Company.

2. That such of said claims as may be admitted as valid and legal as aforesaid shall be met and satisfied by the allotment and issue to such claimants as aforesaid of such number of shares of £1 each, not exceeding 8000 in all, as shall be equivalent to the number of purported shares in the hands of bona-fide holders as aforesaid, and that such share to be so allotted and issued as aforesaid shall be issued and credited as paid up to the sum of 16s 8d per share.

3. That the nominal capital of the Company be increased to £200,000 by the creation and issue of 20,000 new shares of £1 each.

4. That 8000 of said new shares be not offered to existing members of the Company, but be issued as paid up to 16s 8d per share to the claimants aforesaid in purchase and satisfaction of said claims and as in lieu of cash payments by the Company to said claimants, amounting to £7312 10s.

5. That the remaining 11,000 of said new shares be not offered to existing members of the Company, but be retained by the Company until the same shall be issued as may be directed from time to time by the shareholders in general meeting.

By order of the Board.

ILLAWARRA DISTRICT.
FOR ABSOLUTE SALE, THE FREEHOLD LANDS AND COAL MINES of the COAL CLIFF LAND and COAL-MINING COMPANY, Limited.
BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEE.
The Freehold Land comprises an area of about 5400 acres, and extends from the borders of the NATIONAL PARK on the North to beyond CLIFTON in the South; and as the land north of the property, as well as that lying to the south of it, has been proved to be coal-bearing, it must be admitted that the whole of the intervening 5000 acres mentioned also contain the well-known coal-bearing measures of the Illawarra District. On the most southern and eastern block of the company's land, containing an area of 130 acres, is situated the COAL MINE, from which during many years thousands of tons have been shipped to the Sydney market, while in other parts of the adjacent land is the village occupied by the miners' cottages.
A portion of this Estate is traversed by the Illawarra Railway, and on it is situated the Township and Railway Station of Clifton.

By order of the Mortgagees.
ORANGE and SUMMER FRUIT ORCHARDS, Baulkham Hills.
VILLA RESIDENCE, Stanmore.
COTTAGE RESIDENCE, Harris Park.
JOHN TAYLOR and CO. have been instructed to sell by public auction, at their Real Property Sale Rooms, Church-street, Parramatta, on WEDNESDAY, July 8, at 11.30 o'clock, on account of the Mortgagees,
LOT 1—Orchard Property at Baulkham Hills, about 2¾ miles from Parramatta, comprising 9 acres fully planted with full-bearing orange, lemon, and mandarin and summer fruit trees, weatherboard cottage, 5 rooms and all necessary outbuildings.
LOT 2—10 Acres of late Model Farms, situate only a short distance from above lot 1, 6 acres planted with pure seedling orange trees, also a nursery with about 2000 young trees, also 2500 strawberry plants, permanent water supply.
The above properties are occupied by Mr. H. L. Archer.
LOT 3—Villa Residence, brick built, known as Farley Villa, in Perry-street, Stanmore, near the corner of Emily-street, and close to tramway line, and contains 6 rooms, pantry, washhouse, and outbuildings, land 40ft. frontage to Perry-street by a depth of 150ft.
LOT 4—Brick-built Cottage, verandahs front and back, contains 4 rooms and hall, detached kitchen, shed, and two-room weatherboard building, situate Harris Park, Parramatta, on the western side of Wigram-street, adjoining Mr. Goddard's property (Mobbs' store), ground frontage to Wigram-street 33ft. by a depth of 144ft. to a lane of 10ft. wide.

, The above properties are for positive sale, and further particulars may be obtained from the Auctioneers' Real Property Sale Rooms, Church-street, Parramatta.

FOR ABSOLUTE SALE. BY PUBLIC AUCTION.
PILLICA WARRINA STATION, situated in the Central Division, about 70 miles from Warren.
HILL, CLARK, and CO., of Sydney (in conjunction with CROSSING and COX, of Mudgee), have received instructions from Henry Smith, Esq., to sell by public auction, at THE EXCHANGE, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 8th JULY, 1891, at 2.30 p.m., the abovenamed valuable property.
Pillica Warrina is situated about 70 miles from Warren, and 82 from Nevertire Railway Station.
The area is 26,000 acres of Leasehold and 26,000 acres Resumed Area, together with 2000 head Cattle (more or less) 26 head Horses (more or less).
The country consists of splendid open saltbush plains and myall forests; the frontage to the Macquarie consists of extensive marshes and reed beds, a never-failing standby during droughts. There is 12 miles frontage to the Macquarie River, and 4 miles to the Marthaguy Creek, the country extending from river to creek. All the back is rich blue grass and saltbush country.
For fattening purposes this run is, without doubt, one of the finest (in all seasons) in the colony, and, being within a few miles of a railway station, should be invaluable as a fattening depot to Queensland station owners.
The Herd, bearing the well-known ◇ over HS brand, is second to none in the district, and its excellence has been proved by the ready sale of all fat cattle as they come forward. The females are a very superior lot, and fit to breed herd bulls. The late Robert Lowe's Wilbertree bulls have been used for the last 30 years.
The improvements are extensive and good, consisting of superior dwelling-house, 6 rooms, kitchen, men's huts, &c., good stockyard to work 2000 cattle, 45 miles of steel wire fencing (nearly new), 4 and 6 wires, of best erection. Three (3) good dams, three (3) wells capable of watering 1000 cattle each in any season. The working plant is in splendid order and very complete. There is also a good out-station yard and two 640-acre paddocks. The run is subdivided into two large and four small paddocks.
N.B.—The Auctioneers wish to call special attention to this property, which is for ABSOLUTE SALE, and have every confidence in inviting inspection.
Terms, Cash.
For further particulars apply to HILL, CLARK, and CO., Sydney, or CROSSING and COX, Mudgee.

Sydney, June 9th, 1891.

BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEES.
THE MONK WEARMOUTH COLLIERY, comprising
4046¾ ACRES M. C. Ps., with certificates of conformity issued. This PROPERTY is situate about 15 MILES from NEWCASTLE, and is connected with the Great Northern Railway by a private line constructed jointly with the West Wallsend Colliery, in terms of the West Wallsend and Monk Wearmouth Companies Act, Vic. No. 50, of 1886.
THE COLLIERY has been opened up in the most modern system and under the best supervision obtainable. It is now capable of putting out about 2400 TONS PER WEEK.
THE PLANT IS OF THE MOST COMPLETE DESCRIPTION, and is acknowledged by practical men to be one of the best in existence.
THE ENGINES ARE CAPABLE OF RAISING from 800 to 1000 TONS PER DAY FROM THE PIT.
THE ROLLING STOCK is also quite new and of the most substantial character.
REMARKS.
THE AUCTIONEERS, in drawing attention to this most important Sale, do not attempt to enumerate in an advertisement of this kind all the advantages of the MONK WEARMOUTH COLLIERY, as they consider it too well known to require more than an ordinary announcement. They can, however, state, without fear of contradiction, that the Colliery has no superior in the colony, for the following reasons:—
1. IT CAN BE MADE FREEHOLD at any time.
2. The COAL UNDERLYING THIS VAST ESTATE is of the VERY BEST QUALITY.
3. Its SYSTEM OF WORKING IS SO ECONOMICAL THAT THE PRODUCT CAN NOW BE PUT ON BOARD IN NEWCASTLE AT A FIGURE THAT CAN COMPETE WITH ANY EXISTING COLLIERY.
HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, 133 Pitt-street, at 11.30 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, JULY 15, THE MONK WEARMOUTH COLLIERY, as above described.

LEASE NO. 2 comprises the remainder of the land, which has a frontage of about 44ft. to Pitt-street. This lease has a currency of 12 years from the 14th November, 1883, at a rental of £25 per week.
ALL COVENANTS IN THE LEASE HAVE BEEN FULFILLED.
These premises are most centrally situated, being in the best part of PITT-STREET, close to KING-STREET, and the opening of the two Arcades, which will take place shortly, one from George-street to Pitt-street, almost opposite these premises, and the other from Castlereagh-street to Pitt-street, almost adjoining, will largely increase the stream of business to be done.
The premises comprise the following rooms:—
Large bar, with smoking-room adjoining, 15 x 40; large confectioner's shop, 35 x 12, with very large show window.
Two dining-halls, 80 x 16 and 65 x 15, capable of seating over 250 people.
Upstairs dining-room, smoking-room, offices, &c.
Also kitchen, storerooms, pantry, &c.
At a very little cost these premises could be modernised and made more attractive, and should be made to do more than double their present trade.
The upstairs dining-rooms could be converted into a large billiard-room, for which there is a good opening.
In the charge of an able and energetic proprietor, who had sole control, these premises could be made to return a fortune in a few years.

WHY have the Clearance Sales of NORTH ANNANDALE proved so successful in the face of the wet weather? Because the auctioneers have been fortunate enough to have instructions to sell to the highest bidder the best Building Estate within miles of Sydney. Everybody who has already purchased is pleased, and so will you be if you attend and buy at THIS DAY'S CONTINUATION SALE. The best still to be sold. Remember, every lot submitted knocked down to the highest bidder.

On the Stock Exchange of New South Wales the following sales were reported to-day:—Royal Bank of Queensland, 5¼; Australian Mutual Fire, 13s; Australian Gaslight, 13¼; Industrial Provident Building, ex dividend, 20½; Sydney and Suburban Building, 23s 6d. The following were the closing quotations, except those corresponding with the figures of the Sydney Stock Exchange, published above:—Australian Banking, buyer 85s; Commercial Bank of Australia, buyer 11¾; Commercial of Sydney, seller 123; Mercantile Bank, seller 40s; Union Bank, buyer 64½; North Shore Ferry, buyer 39s, seller 40s 6d; Australian Mutual Fire, buyer 12s 9d, seller 14s; United Insurance, buyer 67s 6d; Emu Gravel, buyer 17s; Picturesque Atlas, seller 15s 6d; Saywell's Tobacco, buyer 8s 9d; Shale and Oil, buyer 6s 3d; Sydney Cyclorama, buyer 9s; Permanent Trustee, buyer 4s; Perpetual Trustee, buyer 18s; Anglo-Australian Investment, 20s paid, buyer 12s; Excelsior Land, seller 41s; Equitable Building, buyer 73½; Land Company of Australasia, seller 22s; Metropolitan Land, seller 82s 6d; National Building, seller 5s.

The Assets Realization and General Finance Company announce that the usual interim dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum for the half-year ended June 30 will be payable on the 14th instant.

The board of the Hand-in-Hand Mutual Permanent Investment and Building Society have declared a bonus of 3 per cent. upon the paid-up and contributing shares of the society for the half-year ended June 20, in addition to 7 per cent. interest already paid.

The reduction of the Bank of England rate to 2½ per cent., after having stood at 3 per cent. since the 18th of last month, will probably be soon found to tell on the reserves. The amount this week is only £18,246,000, a reduction of £844,000 on the week, the proportion of reserves to liabilities having fallen from 45·72 per cent. to 43·20 per cent. It will be seen that the other most marked features of the bank return are the increase in the circulation of £1,000,000, and in the amount of the securities, which have gone up from £30,588,000 to £31,812,000.

Under the influence of the cheaper rates for money consols have advanced 15s, and are quoted at 95⅝. Colonial securities generally have advanced, the 3½ per cent. issues of New South Wales by 20s, these now being quoted at 101½, which is £4 net above those of any of the other colonies, a position which is doubtless due to the abstention of the colony from the money market this year. Queensland securities are recovering, the 3½ per cent. issue now standing at 93. New Zealand 3½ per cent. have risen to 94; South Australian 3½ have advanced to 96½; Tasmanian 3½ are 95½; Victorian, 96½.

The London copper market is down 15s on the week, Chili being quoted at 55½. There is a further decline of 300 tons in the stocks in England and France, the present stock being 54,600 tons, against 54,900 tons a month back. Australian tin is 20s lower on the week, £92 being the present quotation.

We understand that at a meeting of members of the Wholesale Produce Merchants' Association yesterday a considerable majority of the members decided in favour of selling produce to Chinese. In a discussion which followed the ballot, members who spoke were very unanimous in the expression of their determination to resist any attempt on the part of retailers to "boycott" the Chinese; it being generally agreed, moreover, that it would be impossible to prevent the Chinese from obtaining produce. From what transpired at the meeting, it appeared that a united effort will probably be made by the association against any attempt to "boycott" the Chinese.

In the Import markets to-day business was quiet, the month so far having opened rather lifelessly. But after the month's settlement, which is proving less satisfactory than could be desired, and when the roads dry up, a good business may be fairly looked for, since the prospects of the season are generally of a favourable character. The offers of large numbers of shearers to work on the terms of the Pastoralists' Association seems to point to the getting through of the shearing without disturbance. The trade in breadstuffs is of little more than a consumptive character, and bakers' lines are moving as follow:—Roller brands, £11 10s to £12; stone-makes, £10 5s to £10 15s. In the absence of supplies, there is nothing doing in wheat. Our London cable message quotes a fall of 6d per quarter in the price of Adelaide wheat; cargoes for forward delivery having fallen relatively more than spot wheat, pointing to an easier position. The tea market is quiet, the transactions coming under notice to-day being of little more than a retail character. Bonded stocks appear as follows, in comparison with the figures of last year:—

—	Chests.	Half-chests.	Boxes.	Packages.
July 4, 1890	67	41,519	12,458	2,297
July 3, 1891	1,205	27,941	3,551	2,276

Coffee remains steady at late rates, 13½d being quoted for No. 1 Ceylon plantation. Barry's chicory 2½d. Epps's cocoa, 1s 6d; good sales of Fry's malted at 3s 3d, and concentrated at 3s; Van Houten's, 3s 10½d to 4s.

In dried fruits currants are moving off at 4½d to 4¾d according to sample, the market being firm. The receipt is advised of an English cablegram to the effect that the market is firmer. Elemes on the spot are also firm, 6½d being paid for prime fruit. Sultanas, however, are somewhat easier, 8d to 8½d quoted for Smyrna, and 7½d for best Persian fruit, though some lower quality is offering at a cheaper price. Dates, from 1½d to 2½d. About eight tons were issued from bond last week, and as none was received the bonded stocks has declined to 1,486,550lb., which compares with 1,583,457lb. in bond a year back. There is a moderate trade in sugar. Supplies outside the Company's stocks are light. White is selling at from £23 10s to £24 10s, yellows from £19 to £21, and browns from £15. During the week 231 tons were received into bond, and 528 tons were issued, of which eight tons were exported, leaving 8338 tons in bond against 5652 tons a year back. No sugar was received from our own plantations during the week. Our London cable message shows the market there to be without change, 13s 3d being the price of German beet. Dairymaid condensed milk sold at 6s 4½d, and sales of Nestle's are reported at 6s 6d, with bare stocks. Rice is now selling at £16 to £16 10s, the lower grades from £12 10s to £13. Sago and tapioca, 2½d. White pepper, 8d; black, 5½d. 50 cases Symington's essences sold at 15s 6d. There is very little doing in fish. Sardines, Trefaveune's, in quarters, moved off at 3s 7½d. Salmon is rather firmer; but the market for most lines of fish—notably of fresh herrings—is in favour of buyers. Coarse salt, black hams, 80s to 85s according to quantity; rock, white, 65s. Bonded stock of salt, like most other goods, is light, amounting to 1033 tons of rock and 3408 tons of bag salt, as compared with 1907 tons and 5093 tons a year back. The cheap freights, however, tend to check any advance; how low these are may be judged from the fact that a ship has been chartered at Sharpness at 12s per ton, the lowest figure we have yet heard of. Candles are quoted at from 6½d; our cable message quotes a fall of a farthing in England, 5d now being the quotation. The trade in brewers' goods is very limited, and the market weak. English hops from 2s; colonial, from 1s 2½d for good samples. English malt from 6s 6d to 7s, and New Zealand from 5s, in bags. In liquids most of the transactions coming under notice were of small dimensions. Hennessy's three star brandy in good trade parcels moved off at 46s 9d, and single star at 37s, recent arrivals having been no more than sufficient to meet requirements. Lowndes' rum, 4s 3d, in hogsheads and quarters, though 2d less was accepted for forward delivery. Geneva, 11s 6d; good sales of 16 to 20 bottle now being completed. Geneva to arrive has been moved at a concession on spot price. Sales of Usher's whisky noticed at current rates. The metal market remains dull. Galvanised iron, which we learn by private cable message is firm in London, is still quoted from £20 to £21 10s. Our London cable message quotes pig iron at last week's price. Sheet lead, £16 15s. I. C. coke tin plates from 20s. Muntz metal remains steady at 7½d. Castor oil is rather lower, 3s 1d being paid, and rather less accepted for forward delivery. China oil is moving at 3s 8½d; American turpentine at 2s 9d. Linseed oil in drum, raw and boiled half and half, is worth 3s 4d to 3s 6d; Blundell and Spence's double boiled being sold at 3s 7d. White lead, £29 to £30. Kerosene, high test, selling from 1s 4½d, and low test from 1s 3½d. Bonded stock now amount to 35,258 cases, against 38,682 cases a week ago, and 22,595 cases a year back. Woolpacks, from 1s 7d to 1s 7½d. Cable news from Calcutta advises a further advance in cornsacks, doubtless due to the rise in exchange; 5s 4d is quoted locally. Bran bags, 4s 2d. A shipment of English soda crystals sold at £6 12s 6d. Cream of tartar, in jars, noticed at 13d; tartaric acid, 1s 4½d. Carbonate of soda, £10 5s. Rosin is still scarce, and G grade is quoted at £8. Building materials generally dull of sale, though contractors' lots of cement, for certain works, are being sold at about 14s 3d.

A meeting of creditors of Joseph Parry, flour merchant, was held to-day. A balance sheet submitted showed assets amounting to £6415, liabilities £9211, leaving a deficiency of £2795. Representatives of the firms of John Barlow and Co., Guyatt and Co., and Parsons Brothers, were appointed a committee of investigation, and the meeting was adjourned for a week.

The Union Mortgage and Agency Company of Australia, Limited, report the receipt of a cablegram from their London office regarding the present series of wool sales, reading as follows:—"Wool market shows increasing strength and a sensibly firmer tendency, although prices remain unaltered."

Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, report having received the following cablegram, dated London, 2nd July, 1891:—"Wool: There is a good demand for all descriptions at full rates."

The following was the Customs revenue received to-day:—

Spirits, £3548 0s 3d; wine, still, £74 15s; wine, sparkling, £2; ale, porter, and beer, in bottles, £809 7s 5d; tobacco and snuff, £789; tobacco, unmanufactured, for manufacturing purposes only, £122 6s; cigars, £326 9s 1d; cigarettes, £122 16s 3d; tea, £300 11s 9d; coffee, £35 8s 9d; coffee, raw, £2 2s; sugar, refined, £4 11s 6d; sugar unrefined, £215; sugar, molasses, £140 9s 6d; opium, £35 10s; rice, £29 3s 11d; dried fruits, £73 0s 8d; sarsaparilla under 25 per cent., £1 4s 3d. Specific duty: Bacon and hams, £28 2s 6d; bitters over 25 per cent. of proof spirit, £14 11s; butter, £20 12s 8d; candles, £175; cement, £50; cheese, 16s 8d; cocoa and chocolate, £37 6s 8d; doors, £16; essences over 25 per cent. of proof spirit, £3 6s 1d; fish, £74 18s 3d; glucose, liquid, £28 9s 1d; iron and steel wire, £3 12s; jams and jellies, £48 13s 9d; oil, kerosene, £157 12s; oils, in bottle, 7s 6d; oils, other, £75 10s 6d; powder, sporting, £13 6s; shot, 3s 2d; spirits, methylated, £79 6s; timber, dressed, £90; timber, undressed, £150 16s 6d; varnish, 6s 9d. Bonded Warehouses, 42 Vic., No. 19, £112 5s; Harbour and light rates, £13 18s 4d; pilotage, Sydney, £94 8s; harbour dues, £15; colonial distilled spirits, £139 10s 9d; excise on tobacco, £500; excise on beer, £574 12s 9d; tobacco factory license fees, £42 10s; licenses for selling tobacco and cigars, £2. Total, £8932 19s 11d.

COMMERCIAL TELEGRAMS.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

There was a dull market this morning, and low prices ruled. In the afternoon there was no meeting of the Exchange, and the market was somewhat irregular, but closed with a better tone and some recovery in prices. The principal sales were—Mercantile Bank, 58s; Royal Bank, 43s 3d; Castlemaine Brewery, 58s; Carlton, 21s 9d; Equity Trustees, 42s; Union, 29s; Broken Hill Water Supply, 14s 3d, 14s 4½d; Melbourne Tram and Omnibus Company, 72s 6d, 72s; Silverton Trams, £9 10s, £9 9s 6d; Tarrawingee Flux, £7 16s; Standard White Lead, 6s 6d; Zeehan Railway, 11s 10½d, 11s 6d, 11s 9d.

There is nothing doing in wheat, which is quoted at 4s 10d, nominal. There are inquiries for maize at 3s 9d to 3s 10d. The import markets are very quiet. Castor oil sold at 3s.

BRISBANE, FRIDAY.

Parcels of this season's sugar are constantly coming to hand, and are keeping the market well supplied. The prices being obtained are not high. Really first-class whites are somewhat scarce, and up to £21 has been obtained. Second whites are selling fairly well, from £16 10s to £18; third-quality whites, £15 10s to £16. A good business is being done in rations for shipment to the southern colonies or direct to England at £7 to £9.

PRODUCE MARKET.—FRIDAY.

This morning fair consignments of firewood and 25 trucks of forage were submitted at the Darling Harbour railway terminus. The auctions were moderately attended by the trade. The principal part of the produce was of fairly good quality, and met with a tolerably active demand. One or two choice lots of oaten and lucerne hay realised high rates. Prices of straw were scarcely so firm as those current during the previous few days. Steady competition prevailed throughout the wood auctions. At the wharfs additional consignments were received from Manning and Hunter rivers and Victoria. Business was almost entirely restricted to lines for meeting actual requirements. The driest lots of maize commanded moderate attention. The bran market was unsettled. Seed potatoes were eagerly inquired for. Onions were in small request. There was an active demand for butter at the recent advanced prices. Stocks of cheese were on a small scale, and the market ruled firm. Eggs continue plentiful. Poultry in fair request. Particulars of the business transacted at the Darling Harbour auction sales were as follows:—

Wood.—This market was fairly supplied. Quotations for billet were, 6s 6d to 12s 3d per ton; bundle, 9s to 16s; foot, 8s 6d to 10s 3d; bakers' 9s to 12s 6d.

Hay.—Fourteen trucks available, chiefly lucerne, and hay from West Maitland sold at 3s 4d per cwt.; Mudgee, 4s 3d; Perth, 4s 9d to 4s; Bathurst, 4s; in truss, from Richmond, 4s 7d; prime oaten, in bundles, 5s 4d per cwt.; good, 4s 3d and 4s 6d; faulty, 2s 9d to 3s 2d; bales, 4s 2d; truss, 2s 9d.

Straw.—Two trucks submitted. Clean and bright wheaten, in bundles, 2s 10d per cwt.; oaten, in bundles, 2s 7d.

Chaff.—Nine trucks received. There was a steady demand. Oaten and wheaten mixed, in bags, realised 3s 10d to 4s 4d per cwt.

At the wharfs the wholesale quotations were:—

Wheat.—The chief supplies received were from the neighbouring colonies. Prices nominally worth 4s 10s to 5s per bushel.

Flour.—This market was unchanged. Stone-makes, £10 5s to £10 15s per ton; roller brands, £11 10s to £12.

Bran.—Prices irregular from 9½d to 10½d per bushel.

Pollard.—Steady, 9½d per bushel.

Hay.—Prime well-saved dry, green Hunter River lucerne hay was scarce, and worth £3 15s to £4 per ton. The market for other kinds was quiet at from £2 to £3 10s.

Chaff.—The balances of previous consignments were replenished last night from Victoria. Good, dry, well-coloured lines, £3 17s 6d to £4 5s per ton; other qualities, £3 to £3 10s.

Onions.—Prices of dry conditioned lines ranged from £4 5s to £4 12s 6d per ton.

Potatoes.—This market ruled fairly firm. New Zealand varieties, £3 10s per ton; Circular Head, £3 10s to £4; seed potatoes, in request, £3 15s.

Butter.—Very limited stocks. A strong demand was experienced. Illawarra dairy makes, 1s 7d per lb.; factory-made, 1s 9d.

Cheese.—1189 were received during the week from Southern ports. Colonial lines saleable, 6d to 7½d per lb. Some holders quoted as high as 8d.

Bacon.—Supplies equal to requirements. Hand-cured Southern, 6½d to 7d per lb.; machine-cured, 5d to 6d; roll, 7d to 8d; hams, 8d to 9d.

Lard.—Best bladder lard sells steadily, 4½d to 5d per lb.; bulk, from 3d.

Eggs.—Stocks were on a liberal scale. Quotations for colonial lines were 1s to 1s 3d per dozen.

Poultry.—The demand has somewhat improved. Fowls, 2s 6d to 3s 9d per pair; extra good, 4s; ducks, 2s 9d to 3s 3d; geese, 5s to 6s; turkeys, 5s 6d to 10s.

Meat.—Mr. George Maiden (for Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited) reports having sold by auction, at the Government Meat Market, Darling Harbour, yesterday, on account of the executors late Thomas Walker, Tenterfield, 20 bodies of beef and 50 carcases of mutton, as follow:—Bodies, 1½d to 1⅝d per lb.; hind-quarters, 2d to 2¼d; fore-quarters, 1d to 1¼d; mutton, 1½ to 1¾d and 3d on the sheep. For H. W. Larance, Esbank: Bodies beef, 1½d; hind-quarters, 1¾d to 2d; crops, 1d to 1¼d; pigs, 3½d to 4½d per lb. The Riverstone Meat Company report sales of 75 bodies beef at 1¼d per lb.; fore-quarters realised 1¼d, hind-quarters 2⅛d to 2¼d. 500 bodies mutton, 1½d to 1⅝d.

Fruit.—Yesterday the supplies of seasonable varieties at the local market consisted largely of oranges and bananas. Of the latter fruit, about 24,825 bunches were received during the past few days from the South Sea Islands. There were also moderate consignments of apples on hand. Quotations as follow:—Colonial apples, including eating and baking, 3s to 7s per case; Tasmanian apples, 4s to 8s; Queensland pineapples, 3s to 6s; bananas, 1s 6d to 3s 6d per bunch; oranges, 2s to 3s 6d; mandarins, 5s to 7s; lemons, 3s to 5s; pears, 7s to 12s; passion-fruit, 15s to 16s; cocoanuts, 6s to 8s per bag.

STATION, STOCK, AND PRODUCE REPORTS.

Tallow.—Messrs. J. H. Geddes and Co. (the Pastoralists' Association, Limited), J. Bridge and Co., J. C. Young and Co., Goldsbrough, Mort and Co., Limited, Winchcombe, Carson and Co., Hill, Clark and Co., Brunker and Wolfe, F. L. Barker and Co., and Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, report holding sales yesterday. Further unfavourable news from London has produced a decline in this market, and prices were fully 15s per ton lower than at previous auctions. Quotations: Best mixed (mutton and beef), from £20 10s to £21 5s per ton; medium, £20 to £20 5s; best beef, £20 5s to £20 7s 6d; medium, £19 10s to £20; station and broken packages, cases, &c. (trade only), £17 to £19 15s.

Hides.—Yesterday's markets exhibited an improved demand, with ready sale for all descriptions. Quotations: Prime extra heavy weights, 3½d to 3½d per lb.; good heavy, 2¾d to 3d; ordinary and sloppy heavy, 2½d to 2¾d; medium, 2¾d to 2⅞d; best light weights, 2¾d to 2¾d; ordinary, 2½d to 2¾d; dry hides, 2d to 2½d; calfskins, 1s to 2s 9d; yearlings, 2s 6d to 6s 9d; horsehides, 6s to 8s each.

Hair.—Prices were easier. Horse hair, 13½d to 14½lb per lb; washed cow, 10d to 12½; dirty, to 9d; stumps, 5½d to 6d.

Horns and Bones.—The current rate for the largest sized horns were 22s 6d to 26s per 100; medium, 9s to 17s; tips and small, 1s 6d to 5s; shank bones, £4 to £4 10s per ton; exceptional lines higher; common bones, £3 to £3 5s; hoofs, £2.

Wattle Bark.—Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, F. L. Barker and Co., Winchcombe, Carson, and Co., and Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, report having held sales yesterday. There was no change noticeable in this market. Stocks were light, and values remain about the same as last reported. Quotations—Best chopped, from £8 10s to £8 15s per ton; good, £6 17s 6d to £7 17s 6d; inferior, £1 10s to £4.

Store Stock.—There have been more inquiries, but prices are unaltered. Good three to five year old bullocks delivered from Queensland border to Moree, 60s to 62s 6d; Muswellbrook or Dubbo, 65s to 67s 6d. Store sheep.—A fair demand prevailed for wethers in wool; 6 and 8 tooth, 7s to 7s 6d; off shears, 5s 6d.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

Easy rates ruled in the mining market yesterday, but business was moderately brisk. Centrals had a good inquiry and changed hands at £5 14s to £5 12s to £5 14s. Souths dropped to £5 7s 6d. Central Block brought 8s 6d and 8s 3d. Bonanza Consols quitted at 5s 5d to 5s 9d, and Trusts at 5s 9d and 6s. Sunny Corners brought 32s 6d. In gold, Baker's Creek receded to 20s. Sunlights eased from 22s 6d to 21s, and Butcher's Reef, contributing, from 3s 6d to 3s.

PERTH, FRIDAY.

BROKEN HILL, FRIDAY.

Development in the lower levels of the Block 10 mine is proceeding satisfactorily. No. 1 winze south of Kelly's shaft, 465 level, has been sunk 50ft., and as soon as 3ft. more is sunk for the pump well, driving south at 515ft. level will be commenced. The winze is now in sulphide ore, having passed through a kaolin shoot, but the manager expect to cut this again shortly after he begins driving south. The sulphide at the bottom of the winze is not quite so rich as that alongside the kaolin, but still of good grade. The inflow of water is heavy, but the pump is now working well, and easily masters it. No 2 winze on the through level, 300ft. south of Kelly's shaft, is now down 19ft., the last 2ft. in sulphide ore. This winze will also be sunk to 515ft. level, and then connected with No. 1 winze. From the brace of this winze a drive is now being run back towards the shaft. The east side is in gossan ore, assaying 250oz. silver, and the west side in sulphide ore, assaying 300oz. silver, per ton. Sinking of Kelly's shaft will be resumed on Monday. It is now down the 28ft. below the 465ft. level, and will not take long to reach the 515ft. level. The stopes in the mine are looking very well. During the week one parcel of kaolin was raised, assaying 700oz. to the ton. The Proprietary Mine has completed the laying of pipes from the Acacia Basin, and water is now being pumped in the 500ft. level. The crosscut at Block 14 continues to be driven west, and is now in a band of softer country. Considerable attention is now being turned to the mines in the Apollyon Valley, near Silverton, in the Day Dream district. Many of these have been fossicked in past years, but never properly worked. A syndicate is now formed to work the Bendigo Claim of 40 acres, through which several veins of rich chloride ore run. Very little was done on this property in the way of development and the prospects are good.

COUNTRY NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

ARMIDALE, FRIDAY.

The land board has just completed the longest sitting ever held in Armidale. Between 500 and 600 cases were dealt with, and the board had a tedious time of it. Settlement is taking place very rapidly and extensively in New England, and the class of applicants are generally of a bona-fide and desirable kind. Only three cases out of the large number dealt with were refused on the ground of doubtful bona fides. The full board sat throughout.

The weather has now cleared up, after three weeks' rain. The farmers are hard at work.

The political excitement has subsided.

KIAMA, FRIDAY.

There was an extraordinary fall of rain during last month, more than 25in. having been recorded in 20 days.

NEWCASTLE, FRIDAY.

The revenue derived from Crown lands, mostly commonage land sales in the Newcastle district, for the half-year ending June last amounts to £14,371 14s 10d, showing an enormous increase of nearly £13,000 as compared with the corresponding period of last year. The Police Court revenue for the last half-year amounts to £870. The District Court revenue fees for the last six months exceed £200.

The new court at the top of Bolton-street will be ready for the December Quarter Sessions.

WINDSOR, FRIDAY.

The public meeting called for the purpose of deciding what steps should be taken to secure the Clarendon side of Ham Common for refuge for farmers' stock in time of flood lapsed owing to the paucity of the attendance. The matter was referred to in the Richmond Council, and a public meeting is to be called, as it is deemed necessary that the portion of the common referred to should be dedicated for the purpose mentioned. It is now being cleared by contract. The question of tree-planting came up, and tenders were accepted for planting one street. Aldermen Crisford and Mitchell opposed it on the ground that the council was in debt, and that good roads and lighted streets were more required.

At the Windsor Council a letter was received from Mr. Goschen, Lord Jersey's private secretary, enquiring as to how the Mayor came by the information that the Governor intended to visit the town last Saturday. From what he had seen in the papers, he feared the residents had been put to some inconvenience. The Governor expressed sympathy with the residents who had suffered loss by the flood. The Mayor laid several telegrams and memos. on the table, the tenor of which was to show that his Excellency either had some intention of visiting the district or else that a blunder occurred at the Sydney railway station in sending through word to that effect. It was resolved that the matter be left in the hands of the Mayor.

Mr. A. Bowman, M.L.A., writes to the local papers denying the statement that he does not again intend to contest the Hawkesbury.

The election of an alderman to-day to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alderman Smith resulted in the return of Daniel Holland. The votes polled were:—Holland, 41; Robert Huggins, 39.

In connection with St. Peter's Church Jubilee a tea and public meeting was held, and was largely attended. The Revs. Darcy Irvine, E. Hargrave, P. Fitzgerald, J. Kinghorn, and H. Woodhouse spoke at the public meeting. During the course of a brief address, the Rev. G. Darcy Irvine referred to the changes which were continually occurring, and particularly to the changes which had occurred during the past few weeks in the colony. He said that some people had misgivings as to the result which would occur, but he felt sure all would come right in the end. He was glad to see that amongst the new members elected to the Legislative Assembly there was a large number who had religion in their souls. A vote of thanks was passed to the visiting clergymen. Mr. Joseph Onus has given £50 towards procuring a stained glass window for St. Peter's Church, Richmond.

An old identity named Thomas Brown, aged 81, died at Richmond this week, after 54 years' residence there.

Two men named Vides and Potts narrowly escaped drowning on the Blacktown road this week. They were proceeding at night to Richmond in a cart when, after crossing the bridge, the horse got into deep water. The animal was drowned, but the occupants of the cart reached a tree, to which they clung till daylight.

At the Windsor Police Court to-day, Joseph A. Campion, late assistant at the Riverstone Post-office, was charged with stealing a letter containing a £1 note and 1s, the property of the Postmaster-General, and addressed to Dr. Richards. Detective Abbott conducted the case, and after the evidence had been given he asked for a remand to produce further evidence. Mr. Gannon objected and claimed a dismissal, as although evidence was given to the effect that the letter could not be found in the post-bag leaving Riverstone after the time it was posted, it had not been shown that the letter had not come by the next mail. The Bench dismissed the charge.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY.

At the Liverpool police court, on Thursday, before Messrs. Giles, P.M., and J. C. Mayne, J.P., Thomas W. Taylor, against whom judgment had been given to pay his housekeeper, Julia Mahony, wages amounting to £11 16s 4d, was called upon to show cause why he should not be committed to gaol for having neglected to comply with the order of the Court. Defendant strongly refused to pay the amount, stating that the verdict given was a miscarriage of justice. He offered to pay plaintiff what he considered was owing, and give the balance up to the amount of the verdict to any charitable institution. A number of friends of defendant begged him to pay, or to allow them to do so; but he obstinately refused. On his application he was allowed 24 hours in the Liverpool lockup, in order to arrange business matters before going to Parramatta gaol.

HAY, FRIDAY.

Four hundred and forty-two entries have been received for the pastoral show to be held next Thursday. The show is to be held in the new yards, containing 15 acres just completed.

The river is rising fast, and is expected to reach 26ft. by Monday or Tuesday.

MUDGEE, FRIDAY.

At the Havilah ram sale yesterday the only sales were by private contract, one pen of 15 realising 17 guineas each, and a number of other pens 5 guineas each. The wet weather seriously interfered with the attendance of buyers.

Mr. Nelson Lawson died here on Thursday, and was buried to-day. He was at one time owner of Oakfield estate and grandson of the pioneer, William Lawson, who established the station by Lawson's Creek, Mudgee.

TAMWORTH, FRIDAY.

The revenue received at the local lands office for the past quarter was £6873, of which auction sales amounted to £416; deposits on conditional purchases, £179; interest and instalments, £4555; survey fees, £241; rents of leases on conditional purchases, £274; survey fees, £287; annual leases, £121.

Mr. W. Ardill, clerk in charge of the local land board office, has been ordered to proceed to Orange and will be superseded by Mr. T. W. Ward, from Bourke.

Mr. R. H. Grieve, headmaster of the Superior Public school, has been promoted to Emmore. Mr. Thorne, from Grafton, is to succeed him.

BALLINA, FRIDAY.

The pilot has found a new South channel, with 8ft. of water, to-day. It will obviate the crossing, which is very bad. The Union, Protector, and Wyrallah, were aground on it to-day. The tug of the first named got over, but the Wyrallah and the Maclay were unable to do so.

LITHGOW, FRIDAY.

Tenders are at last invited for the erection of a post and telegraph office at Hartley Vale. This matter has for years past formed the subject of local agitation, and Ministers and members have been frequently interviewed regarding it.

The total rainfall here for the six months ending 30th ultimo only slightly exceeded 24in. The weather is now very cold, especially on the ranges and at Sunny Corner. A slight fall of snow was experienced on Wednesday, but a thaw quickly set in. The damage done to the roads recently is very slight.

Four nominations were received for the office of miners' secretary, vacant by the return of Mr. Cook to Parliament. A ballot will be taken forthwith.

Dulness still reigns in the western coal trade generally, and the men are not averaging half-time in some pits. At Hartley Vale there is a fair demand for shale, and work is pretty brisk.

The recently-formed Miners' Union at Hartley is progressing steadily, and has now a fair bank balance. The Labour Electoral League in the same township has 36 members.

LISMORE, FRIDAY.

The steamer Pasha was raised just above water this afternoon, but before the openings of the upper streaks could be got the closed wire rope forming the stay of the shear legs gave way, and the gear all went into the river. The vessel is partly sunk again.

There was a sharp frost again to-day.

TOCUMWAL, FRIDAY.

Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., in conjunction with Lowes, M'Farland, and Co., offered through their auctioneer, Mr. G. Maiden, the whole of the Vermont Australian Stud Flock, at Tuppal Station yesterday, comprising nearly 80,000 sheep. There was a very large and representative attendance of the pastoral fraternity, but there appeared to be an almost entire absence of demand for the Vermont breed of sheep, and with the exception of a few lots, the whole flock was passed in.

The Murray is rising rapidly here, and a heavy flood is anticipated.

It is no use trying to get away from facts, and it is a well-established fact that Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer positively restores grey or faded hair to its early colour and beauty.—[ADVT.]

POWELL'S BALSAM of ANISEED.
POWELL'S BALSAM of ANISEED.
POWELL'S BALSAM of ANISEED.

In palace and cottage alike, Powell's Balsam of Aniseed is the old and unexcelled COUGH REMEDY. Its large sale throughout the whole civilised world proclaims its great worth.

MR. THOS. A. SHERIDAN, of Elphin, Ireland, writes:—"For three days and nights I was a stranger to rest and sleep; racked and almost killed with a hard cough, I tried all kinds of remedies, but to no purpose. At length a friend kindly supplied me with a quarter of a small bottle of your Balsam, and told me to try it, which I accordingly did. The result has been miraculous. The cough has almost ceased, and I have once more found out (thanks to your Balsam) what it is to enjoy sleep and life."

THE OLDEST and MOST EFFECTUAL COUGH REMEDY.
"H.M. Gunboat Netley, Wick, Scotland.
"Dear Sir,—Having had a most distressing and severe cough, which caused me many sleepless nights and restless days, I was recommended by his Lordship the Earl of Caithness to try your most invaluable Balsam of Aniseed, and I can assure you with the first dose I found immediate relief, even without having to suspend my various duties, and the first small bottle completely cured me; therefore, I have the greatest confidence in fully recommending it to the million.
(Signed) "W. LINZELL, H.M. Gunboat Netley."

Lionel Brough, Esq., the eminent actor, writes:—"I think it an invaluable medicine for members of my profession, and have always recommended it to my brother and sister artistes."

IMITATIONS.
Only articles possessing some special and acknowledged excellence are worth imitating; and thus, induced by the unprecedented success of Powell's Balsam of Aniseed, dishonest traders, with reckless audacity, have tried to pass off on the public utterly worthless imitations. In order, therefore, to protect the public against such fraudulent imitations, the well-known Trade Mark—"Lion, Net, and Mouse"—is conspicuously printed on the wrapper of every bottle of Powell's Balsam of Aniseed, and any imitation of the same is forgery and a breach of the law relating to Trade Marks.

The Dean of Westminster's Verger writes:—"I was advised to try the Balsam of Aniseed; I did, and have found very great relief. It is most comforting in allaying irritation and giving strength to the voice."

CROWDED EVERY DAY.

If evidence were wanting of the popularity of our house, it would be found in the crowded state of every Department. Day after day, week after week, and all the year round customers are thronged with customers. There can be no better evidence, none other is needed to convince a doubting mind of our immense popularity.

Nor does this popularity rest on any uncertain foundation. It is not like that of a Parliamentary candidate, who is hissed one day and cheered the next, and whose retention of place and its honours depends upon the fickle mob.

It is not even like the popularity of the WELL-TRIED STATESMAN, for even he is sometimes sent to the rightabout to satisfy some idle prejudice, or by misrepresentation, malice, and intrigue.

WE SERVE NO POLITICS.

We are free from the whirling eddy of political strife, and look on at the various parties with an impartial eye. Their views concern us not, their opinions are their own, and we seek not either to convert them from the errors of their ways or to fix them in the soundness of their principles. Two men politically opposite, who have not a thought in common about how to rule the country or how to make taxation, meet on common ground when they enter our doors.

THEY WANT AS MUCH AS THEY CAN GET FOR THEIR MONEY, AND THEY FIND THEY CAN GET MORE FROM US THAN FROM ANYONE ELSE, SO THEY COME.

And these two now are typical of the whole community; multiply the two by as many as will make enough, and all these good men and true who pitch into each other on platform and in hall, in the open air and under cover, who vilify their neighbours' policy because it isn't their own, and who, when politics are on the board, won't allow anybody to hold an opinion or think for themselves; all these people, and along with them their wives and their families, make common cause to proclaim that

Mind you, it isn't so much their words as their deeds that promulgate this great truth; it is the force of solid conviction of the good it does them that urges them to this course, and the knowledge of the solid gain that is sure to follow. No one ever asks whether hold freetrade or protectionist opinions; no one cares one jot whether they are in favour of taking the duty off tea and putting it on nails, but everyone admits that provide the necessaries of life at a lower cost than anyone else, and that they enable those who are so inclined to procure its luxuries at a considerable saving. And this after all is what concerns most people more than whether one party or the other tops the poll. A man votes according to his conscience and buys according to his means, and if in consequence of the mixed state of politics he is sometimes in doubt as to the way his conscience ought to lead him, he never has the least misgiving as to the road he should take when it becomes necessary to go shopping. Naturally enough he

ANTHONY HORDERN and SONS

STEERS FOR THE HAYMARKET.

No other course suggests itself to his mind, the way is mapped out on the tablets of his memory, time cannot efface it, its wisdom has been confirmed by experience and its desirability, by the possession of goods upon pounds that he has saved by so doing. His wife tells him he's right, his children follow suit, and his all friends voice the same opinion.

HOW CAN THEY HELP THEMSELVES? THEY CAN'T DO BETTER. ALL BOUND IT'S THE SAME.

THOUSANDS OF FASHIONABLE DAMES swear to it
MILLIONS OF BUSY HOUSEKEEPERS proclaim it,
THE WHOLE PEOPLE know it.

THEY SAVE MONEY by BUYING EVERYTHING AT THE PALACE EMPORIUM, HAYMARKET.

ACADEMY OF DRESSCUTTING, MAKING, DRAPING, and DESIGNING. The ABILITY to tastefully and perfectly COMPLETE GARMENTS everywhere and always ensures a perpetual income, equal to the profits of a handsome capital invested in any standard legitimate business. Ladies can secure a thorough THEORETICAL and PRACTICAL knowledge of this STAPLE, USEFUL, and MOST PROFITABLE ART by learning MADAME FELS' LADY TAILOR SYSTEM, well known by reputation for its simplicity, style, beauty, ease, grace and comfort. The principal object of this system is to instruct ladies how to make GRACEFUL, COMFORTABLE, and perfect-fitting Garments without the necessity of alterations. The numerous ladies who are instructed in this School make their own and their friends' dresses at the Establishment after a FEW WEEKS' TRAINING. Hence a great number of garments, after the LATEST and most COMPLICATED STYLES, are designed and finished at the School weekly, under the personal supervision of Madame Fels, thus enabling pupils to obtain a thorough PRACTICAL training in a very short time, and thereby gaining CONFIDENCE in themselves to establish a first-class business or to obtain a lucrative position. EVERY LADY should avail herself of this opportunity. In the event of adverse circumstances arising she will have the means of establishing a highly remunerative business, or of obtaining a first-class position. Send for circular, giving full particulars, 84 Newtown-road, City, opposite the University.

CALIGRAPH WRITING MACHINES. The popularity of these Typewriters is evidenced in some measure by the fact that there are 80 of them distributed over every Government Department of this colony. It is a significant fact that the Fisheries, Agriculture, and Forests' Departments, which were the last three to be added to the Public Service, have each adopted the Caligraph exclusively. The attention of the public is drawn to the fact that there are two machines on the market which are entirely devoid of manifolding power. These instruments are fitted with narrow ribbons which furnish an inadequate ink supply, particularly in a dry climate. Neither of them can be relied upon to give even one satisfactory writing. The No. 2 Caligraph will manifold fifteen, and the No. 2 twenty, first-class copies at one operation. Caligraphs are used in every Newspaper Office in Sydney with one exception. The Victorian Hansard Staff are now using Caligraphs for the transcription of their shorthand notes. The Melbourne Argus reporters use Caligraphs for the same purpose.

EDISON'S MIMEOGRAPH is the most successful duplicating machine in the market. It will make 3000 copies from one stencil written on a Caligraph Writing Machine, and 1500 from a hand-written wax sheet. The stylus used for the latter purpose is not wheel-tipped, but is plain pointed, thus avoiding the principal objection to other copying apparatus. It should be borne in mind that no other typewriter but the Caligraph can produce stencils which will give uniformly clear copies, for the reason that the type of this writing machine strikes on a flat surface, and not on a round platen as in other instruments. Where documents of a confidential character have to be distributed by the hundred it is very convenient to have the means of producing them in one's own office. Mimeographs can be supplied from note size up to brief. They can be had for typewriter and autographic reproduction combined, or for either purpose only. JAMES E. CUNNINGHAM, Official Shorthand Writer and Caligraph Agent, Lyndhurst-chambers, Elizabeth-street. Box 935, G.P.O. Telephone 1048.
